Senate Passes 2 Billion Relief Bill

PUBLIC WORKS, AID FOR JOBLESS ARE INCLUDED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—[Special.]—Two billion dollars more for relief was voted by the senate today.

SENATOR WAGNER. [Fotograms.]

The senate agreed to the Wagner federal loan and construction bill, and before passing it added to the measure the Wagner 300 million dollar direct relief bill which it had already once passed and which is now pending in the house.

By the senate's action federal relief projects in the sum of two billion 300 million dollars are now wrapped up in the one bill.

Half Billion for Building.

That total is divided as follows:

For loans to states for the direct relief of the unemployed [the first Wagner bill], 300 millions; for federal construction projects, 500 millions; for loans to states and their political subdivisions and to private corporations for public, self-liquidating projects, as toll bridges, tunnels, water works, and canals, one billion 460 millions, for financing agricultural exports, $40,000,000.

An amendment by Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], which would have permitted Chicago and other cities to borrow up to a total of 200 million dollars in order to pay their unpaid teachers, failed of passage.

Chicago Seeks Amendment.

The defeat of the Harrison amendment drove Chicago representatives to an admitted final hope of amending the relief bill in conference so that the $300 millions for direct relief will be distributed according to need instead of population. Fred W. Sargent, North Western railroad president, who still is in Washington as Chicago's relief spokesman, announced that such an effort would be made by Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.].

Mr. Britten will also ask that loans direct to cities instead of through the states be authorized.

Following the passage of the relief measure the senate took up the economy bill conference report. Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] vigorously assailed President Hoover and his cabinet for failure to cooperate in cutting appropriation bills. Opposition to the enforced furlough plan for federal employés, which the house adopted last Monday, was forecast.

Consideration of the relief bill was under cloture, with a five minute limit on speeches. Thanks to this rule, speedy progress was made and the concluding amendments passed upon in four hours.

Public Works Issue Up.

Passage of the bill immediately raised the double question of a possible veto by President Hoover and of a possible fight between the senate and the house. The issue lies in the 500 million dollars for public works.

For the second time today the administration suffered a distinct defeat in its desire to eliminate from proposed relief measures all provisions for an expanded public works program.

Beaten yesterday in an effort to strike out the 500 millions altogether, Senator George H. Moses [Rep., N. H.] sought today to obtain passage of an amendment giving the President the initiative in deciding what federal construction, if any, should be performed; he was to decide from the standpoint of the treasury's ability to float the necessary bond issues and on the basis of whether or not the projects were necessary and would provide actual employment.

Amendment Is Rejected.

The amendment was decisively rejected, 20 to 50.

No sooner had the bill received final approval than Senator Moses stormed to his feet to denounce the measure and predict that it would unbalance the budget by 327 millions, depress the

Victim's Kind Heart Makes Bandit Repent

Richard Rollins, 20 years old, has been a wayfarer since he wandered away from home in Detroit in 1926. He never did a day's work in his life. Still, in the queer world of shuffling men in which he exists, where mooching a dime is looked on as a stroke of good business, Rollins has developed an outsize conscience.

Yesterday he turned bandit. It seemed to be a logical thing to do. He was hungrier than usual, he had found a rusty pistol in an ash can and the mooching was poor.

At Randolph street and the lake he found his victim: a quiet, grayhaired man sitting in an automobile. Rollins stepped in, sat beside him and displayed the pistol.

Victim Divides His Money.

"It's a stickup," he said. "I don't like to do it, but I'm hungry."

"Sure," said the stranger cheerfully. "I can understand that. I'm broke and out of work myself, but I feel sorry for you. Suppose we split what I've got."

Rollins agreed that would do. The victim counted out $3.04 and gave the gunman—whose gun was too rusty to shoot and besides had no bullets—$1.77.

"Now," said Rollins, "I'll have to have your car. But you stand on the street and I'll only drive a block. Then you can come and get the car."

As the bandit drove away the man robbed waved from the sidewalk and said something in a pleasant tone.

Conscience Hurts Him.

Rollins left the car as he promised and ducked into an alley. A little later he was sitting before a large beef stew in a restaurant. But his conscience rose up and choked him. He couldn't eat. He paid his bill and walked over to Wabash avenue and Adams street, where he handed his pistol to Traffic Policeman Richard Downs.

He told his story and asked to be locked up. Policeman Downs said he was sorry to do it, but took him to the detective bureau. There Rollins was held without booking. Perhaps he won't even be charged with the robbery.

"That man," asserted the prisoner, "won't complain about me. He said he wouldn't and I believed him. That's what made me feel so bad. That and what he said as I drove away."

"What did he say?" a policeman asked.

Richard Rollins, bum, choked on his Adam's apple. "He said: 'Good-by and God bless you.'"

Portland, Ore., June 23.—(AP)—Dr. Clarence True Wilson, head of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition, and public morals, is scheduled to go to trial here next week on a charge of reckless driving.

A warrant for Dr. Wilson's arrest has been on file at police headquarters since Feb. 23, two days after his motor car collided with another driven by L. F. Welch of Portland.

Although Dr. Wilson is in Portland, police had not served the warrant. They explained Bert E. Haney, Dr. Wilson's attorney, had agreed to a trial Tuesday or Wednesday.

Welch charged the dry leader was speeding and failed to stop before entering a through street.

"If the driver of the other car had been as strong a believer in prohibition as I am, the accident wouldn't have happened," Dr. Wilson said.

ELECTROSCOPE FINDS RADIUM NEEDLES IN ASHES

When three radium needles, valued at $75 each, were thrown away with soiled dressings after they were used in treating a patient at the county hospital yesterday morning, hospital authorities notified the insurance company, which sent an investigator. The investigator carried an electroscope, a sensitive instrument that indicates when it is near radium. The electroscope was used to trace the lost needles to the incinerator, and there they were found in the large pile of ashes. First the ashes were divided into wheelbarrowloads, then into shovelfuls, and finally into small sacks, and the needles were recovered.

French Wives May Be Freed from "Obey"

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Copyright, 1932, By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, June 23.—Under the slightly ironical gaze of fashionably dressed women who crowded the galleries, the cautious fathers of the French senate today, after a year of pussyfooting, took up the question of whether women shall be allowed to vote, or whether they will have to content themselves with telling their men folk how to do it, as in the past.

Overshadowing the debate on woman suffrage, which will not be finished until next week, the government took the first step towards emancipation of married women from the theoretical bondage which they have endured since the days of Napoleon. Under terms of the bill introduced in the senate by Minister of Justice Rene Renoult, French wives will not longer have to obey their husbands.

Farce of Wifely Slavery.

This bill if passed—and passage seems reasonably sure—will end one of the quaintest anomalies of the French social scheme. Although French women always have played an important rôle in the social, intellectual and even political life of the country, they have been legally slaves to their husbands. They are forbidden to go into business or a profession without the consent of their husband, and can't take out a passport to travel, open a bank account or appear in court. The husbands are even empowered by the code Napoleon to supervise their wives' private correspondence.

All of that will be ended if the present bill is approved. The only prerogative maintained for the husband will be authority over the children and the right to choose the family residence.

Doubt Female Suffrage.

Approval of unrestricted female suffrage by the diehard senate is considered very doubtful. The women are counting at least on getting equal civil rights with the men as proposed by the government bill and possibly limited suffrage.

One compromise bill suggested that a vote should be given to women heads of a family over 30 as a starter. The senate was packed with women today, but there were no disorders as the ladies were only admitted under personal guaranty to individual senators that they would behave.

MAYOR TO GET CASH FOR TWO WEEKS' SALARIES

Money to School and Municipal Staffs.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Mayor Cermak provided half a month's pay yesterday for the city and school employés. The distribution of the approximately $4,500,000 among the 23,000 employés will start this morning.

The mayor made the money available from the trust and surplus funds of the city after obtaining favorable responses from a number of large property owners who were asked to pay their taxes for 1928, 1929, and 1930, and after he had conferred with local bankers. In order to relieve the distress among city and school employés the mayor is assuming the taxpayers will pay 4½ million dollars in the next week.

M. S. SZYMCZAK. [Moffett Photo.]

Deficiency in Fund.

The aggregate of city's funds, which is the cash of trust, surplus, and other funds in the city treasury, totaled $20,623,000 last night, but against that there are contingent, direct, and trust claims of $38,110,158. Therefore there is a deficiency of cash on hand to meet reserves of $17,487,000, according to City Controller Szymczak.

For some of these reserves there is pressing need in the immediate future. On July 1—a week away—the city will be called upon to pay $8,500,000 in bonds and interest of the city and school board. This obligation, Controller Szymczak said last night, will be met. Accordingly, there will be only $6,000,000 left in the city treasury if the large taxpayers fail to keep the pledges made yesterday.

"If further pay rolls are to be released," said a statement by Mayor Cermak, "a united and concerted effort must first be made by the school teachers and other municipal employés to have back taxes due local governments paid as soon as possible. This alone is the solution of our problem. If back taxes are paid our credit will be restored. Further pay rolls depend upon the increased amount paid in taxes for 1928, 1929, and especially for 1930."

"No Hope for U. S. Aid."

Earlier in the day Mayor Cermak said that he had no hope of getting money from congress.

"They are fiddling away while our people face hunger," commented the mayor. "Congress might just as well quit and go home, as far as the country is concerned. I hope for no relief from Washington."

After making this statement the mayor started appealing to the large taxpayers. About 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, he summarized his efforts as follows:

"The facts pertaining to the condition of the unpaid school teachers, policemen, firemen, and other municipal employés have evidently made an impression upon the taxpayers, who for one reason or another have not paid their 1928, 1929, and 1930 taxes.

Big Taxpayers to Pay.

"Many of the large taxpayers appealed to have expressed a willingness to pay their back taxes, at least up to 75 per cent, inasmuch as they feel that no matter what the final result of the court hearings will be, they will be expected to pay at least that amount for the continuation of the government."

Because of these favorable replies, and a conference with the bankers, the mayor said: "We are in a more optimistic frame of mind today than we have been for some time."

The total of unpaid taxes which the mayor is trying to collect is about 260 million dollars. Of the 1930 taxes now in collection, about 144 million out of a total levy for the county of 290 million dollars remains unpaid. Of the 260 million levied for 1929 about 82 million dollars remains unpaid, and of the 219 million levied for 1928 18 million has not been paid. In these totals are millions levied against personal property which are looked upon by many as uncollectable.

Total of Unpaid Wages.

The unpaid city pay rolls total $7,800,000, and those of the school board aggregate $23,025,169. Of this school total, $5,743,000 is for unpaid salaries and wages of 1931. Of the funds

Miss Marbury Arrives with Her Ready Wit

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Democracy's oldest woman delegate brought a famed sense of humor, a couple of canes, and much political commonsense to Chicago yesterday. They were all perceptible last night in a suite at the Knickerbocker hotel, where Miss Elisabeth Marbury of New York, play broker, politician, and personage in her own right, was settled.

If she'd been a man, she is credited with remarking, she would probably have been President, "because I'm so fond of fishing." Being a woman, she is content to help make Presidents, in her capacity as national committeewomen from New York, and to enjoy herself hugely in the process. Any Democratic convention is fun enough for four years, says this 76 year old individualist.

She Interviews Herself.

It isn't necessary to interview Miss Marbury. It is only necessary to scribble busily as she interviews herself, talking rapidly, forcefully, comically and continuously on topics suggested by her experience at three previous conventions.

These topics are four—the Presidential candidates, the repeal plank, the tax problem, and Norman Mack, her political partner from New York, a member of the Democratic national committee since 1900.

"I'm on happy speaking terms with all but two of the candidates," says Miss Marbury from the depths of a cushiony big chair. "I haven't the pleasure of knowing Mr. Garner of Texas or Mr. Bill Murray of Oklahoma. I hope to rectify that during the convention—yes, certainly. And I may say I am on genial terms with all the bureaus of strategy; that is, I think I am. You know, in the old days we had Jim and Bill and Pete. Now we have bureaus of strategy.

Open Mind on Candidates.

"Reading all the terrorizing prophesies being made, I'd say each candidate ought to be equipped with a tractor as well as a suitcase, so that he could roll right down the convention aisles and gather up the delegates he needs. President Hoover's tractor seemed to work beautifully.

"I'm not going to pick out any one man and say I'm for him. I'm going into this convention with a mind as clear and open as a white page.

"My candidate, I said long ago, is the one who makes the least mistakes between now and the convention. I think all candidates ought to be treated like Trappist monks, once they've declared themselves. For their own good they ought to be sentenced to silence until the convention is over. Whoever is nominated is the man I'll support.

She's for a Repeal Plank.

"Now about a repeal plank. First and last I think we should vote for repeal. And pending repeal there ought to be referenda in the states. I was the first woman to speak up against the prohibition legislation when it was enacted. If Mrs. Ella Boole ever thinks of me, she is offering prayers for me now.

"I never got hysterical about people being deprived of their liberties. There hasn't been any deprivation—as far as I can see. Whoever wants a drink gets it. I'd like a cocktail as much as the next fellow, but I suffer with arthritic rheumatism that doesn't permit me to indulge.

"So that's all hooey about deprivation. I said before it was adopted and I say now, it's an economic matter. I said it couldn't be enforced. Look at the thousands we've spent

65 ROOSEVELT LEADERS FIGHT 2-THIRDS RULE

Act as Smith Plays Trump Card.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Confident that they have control of the forthcoming Democratic national convention, the Roosevelt forces assumed a militant offensive late last night.

A meeting of 65 national committeemen, state chairmen, and other leaders favoring Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York for the nomination adopted a resolution declaring for abrogation of the century old two-thirds rule governing nominations. With the rule abolished, Roosevelt, his managers declared, would be nominated on an early ballot, probably the first. The two-thirds rule requires 770 votes. If it is abolished only a majority, 578, would be required. The Roosevelt managers claim 691 in sight and the Smith headquarters concedes 570 to the New York governor.

Farley Issues Statement.

"At a meeting of the friends of Gov. Roosevelt, consisting of leading Democrats from practically every state and territory, the following resolution was adopted unanimously:

"'That it be the sense of this gathering of the friends of Franklin D. Roosevelt that we pledge ourselves to do all within our power to bring about the abolition of the two-thirds rule and the adoption of the majority rule in this convention.'"

The Roosevelt council of war also declared enough votes in sight to elect Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana permanent chairman over Jouett Shouse and thereby establish complete control of the convention.

"Let's Both Quit," Smith Says.

This action followed hard upon the playing of a trump card by Al Smith earlier in the night to head off the nomination of Roosevelt. Through his floor manager, Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, Mr. Smith suggested the elimination of both himself and Gov. Roosevelt from consideration and agreement on one of the lesser candidates as a compromise nominee.

Mr. Smith declined to comment on the Roosevelt move to abrogate the two-thirds rule, but anti-Roosevelt leaders indicated they would fight it to the last ditch. They contend that a two-thirds vote is necessary to abrogation. J. Bruce Kremer of Montana, selected by the Roosevelt faction for chairman of the rules committee, said a special rule would be proposed empowering the convention to abolish the two-thirds rule at any time. With such special rule adopted, he held, only a majority vote would be required to get rid of the two-thirds rule.

Claim of Smith Camp.

The Smith maneuver to eliminate Roosevelt was executed in a formal statement issued by Mayor Hague asserting that the New York governor would be unable to carry the populous eastern and central states and therefore would be unable to defeat President Hoover in the election. Much as he favors Mr. Smith for the nomination, Mr. Hague suggested that the convention turn for the nominee to one of the following in the order named:

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland.
Melvin A. Traylor of Illinois.
Newton D. Baker of Ohio.
Gov. George White of Ohio.
Gov. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray of Oklahoma.
Former Sen. James A. Reed of Missouri.
Former Gov. Harry Byrd of Virginia.
Sen. James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois.

Mayor Hague's statement was approved by Mr. Smith before being issued and was accepted as an authoritative offer by Mr. Smith to renounce his candidacy for the nomination in the interest of party success in November if Gov. Roosevelt would do likewise.

Farley Reads Statement.

After reading the Hague statement James A. Farley, manager of the Roosevelt campaign, said:

"Gov. Roosevelt's friends have not come to Chicago to criticize, cry down or defame any Democrat from any part of the country. This, I believe, is sufficient answer to Mr. Hague's statement."

Mr. Hague began by saying that as vice chairman of the Democratic national committee and leader of the New Jersey Democracy he felt it his duty to warn the delegates to the convention that Gov. Roosevelt, if nominated, "has no chance of winning at the election in November."

"I have felt out public sentiment not alone here but in practically every state in the Union, particularly those states east of the Mississippi, and I am brought to the conclusion that he cannot carry a single state east of the Mississippi and very few in the far west," he went on.

"It has been demonstrated in the contested primaries in which Roosevelt was a candidate that he has never carried a single large city, which clearly indicates that the people in the populous centers do not regard him as the right man to lead. In the state of California with the entire organization and the Democratic machinery with him he failed to carry the large centers three to one and was overwhelmingly defeated. Massachusetts told an even more disastrous story.

"The Democratic party has the greatest opportunity in its history. Now is the time for the leaders representing the various delegations at present supporting Roosevelt to analyze what I say and see for themselves that their candidate cannot be victorious. It is very apparent that any man who cannot carry New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, and the other New England states, together with the middle west, and very few states in the far west, is not the man for the party leaders to choose in this crisis.

A Golden Opportunity.

"The Democratic party has a golden opportunity, a fact which every man and woman interested in Democracy knows, but for the party at this time to select the weakest man before the people, cannot bring the party success nor alleviate through such a candidate the conditions from which our people are suffering.

"There is no doubt that much misrepresentation was made to leaders as to Roosevelt's strength throughout the country and as to the individuals and elements in the party that were supposedly backing him. Some of the leaders have blindly climbed aboard the Roosevelt band wagon with no thought in mind but patronage, disregarding what the future may hold for the party itself and never seriously considering the type of candidate that the country needs. These leaders should recognize the fact that after the convention their candidate must stand the acid test of the electorate as well as the critical eyes of the press of this country.

Roosevelt Fails to "Sell" Self.

"Gov. Roosevelt has utterly failed in his last two efforts to sell himself to the press of the country. The editorial comment of all the leading dailies has been most unfavorable. If that is their attitude prior to the convention, what can the future hold?

"It is commonly known that Republican leaders are hoping that Gov. Roosevelt will be the nominee and some have publicly expressed themselves that their only hope for victory lies in the possibility of Roosevelt becoming the candidate.

"One of the most distinguished figures in the Republican convention said that the Democrats have an almost incredible habit of running their train off the track just as it is nearing the station. Obviously he could have had nothing else in his mind than the nomination of the present governor of New York. That, at least, should warn the Democratic leaders of the country that they should be on their guard and think of the future of the party instead of worrying whether they can attract a friendly smile from the candidate.

"I am genuinely interested because the tendency of the people of New Jersey has been to support the Republican national ticket in presidential years. It is only fair as the leader of the party in New Jersey and having its interests at heart, to predict that if Gov. Roosevelt is nominated our state will be in the Republican column, missing an opportunity. If the right man is nominated we will carry a Republican state which has given 300,000 majority to Republican candidates for President and turn it into a Democratic majority of at least 150,000 at the coming election.

Knows His State.

"When I speak of New Jersey I know what I am talking about because I have made a careful analysis of the sentiment which prevails against the nomination of Gov. Roosevelt. If he is named we will lose a victory for which we have been waiting for the last twelve years.

"It is generally known that I have always been an admirer and advocate of former Gov. Smith. Entirely aside from any personal desire to see this man, who is a leader and statesman, closer to the people and their needs than any other man in America, be given the leadership at a time when he is so badly needed I want to call attention to the fact that there is a wealth of material before the convention—Gov. Ritchie, Melvin A. Traylor, John N. Garner, Newton D. Baker, Gov. White, Gov. Murray, Senator Reed, Gov. Byrd, and Senator Lewis, any one of whom meets the recent situation better than the governor of New York.

"I feel it my duty to warn the leaders of the party that if they are sincere and have the best interests of the party at heart it is their duty, after a proper investigation of conditions and the sounding out of sentiment in their own states, before they become parties to placing in nomination a candidate who cannot win, to give serious consideration to these outstanding statesmen whose names will go before the convention. Why consider the one man who is weakest in the eyes of the rank and file?

"In conclusion I might call to the attention of the leaders of the country the statement made by the Roosevelt forces as to his strength in the state of New York. In 1928 he was elected governor by 25,000 [a presidential year] and in 1930, an off year, he was elected by 727,000—a year in which 1,432,110 citizens failed to vote as compared to 1928. If they had voted, where would Roosevelt be? If they wanted him for governor they certainly would have voted. Will they vote in 1932? Yes! For whom?"

Concede 570 Roosevelt Votes.

Somewhat of a sensation was caused along candidates' row at the Congress by figures issued by Mrs. Henry Moskowitz of the Smith high command conceding 570 votes to Roosevelt on the first ballot, exclusively of Indiana, Minnesota and New York. Inasmuch as Roosevelt has not less than 36 of the New York delegation, 25 in Indiana, and presumably will have the contested 24 of Minnesota by virtue of control of the convention, Mrs. Moskowitz in effect conceded Roosevelt 659 on the first ballot which would be a majority of 164 and 111 short of the 770 required to nominate under the two-thirds rule. No aspirant ever got that close to a nomination in a Democratic national convention without being nominated.

Mrs. Moskowitz's figures follow:

Calls on Cermak.

Mr. Smith spent the day actively negotiating to stop the nomination of Roosevelt. Among those he called on was Mayor Cermak, whom he sounded on the intentions of the Illinois delegation. He did not ask votes for himself from the Illinois delegation. He was chiefly interested in learning how long the Illinois delegation might be relied upon to hold out against Roosevelt. Mr. Smith assured Mayor Cermak that Roosevelt cannot be nominated. The mayor avoided committing himself on the course he will pursue with regard to the nomination.

Inasmuch as the Illinois delegation is only nominally for Senator Lewis, Mayor Cermak, it is understood, is chiefly interested in bringing about the nomination of Mr. Traylor. If unable to achieve this purpose Mayor Cermak, it is believed, would be open to a proposition to place Mr. Traylor in second place on the ticket. It would occasion no surprise if the ticket were Roosevelt and Traylor.

Deride Hague Statement.

The Hague statement was discussed with varying degrees of derision at the Roosevelt night meeting. Huey Long, the Louisiana "Kingfish," harangued the gathering with a discourse to the effect that he was against Roosevelt until he found that Wall street was trying to defeat the New York governor. Thereupon the "kingfish" signed up for Roosevelt.

Earlier in the day in furtherance of the plan to abrogate the two-thirds rule Senator Long was shifted from the resolutions to the rules committee. He will lead the fight which, it is expected, will start in the rules committee.

Opposed by South.

Senator Long was picked for this role because, hitherto, the south has steadfastly opposed the abandonment of the rule. This time, however, virtually all of the Roosevelt delegation from the south are in favor of the change to majority nomination.

One plan reported under consideration is to provide for the suspension of the two-thirds rule after the fifth ballot. Support for the change is sought on the ground that it would prevent a deadlock such as that of the 103 ballots in Madison Square Garden in 1924, which left the party disorganized.

Leaders of the allied forces opposing Roosevelt pronounce the maneuvers to get the two-thirds rule abrogated a confession of weakness on the part of the New York governor's manager. They hurl back the retort that Roosevelt's manager, Mr. Farley, well knows his candidate cannot last a dozen ballots and therefore wants the conditions modified after the fifth roll call. They also contend that the two-thirds rule cannot be abolished without abolishing the unit rule governing many delegations and that in any event it would take a two-thirds vote of the convention to get rid of the two-thirds nominating rule.

McAdoo Working for Garner.

William Gibbs McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury and son-in-law of Woodrow Wilson, spent several hours in candidates' row making courtesy calls and cultivating a friendly attitude toward the presidential boom of Jack Garner of Texas, speaker of the house of representatives. He called first at the Roosevelt and next at the Smith headquarters, where he found Mr. Smith, his bitter foe of the Madison Square Garden battle. Mr. McAdoo was closeted with Mr. Smith for some time and upon emerging parried the reporters' questions. He denied they had discussed anything pertaining to the convention.

"We jollied each other about 1924," said Mr. McAdoo, "and exchanged pleasantries and anecdotes. Yes, and we talked about flying."

"What do you mean, jollying about 1924?" Mr. McAdoo was asked.

"That is surprising, isn't it?" Mr. McAdoo countered. "If you haven't got a sense of humor after eight years it's just too bad."

Visits Other Headquarters.

After that Mr. McAdoo visited the Reed, Traylor, Byrd, and Ritchie headquarters. He expressed confidence that Garner would receive considerable support from states other than Texas and California. He denied, as did Mr. Farley, the truth of a story of a deal to make the ticket Roosevelt and Garner. Mr. McAdoo denounced as unfair the plan to abrogate the two-thirds rule at this late stage without previous notification to the electors.

Gov. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray of Oklahoma, arrived yesterday and established himself at his headquarters. He will have the 22 delegates from his state and one delegate from North Dakota. He does not expect to be nominated and does not profess to know who will be, but is certain it will not be Roosevelt.

Another favorite son candidate who reached Chicago was Senator James A. Reed of Missouri. He talked at length to the reporters exposing repeal of the eighteenth amendment and demanding that "the atrocities of the Volstead act be taken off."

The paramount economic issue, said the Missourian, is "the restoration of confidence in this country so that those with money to invest will invest it. The way to bring this about is to reduce government expenses and lower federal taxes to at least what they were before the billion dollar tax raise bill was passed."

BEGIN PLATFORM WORK; STRESS ECONOMIC ISSUES

Roosevelt Forces Control; Hitchcock Chairman.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The Roosevelt forces appeared in the saddle in the provisional resolutions committee, which yesterday took up the preparation of a tentative platform, informal and unofficial, in advance of the Democratic national convention which assembles Monday. Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Omaha, former senator from Nebraska, the Roosevelt choice for chairman of the committee, was unanimously elected to that post. He was nominated by Senator Cordell Hull of Tennessee, who was mentioned for the place by the Roosevelt camp but declined it.

Economic issues, reduction of governmental costs and of the army of pay rollers, taxes and unemployment, farm relief, the tariff and the depression were given the emphasis above prohibition itself in the first public hearing during the afternoon.

Prohibition Up Tomorrow.

The Roosevelt men, in preparing the program for discussion of the predominant issues placed prohibition as the final topic to be taken up in the open hearings tomorrow morning. Between now and then, agriculture, tariff, economic proposals, and labor are the main items on the agenda for the public discussions, which are to be resumed this morning.

On prohibition, the prevalent belief seems to be that the Democrats will be a plank declaring for submission of repeal of the 18th amendment, but not putting the party on record as favoring repeal, with a view of making it acceptable to drys.

Indications are that the tentative platform, which will be whipped into shape in advance of the official creation of the committee by the convention Monday, will be in every way acceptable to Roosevelt. Such was the talk that echoed in the Gold room of the Congress hotel after the initial session.

Discuss Economic Questions.

The first public hearing was devoted to arguments presented on women's rights, the bonus and economic questions. The main features were presentations from President George W. Rossetter of the Chicago Association of Commerce of the suggestions of the national organization to reduce public expenditures, and from Demarest Lloyd, secretary of the Tax Payers' union, Washington, D. C. The Rossetter arguments are dealt with in another column.

As the members assembled it began to look as if the old party mandarins were dominant. On the front rows were Norman Mack of New York, for 32 years national committeeman; Urey Woodson of Kentucky, a leading spirit back in 1896 when the "cross of gold" speech stampeded the Democrats to Bryan; A. Mitchell Palmer, member of the Wilson cabinet and a presidential candidate at San Francisco in 1920, pulling on a briar pipe; William G. McAdoo, Wilson's son-in-law and ex-cabinet member; Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, who also was in the Wilson cabinet; Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, who was La Follette's third party running mate in 1924; Michael L. Igoe of Chicago, minority leader at Springfield and retiring committeeman; William A. Comstock of Detroit, Senator C. C. Dill of Washington, and Gov. William H. Murray [Alfalfa Bill] of Oklahoma, himself in person.

Nine Senators on Committee.

Nine senators, two ex-senators, three members of the old Wilson cabinet are on the committee. The Republicans last week had three cabinet members on the platform committee and the chairman, James R. Garfield, was the White House choice.

The prevalence of Washington statesmen led to the first passage at arms, which started the big conclave off in traditional Democratic style. It was a brief duel, in which Gov. "Alfalfa Bill" in an exchange of rough and tumble repartee rooked the courtly Senator Hull in the corner pocket. "Alfalfa," smoking a thick cigar like a baby Vesuvius, arose and remarked through the haze:

"Last week Chicago had a convention of Republican postmasters. We don't want it said that this is a convention of senators and congressmen ——"

"And governors," interjected Senator Hull from across the aisle.

"Yes," croaked Alfalfa Bill through his heavy mustache. "But the governors are fresh from the people, while the senators are about six years behind the times."

"Alfalfa Bill," whose voice was like the raven's, had his throat tied up in a woolen muffler. "Been making speeches for two weeks," he explained. "Some places they had no loud speakers, so I had to amplify with the old lungs."

Hitchcock Stresses Issues.

Chairman Hitchcock, who was the Woodrow Wilson leader in the senate, at once laid stress on the economic issue. He echoed the sentiments of Senator Hull, who had said the delegates ought to be "thrown into Lake Michigan" if, like the Republicans, they gave silent treatment to the economic issues. Hitchcock, voicing the views of other spokesmen of Gov. Roosevelt, advocates a cut in the tariff and a national policy of measured inflation.

"We have to meet the prohibition issue," said Hitchcock, "because of what the Republicans did, but I do not regard it a party issue. I voted in the senate against the eighteenth amendment, but I am not what would be called a repealist.

"I imagine the platform will contain a direct utterance on prohibition, probably calling for the submission of a repeal amendment. Personally I am opposed to any attempt to pledge the party as such to work for repeal a move which would drive members from the party."

Meeting Starts with Bang.

At the drop of the hat the opening meeting started off with a buzz and a roar. Mr. Palmer suggested a committee of three be named to prepare a program of hearings and that a recess be taken until the morrow. Up jumped William C. Fitts of Alabama.

"Why waste 24 hours," he shouted, "when these three gentlemen can go out and bring back a program in ten minutes? When the people are looking for action, why kill a whole day?"

Thus adjured to take time by the forelock, the members decided to start public hearings at 2 o'clock. A committee appointed to prepare a program was composed of Senator Dill, Mr. Woodson, and Senator Wheeler.

Mr. McAdoo, a Garner leader, urged a subcommittee of seven be picked to draft a tentative platform, but withheld his motion until this morning at the request of Senators Wheeler and Hull, Roosevelt supporters. As the committee rose to give the three program makers a chance to take their work under advisement, "Alfalfa Bill" boomed out from the front row, "Hmmm, taking it under advisement, which means to take a drink."

Offers Business Plank.

A plank for the revival of business was offered by Demarest Lloyd of Washington when the public hearings began. He told the committee the depression is the biggest issue it has to deal with in framing a platform, overshadowing even the prohibition issue.

On behalf of the Taxpayers' Union of Washington and by authorization of the national action committee of New York, a kindred organization, he offered the following suggestion for a plank:

"The revival of business is the paramount need of the moment. Without it our population cannot be supported, if at all, on anything like the scale of which hitherto this country has been justly proud. In order to bring about such a revival it is necessary, at the earliest possible date, that the burden of taxation be lightened and more widely distributed by the two following steps:

"1. Utmost possible economy in the expenditures of government consistent with its efficient operation, adequate national defense and avoidance of serious dislocation and demoralization by summary curtailments and precipitate increase in unemployment.

"2. The introduction into the revenue law of more general income or excise taxes in order to eliminate certain discriminatory, burdensome and destructive features of the existing law which had to be passed in haste because the time element in balancing the budget was so vital."

Party Must Make Choice.

"You've got to take the choice whether to go socialistic or remain American," said Mr. Lloyd.

"Our organization is laying emphasis on the form of the tax system because that is something that can be corrected at the very opening of the next session of congress. It was almost corrected in part at the present one, before the revenue law was passed.

"First, as to the present graduated income tax, it is discriminatory inequitable, an unreliable revenue raiser, is economically destructive of our whole system of private enterprise and industry, politically demoralizing and demonstrably of socialistic inspiration in order to bring about the very results enumerated above to pave the way for complete confiscation of property and the establishment of the socialist state.

"Out of our total adult population of 72,000,000 less than two million pay individual federal income tax. The other 70,000,000 pay no income tax. Those figures in themselves show an absurd situation. Of the income tax payers I wish time permitted a thorough analysis. For instance, eight people pay 4 per cent—one-twenty-fifth of all the tax—and 7,212 pay over half of the total tax.

"If the graduated tax is abolished or made less confiscatory, which is all that can be expected for the present, how is money to be raised?

"Broaden the tax base. There is no other way. There are two ways to do it: one a flat rate income tax collected at the source, that is immediately on payment of interest, dividends, rents, salaries or wages, or a general sales tax.

"The general sales tax is the fairest, most effective and least burdensome method of raising substantial revenue in both good and bad times. If the general manufacturers' sales tax proposed by the house ways and means committee would, as estimated raise $800,000,000, a more general sales tax on manufacturers, wholesalers and importers along the lines of the Canadian model would raise somewhere between $900,000,000 and $1,200,000,000 without inflicting a crushing burden on any one."

Argues for Soldier Bonus.

Harold B. Foulkrod of Philadelphia, head of the legislative committee of the bonus expeditionary forces, a combat medal veteran, argued for a plank for immediate payment of adjusted compensation.

"We're not interested in balancing the budget, but in balancing the messkit," he said. "America is in the situation it finds itself simply because those supposed to be big shots have proved to be blank cartridges.

"We have found the veterans' bureau has been turned into a political machine. There are men in the veterans' bureau who fought the war in swivel chairs, wrapping their spurs over mahogany roll top desks. They are getting $6,000 salaries and maybe have part of the family on the pay roll, while men who fought overseas are on the corner selling apples. It's the fault of hijacking politicians."

Want Changes in Bureau.

"Herbert Hoover is the greatest recruiting agent for the communist party it ever had. We don't want to raid the treasury; we don't want a dole; we are for payment of adjusted compensation. We'd also like to see a change in the personnel of the veterans' bureau. Don't forget Gen. Coxey—he ran for mayor twenty-nine times and lost, but was elected the thirtieth time."

An appeal to the Democrats to include in their platform a declaration for women to stand on equal rights with men was made by Miss Muna Lee of Porto Rico, director of national activities for the National Women's party.

Miss Lee asked that women be put on an absolute parity with men, especially in labor problems.

Miss Catherine Waugh McCulloch volunteered to speak in opposition to the proposals of Miss Lee. The League of Women Voters, for which she spoke, and other women's organizations have long stood for equality, but the method of applying equality should be specific and is so being met, Mrs. McCulloch declared.

THREE LEADERS STAND OUT IN ROOSEVELT CAMP

Three individuals stand out in the Roosevelt for President camp as the drama called the Democratic national convention draws near — a trio whose personalities portray three distinct types of American politician.

SEN. T. J. WALSH.

Predominant in the group is the affable but hard hitting James A. Farley of New York, a typical big city politician who boasts that he is self-made and who can fall as easily into the jargon of the Bowery as into the polite patter of Park avenue. Mr. Farley is the Roosevelt campaign manager.

As chairman of the New York state Democratic committee in 1930, Jim Farley foresaw the national significance of the 750,000 majority rolled up by Roosevelt in winning the New York governorship, and since then has been barnstorming the country for his candidate until now he professes to see the fulfillment of his dream to be the maker of a President.

A Great Legal Mind.

In contrast to the strapping New Yorker is the elderly and austere Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, one of the great legal minds of the Democratic party and grand inquisitor of the Teapot Dome scandal. Senator Walsh presided at the wracking and tumultuous New York convention of 1924 and the Roosevelt forces would make him permanent chairman of the Chicago convention. He is expected from Washington this week-end.

Lastly there is the courtly Homer S. Cummings of Connecticut, a Chicagoan by birth but a New Englander by descent and upbringing, who despite his suave and languid mien is said to be one of the keenest and most eloquent orators in the party. A former Democratic national chairman and a member of the national committee for more than twenty-five years, Mr. Cummings ranks as a Nestor in the party and is senior counsellor of the Roosevelt forces.

A Phenomenal Memory.

"James A. Farley is a self-made man," writes one of his publicity experts in a New York puff sheet. "He is an avid reader of biographies and a close observer of events, has a phenomenal memory and possesses the rare perception to unerringly analyze people and events. He neither drinks nor smokes."

The paragraph betrays no exaggeration, impartial observers say. Concerning Farley's efforts to put Roosevelt in the White House, the biographer continues in this vein:

"In this quiet, personal effort on behalf of a friend, Farley has paralleled a state-wide acquaintance with a nation-wide one. From a state leader, he has emerged a national figure. It is a long trip from Grassy Point, his birthplace, to front page headlines across the length and breadth of the United States. Jim Farley has made it in forty-four years.

His Way Is Upward.

"He is still young, still energetic, still ambitious. Where the journey will lead in the future, only time can tell. But it will still be upwards. That is Jim's way."

The biographer weaves in an ingenious account of how an aspiring young man may mix business and politics to his own profit. There is no mention of Tammany but the Farley men in the Roosevelt suite at the Congress hotel say their chief is "very close" to Boss Curry of Tammany Hall.

Farley was born May 30, 1888, at Grassy Point, N. Y., on the upper reaches of the Hudson. He graduated from the local high school and a New York commercial school and in 1906 set out calling on the building trade as a salesman for the United States Gypsum company. Meanwhile he was elected town clerk, town supervisor, and state assemblyman.

By 1919 Farley was becoming a political power. Gov. Smith first named him New York port warden and later chairman of the New York boxing commission. In 1921 he left the United States Gypsum company to become sales manager of the Universal Gypsum company. Five years ago he launched out for himself and formed the General Building Supply company which, New Yorkers say, is all that its name implies.

Faces Forty Reporters.

Forty reporters faced Farley yesterday in his suite at the Congress. The questions came with embarrassing speed and directness, but Farley, except for two lapses, didn't miss a turn. When one reporter with a grin asked his comment on the Sharkey-Schmeling fight decision, he brushed the question aside.

Another news man got him in a corner on the Democratic prohibition plank. The interrogation went as follows:

Q.—How far will Gov. Roosevelt go on a wet plank? A.—The answer is that the governor will accept any plank the convention writes.

Q.—But your forces claim to be in a position to write any sort of plank you want? A.—The opposition doesn't concede our control.

Q.—No, but you assert that you have control?

The discussion ended there. Mr. Farley pulled himself up to his full 6 feet 2 inches and delivered a mild rebuke. He wasn't being critical or plaintive, he said, but the newspapers had been overanxious to magnify the few victories scored by Gov. Smith and minimize the Roosevelt triumphs. Few of the reporters seemed chastened.

Country School Teacher.

Senator Walsh is a man of different origin. Born June 12, 1859, at Two Rivers, Wis., he studied at the University of Wisconsin and began his career as a country school teacher in his native Manitowoc county. A few years later he set up a law practice in Redfield, S. D., and in 1890 moved to Helena, Mont., where he attracted more than local notice by his vigorous attacks on the Anaconda Copper Mining company.

In a try for the national house of representatives he was defeated, but in 1912 he won the senate seat, which he has since retained. Senator Walsh is a constitutional dry, but has said he will abide by the decision of his state on the resubmission question. He is also a foe of the power trust, but seldom digs into the Montana Power company, an offshoot of Anaconda Copper, with whom he made peace long ago.

Despite his 73 years and snowy hair, the senator is a vigorous man. His eyes still flash under his shaggy brows as he views with anxiety the course of democracy laid out by the Republican party. As chairman in the bitter struggle in the Madison Square Garden convention Senator Walsh, a Catholic, was arbiter of the religious and racial row which was raised over a proposed plank denouncing the Ku Klux Klan. Although Gov. Smith was of the same faith, Walsh had refused to support him and told the warring leaders that as presiding officer he could show no favors to candidates or policies.

Quells Convention Row.

Mr. Cummings also figured prominently in the New York convention. As chairman of the resolutions committee he succeeded for a time in quelling the rancor that the religious issue had inspired. He told the delegates how his committee had labored three days with only six hours' sleep. He roused them to united applause by mentioning the magic name of William Jennings Bryan, and sent them out to recess subdued.

"We were tired," he said. "We were trying to get that harmony and amity which as Democrats we should have. And there, in the hopeless gloom of men apart we stood in that room lacking even another syllable to further our cause.

"Then, ladies and gentlemen, one of our number was inspired. William Jennings Bryan lifted his voice in the Lord's prayer. And wearily, but with renewed spirit, we joined him. Together we repeated the Lord's prayer."

[Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.]

Albany, N. Y., June 23.—(AP)—Two developments at the Democratic national convention in Chicago would take Gov. Roosevelt to the scene to address the delegates, it was learned today.

The first would be the prospect of a prolonged deadlock between himself and his seven rivals for the presidential nomination. The second would be in event he was nominated and his advisers thought his presence would soothe the feelings of unsuccessful rivals and their followers.

While the governor said yesterday that he was not planning on going to Chicago, it became known that he still is considering the journey.

Roosevelt tonight was giving final consideration to the nominating speech which an old friend, John E. Mack of Poughkeepsie, will deliver. Mr. Mack was a dinner guest at the executive mansion. He was expected to entrain for Chicago Saturday.

NOTES OF DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

Fourteen hundred additional seats have been ordered placed in the delegates' arena at the Stadium for the Democratic convention, R. G. Sullivan, controller of the hall, announced. The Republicans had 1,800 there but the Democratic system of splitting a vote into fractions makes it necessary to prepare for 3,200 delegates and alternates. The only other change in the physical arrangements of the hall will be the raising of the press section six inches, making it two feet higher than the arena.

Bernard M. Baruch of New York, adviser to the late President Wilson, will be at the Blackstone hotel during the convention.

Clarence Darrow, the attorney, was the center of an impromptu gathering outside the Florentine room in the Congress. Sounded out on his politics he announced he is for Roosevelt "unless it gets around to Newton Baker." He saw an old friend, James A. Reed of Missouri, stated a deep seated antipathy to President Hoover, and talked on prohibition. "I'm for doing everything possible to get rid of it," he declared. He believes the quickest way to accomplish it is by "ignoring it and cutting out all enforcement appropriations."

Lawrence J. Fenlon, president of the United Democratic Service Mens' organization, yesterday announced a banquet to service men delegates to the convention which will be held in the Great Northern hotel Tuesday night. The principal speaker is expected to be Paul V. McNutt, Democratic nominee for governor of Indiana and a former national commander of the American Legion.

Gov. John G. Pollard of Virginia, heading a group of 66 Virginians, arrived at the Congress yesterday, prepared to cast 24 votes for Mr. Pollard's predecessor, Harry F. Byrd, brother of the well known admiral. The south, said the governor, opposes straight repeal of the prohibition law but believes the people should have an opportuinty to express themselves on repeal and modification. Senator Carter Glass will take that stand for Virginia in the platform committee, the governor said.

Senator Huey P. Long raced down the mezzanine corridor of the Congress hotel yesterday afternoon whistling "Tired Of Me." "I hope that's a prophecy," muttered a delegate from the Louisiana faction opposed to "The Kingfish."

Public sale of convention tickets will begin today at the Stadium boxoffices, all Couthoui agencies, and the citizens' committee headquarters, 208 South La Salle street. The tickets are in season book form and range from $17 for the top balcony to $22 for the first balcony and $40 for the mezzanine. These are good for all sessions.

A Roosevelt floor manager, Homer S. Cummings of Connecticut, finds he must cast one-quarter of a vote for his candidate's leading rival, Al Smith. Cummings is a delegate at large and will be required to cast the quarter vote for Smith under the Connecticut rule.

President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago and Admiral Richard E. Byrd have been invited to attend a banquet sponsored by the Young Democrats of America at the La Salle hotel Monday. Floyd M. Kenlay, Mayor Cermak's son-in-law and president of the organization, will welcome the delegates.

California's invitation to attend the Olympic games in Los Angeles next month will be delivered to the convention by William A. Johnston of Los Angeles, candidate for the Democratic nomination for congress in the 13th California district. He will arrive tomorrow with the state's delegation.

7 Senators Quit Capital for Convention at Chicago

Washington, D. C., June 23.—[Special.]—Passage of the Wagner relief bill, the only controverted piece of major legislation facing congress, was the signal tonight for the beginning of an exodus of Democratic senators from the capital, bound for Chicago and the Democratic convention next week. A vanguard of seven left shortly after the senate adjourned. They were Senators Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, Millard Tydings of Maryland, Pat Harrison of Mississippi, Matthew M. Neeley of West Virginia, Josiah W. Bailey of North Carolina, Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, and Robert J. Bulkley of Ohio.

An appeal to the Democratic party to include in its national platform a definite promise to slash public expenditures, and thus restore prosperity to the nation, was delivered to the provisional resolution committee of the Democratic national convention yesterday by George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

G. W. ROSSETTER.

Mr. Rossetter appeared before the committee as the chairman and spokesman of the National Organization to Reduce Public Expenditures, which was born in Chicago three weeks ago, and which coördinates the activities for tax reductions of trade, financial and agricultural organizations in every state of the country.

Pointing out the rate at which public expenditures have mounted, Mr. Rossetter told the committee that the nation cannot go on, cannot achieve a restored economic stability, until the present high taxes are radically reduced.

"We pray that you, members of the Democratic party," said Mr. Rossetter, "may realize that all the people are interested in the immediate reduction of governmental costs."

"We feel," the speaker declared, "that the time has come when taxes must come down if the government is to live. If sanity is restored to public spending, business men will be heartened, the fear of their profits and their capital structures being confiscated will be dispelled.

"It is only in that manner that we can apply the stimulus which will bring back prosperous times. The organization which has elected me as its head, in conferences held in this city June 2 and 3, expressed the opinions and the demands of 646 organizations—chambers of commerce, agricultural groups, and trade organizations—for relief.

"We have taken steps to organize separate groups, and we are organizing them in the 48 states of the union, and eventually we will have a group functioning in every congressional district of the United States. Public sentiment already has been awakened to the need for tax reductions. We are concentrating their demands over a single fulcrum."

ALFALFA BILL HERE; TELLS HIS IDEAS ON ISSUES

Country Must Be Saved, Governor Asserts.

Gov. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray came out of the southwest yesterday with his headquarters under his battered, black federa hat. The colorful Oklahoman brought in tow 22 delegates of his home state, who set up a headquarters in the Congress hotel far down the corridor from the more lavish suites of other candidates.

Gov. Murray stopped in the headquarters only long enough to have his hair and mustache cropped and drink several cups of coffee, which he ordered with a roar of admonition that there be no milk in it. He left to participate in the meeting of the resolutions committee, where he was found by a reporter with his left hand cupped to his ear and champing a black cigar.

Won't Talk About Health.

In response to a greeting and question as to how he felt, the governor said, "I never talk about my health or the weather. Waste of time. Who cares how I am? Nobody."

He was asked who he thought the nominee will be.

"You can guess as well as I," he snapped. "But his name won't be Roosevelt; you can bet on that."

Gov. Murray declared he will support Jouett Shouse for permanent chairman, that he was against changing the two-thirds rule and that the salvation of the country depended on economic questions and not on prohibition.

Starts on New Cigar.

Here the governor lighted a fresh cigar from the butt of the first, brushing ashes from his gray coat and brownish trousers, neither of which bore any trace of a tailor's iron. He extinguished the butt by spitting on it and tossed it under his chair.

He said the Oklahoma delegation would vote for him until he told them to quit, adding that no one on earth could tell how long that would be, as it depended on psychology. He expressed his preference for Will Rogers as a running mate with, "Will, you know, is a good Oklahoma man, too."

Gov. Murray predicted a fight on the prohibition question, but refused to commit himself other than to say, "I'm not a fool about prohibition either way. That means I'm against writing a plank for the fanatics or the hoodlums. The majority of both parties are sensible people."

Country Must Be Served.

Pressed as to whether his reply was not a straddle, he said, "We've got to save this country. We will have to deal with economic questions and not the prohibition question." After a moment he added, "Whoever in hell knew of John D. Rockefeller Jr. advocating anything for restoration of state rights."

He was questioned on reports that he would accept the nomination for Vice President if his boom went astray. He answered that he had not been offered the place. In addition to the 22 votes of his state the governor has one pledged from North Dakota.

Gov. Murray assailed Melvin A. Traylor, Chicago candidate for the nomination for President, with "Traylor helped Mellon to destroy the economic system of this country in 1920. If the convention is going to nominate Traylor it should make a Mellon-Traylor ticket, adopt the Republican platform and go home secure in the belief that the Democratic party would be defeated."

EASING OF FARM TAXES SOUGHT BY ECONOMISTS

Meet Here to Plan Agriculture Aid.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Sixty prominent agricultural economists and taxation authorities yesterday opened a three day conference called by the University of Chicago in an effort to evolve an economic program for the nation's agriculture.

Pointing out that taxation has become the largest item of expense in producing food products and clothing materials on the farm, the economists are seeking means of overcoming this burden. It is the second conference of such a nature, the first a year ago bringing about a program for land utilization for the country.

Calls Taxes Confiscatory.

Taxes, particularly in recent years, have become confiscatory, said Dr. B. H. Hibbard of the University of Wisconsin. No other single item of farm expenditures has risen so high in the last 15 years, this item now standing at 266 per cent of pre-war figures. Taxes are absorbing between 1 and 2 per cent of all farm real estate annually, Dr. Hibbard said.

Adjustment in valuations between urban and rural property, specific exemptions, and the supplanting of local assessors with better trained county assessors were advocated by Dr. Hibbard.

"But that are only as cough drops in the treatment of tuberculosis, so far as correcting the main trouble is concerned," he said. Road and school taxes have for years constituted about half the total of the farmer's taxes. Centralization of the educational system and of road building activities is necessary to reduce these expenses, Dr. Hibbard contended. He also pointed out that nothing short of a revision of the whole national tax structure would bring relief to farmers.

Prof. Leland Suggests Changes.

Prof. S. E. Leland of the University of Chicago, who said that government costs were out of proportion to the taxpayers' ability to pay, proposed several possibilities of adjusting the income and property taxes to make them equitable. He would make the personal property tax "tantamount to a service charge" and make present values the starting point of a progressive system of assessments.

Under the property tax system now existing, said H. M. Groves of the Wisconsin tax commission, agriculture pays about one-fifth of the total taxes, while having about one-tenth of the national income and only one-seventh of the national wealth. While he said the income tax has become the backbone of federal revenue and that the states are taking it up, he asserted that the income tax must be given equal rank with motor vehicle taxes.

Mr. Groves named objectionable features of the present income tax system and suggested reduction or elimination of exemptions from taxation, and coördination of state and federal collections.

Meanwhile, in a hearing before the interstate commerce commission at the Sherman hotel, it was reported by Prof. R. G. Ross of the University of Illinois that Illinois farmers conducted their operations in 1931 at an average loss of 1.7 per cent. Agricultural representatives pointed out that farmers cannot afford to pay higher freight rates on live stock shipments, such as are being asked of the commission by the railroads.

CHICAGO GREETS RITCHIE TODAY WITH A PARADE

Plans for the reception and parade to be given for Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland when he reaches Chicago at 11:30 a. m. today were completed yesterday by officials of the Board of Trade, Stock exchange, Illinois Manufacturers' association, Federation of American Business Men, and the Cook County Ritchie for President committee.

Peter Carey, president of the Board of Trade, said the Board of Trade Legion band and several hundred cars would take part in the procession from the Grand Central station to the Congress hotel.

John Dulaney, secretary of the Cook County Ritchie for President committee, has invited more than 2,500 Chicago Democratic leaders to take part in the parade. At the head of the march will be the band and the car in which Gov. Ritchie will ride. The Maryland delegation and the friends of Gov. Ritchie who are coming on the special train will march on foot next in line, followed by the cars of the Chicagoans. The route will be north on Wells street to Jackson boulevard; east on Jackson to Michigan avenue, and south on Michigan to the Congress hotel.

POLITICAL RISE OF CANDIDATES SKETCHED

JOHN N. GARNER

John Nance [Cactus Jack] Garner, like Melvin A. Traylor, is another Presidential aspirant in the Democratic free for all who was born in a log cabin and raised in the obscurity of southern backwoods.

The speaker of the house of representatives, who has represented the 15th district of Texas in congress since its creation in 1903, obtained his early education—through the fourth grade—by walking six miles to the cross roads school. But a dictum of Josh Billings that any white man who owned a mule and could drive one ought to run for congress laid the foundation for young Garner's career. He bought a mule colt for $7, raised it, saved the money he earned from driving it, and managed a year in Vanderbilt university.

Garner prospered in the practice of law, edited a country weekly, acquired control of a bank, and in 1898 began his public career with a seat in the Texas legislature.

In the house, as a member of the ways and means committee, which handles finance and taxation matters, as minority leader, and finally as speaker in the present congress, Mr. Garner has opposed the high protective tariff, although looking out for his favorite item, mohair, and has advocated that the wealthy bear the greatly burden of taxation. He denounced the Mellon plan of tax reduction in 1924 on the ground that its chief benefits went to the rich, and succeeded in putting over a bill of his own.

Although he voted against the adoption of the 18th amendment, Garner has since then straddled the prohibition question, until a few days ago, when he came out for repeal. The speaker's advocacy of a billion dollar public works appropriation has made him unpopular among the foes of governmental extravagance.

NEWTON D. BAKER

To Newton Diehl Baker, attorney and twice mayor of Cleveland, fell the task of conducting the greatest military activity in which the United States was ever engaged. He was secretary of war under Woodrow Wilson when Pancho Villa was raiding the southwestern border and Gen. Pershing was dispatched to rout him, and during the world war, when 2,250,000 American soldiers were sent overseas.

After the world war Mr. Baker fought for the ideals of Wilson, the league of nations, cancellation of war debts, and repeal of the 18th amendment. As a member of the Wickersham commission, he signed the report with the other members, but attached this personal statement:

"'In my opinion, the 18th amendment should be repealed and the whole question of policy and enforcement with regard to intoxicating liquors remitted to the states."

League No Issue, He Says.

Recently Mr. Baker declared that the league of nation is not a political issue and should have no part in the coming presidential campaign. This statement was taken as his bid for the nomination.

As a lawyer, Mr. Baker was one of the leading counsel in the famous Youngstown Sheet and Tube-Bethlehem Steel merger case and was counsel for the Lake Carriers' association, which opposed the diversion of water through Chicago's sanitary and ship canal.

Mr. Baker was born in Martinsburg, W. Va., in 1871. He was graduated at Johns Hopkins university and the Washington and Lee university law school. He entered politics in Cleveland.

JAMES A. REED

Former United States Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, like Speaker Garner, sold a beast [but it was a horse instead of a mule] to buy his law books and prepare himself for his profession. Establishing himself in Kansas City when he was 26, he became city counsellor and later prosecuting attorney. In 287 felony cases he won 285 convictions.

From mayor of Kansas City he rose to United States senator, which position he held from 1911 until 1929. He gained prominence by his lobby investigation in the early days of the Wilson administration, by his attack on Herbert Hoover's food administration, and by his support of the federal reserve law.

Repudiated by Wilson.

But the senator's unrelenting vehemence in these affairs later brought about his repudiation by President Wilson, when he went up and down the country assailing the Versailles treaty and the league of nations, which he called the progeny of the international bankers. His own state convention deserted him, at the President's request, but Reed came back, with a large Republican following.

He again caught the spotlight when the senate hearings he conducted cost the seat of William S. Vare and when his investigation showed that the Anti-Saloon league had spent $35,000,000 in the dry crusade.

An ardent apostle of state's rights, he has always fought Volsteadism and dry fanatics, whom he compares with "the burners of witches, the executioners who apply the torch."

A. HARRY MOORE

The name of A. Harry Moore of New Jersey, the former messenger boy who became governor of his state, was carried throughout the world during the Lindbergh baby kidnaping investigation. The governor gave almost all his time to the inquiry which his state police conducted.

Gov. Moore, who is 53 years old, left the public schools of Jersey City at the age of 13 to become a messenger boy in a bank. He continued his education by reading textbooks on the ferry boat to New York, where his messenger work carried him.

"Red" Moore campaigned for H. Otto Wittpenn for mayor and was rewarded with a job as the mayor's secretary, which launched him in politics. He next became city tax collector and in 1912 city commissioner. He was elected governor in November, 1925, by a plurality of 40,000 votes.

Gov. Moore led the fight in New Jersey for repeal of the state dry act and is an advocate of government economy. In January, when inaugurated for his second term as governor, he urged the abolition of 35 state commissioners and the consolidation of more than 100 departments, bureaus, and commissions into 12 departments.

HUEY LONG SEAT BATTLE IS PUT OVER TILL TODAY

Roosevelt Leaders Try to Stop Subcommittee.

The struggle for seats at the Democratic convention between warring delegations from Louisiana, Minnesota, and Porto Rico was marked by sharp skirmishing and evidences of bitter feeling at a subcommittee hearing in the Congress hotel yesterday. The decisive battle is to be waged this afternoon before the Democratic national committee sitting in full.

The number of delegates' seats involved in the controversies is 61. Minnesota has 24 votes at the convention, Louisiana has 20, Porto Rico has 6, and there is one seat in the Pennsylvania delegation disputed.

The fight for the presidential nomination between Roosevelt and anti-Roosevelt forces was involved in the delegation contests yesterday. J. Bruce Kremer of Montana and Norman E. Mack of New York, national committeemen who favor Roosevelt for the nomination, invaded the subcommittee meeting and attempted to halt the proceedings.

Ask Subcommittee to Quit.

The subcommittee was appointed by the national committee to act in an advisory capacity. Kremer and Mack told the members of the subcommittee that the national committee had no authority to appoint them. They asked for an adjournment until this afternoon, when the national committee meets.

Although no direct statements were made, the objectors to the subcommittee hearing hinted that the members of the subcommittee might be more anti-Roosevelt than otherwise. All the contesting delegations, however, have declared themselves either for Roosevelt or uninstructed.

Chairman J. T. G. Crawford, national committeeman from Florida, refused to adjourn the meeting. The so-called "regular" delegations from Minnesota and Porto Rico then walked out. The subcommittee heard evidence from the contesting delegations from Minnesota and Porto Rico and also testimony concerning the contested Pennsylvania seat.

Fight Over Long Postponed.

The featured set-to between three opposing delegations from Louisiana was postponed until today by agreement of two of the three factions. Senator Huey P. [Kingfish] Long had sent word that his delegation challenged the authority of the subcommittee and would not appear. The contesting delegation led by former Gov. Jared Y. Sanders of Louisiana then asked leave not to present its case until today.

Fernand Mouton, the wise-cracking leader of the "burlesque" delegation composed of minions of Senator Long, wanted to go ahead with his arguments, but the subcommittee paid him small attention. This third delegation was brought to Chicago by the Kingfish, according to his opponents, to ridicule the Sanders group.

Sanders Assails Mouton.

"Mouton is on the Kingfish's pay roll," declared former Gov. Sanders. "The convention which elected Mouton's delegation was a widely advertised mockery. He is here as a rather poor political joke of Senator Long's."

"You shouldn't talk like that," responded the grinning Mouton. "I am here to protest against the tyranny and depotism of our poor, misguided Kingfish."

The Sanders delegation later announced that they had been joined by Mrs. Stella Hamlin, national committeewoman from Louisiana.

"We now have 45 delegates, representing the cream of the Democratic part yin Louisiana," said a spokesman. "The day of the Kingfish is about over. We are confident in numbers and secure in soul."

The contentions of the contesting delegation from Minnesota were presented by Neil Cronin, city attorney of Minneapolis, who argued that the regular delegation, pledged to Roosevelt, was elected illegally by a convention from which 141 regularly elected delegates were excluded.

"A rump convention was then called and in addition to selecting a rival delegation put a complete slate of state candidates into the field," said Cronin. "The voters nominated twelve of our fifteen candidates at the Democratic primaries last Monday, thus completely repudiating the regular delegation."

The contesting delegation, although unpledged, is said to be favorable to Al Smith.

Porto Rico's contesting delegation also put forward an argument that the regular delegation was illegally elected. The regular delegation's six votes are pledged to Roosevelt. The opposing delegation is uninstructed.

Also to be decided by the national committee today is the contention of Peter J. McCormick of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., that Dr. L. C. Mundy of the same city was a registered Republican and should be unseated as a delegate in favor of himself.

JOUETT SHOUSE ASSAILS G. O. P. WET STRADDLE

Party Doomed Unless It Meets Issues, He Warns

Unless political parties change their methods and meet important issues with intelligent frankness, new parties will take their places, Chairman Jouett Shouse of the Democratic executive committee declared yesterday in an attack on the Republican straddle prohibition plank. He spoke at a luncheon of the Chicago Bar association.

JOUETT SHOUSE.

"Aside from a few hardy souls like Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, the delegates at the Republican convention were but a bunch of complacent sheep driven by White House shepherds," he said. "If a party is to live it should represent the will and wisdom of its members and not of one man, no matter what his position may be. The alternative can bring only confusion.

What Does Plank Mean?

"I challenge any member of this group to say in simple language, without certainty of contradiction from high official source within twenty-four hours, what the Republican wet plank means. It is designed to carry to one mind one meaning and another meaning to another mind. I predict spokesmen will be sent to one section of the country with one message and to another section with another message.

"I don't know what Candidate Hoover will say, but my guess is he will have very little to say. He will be like the tar baby in Uncle Remus that said nothing, but his spokesmen will speak in two languages.

Deceive Rather Than Inform.

"My party has been as guilty at times of trying to write planks to deceive rather than inform. If after this example, which has brought upon Republicans the criticism of hundreds of thousands of its members, the Democrats choose to emulate them—then the party doesn't deserve to win in November."

Mr. Shouse said the Democratic party is facing its best opportunity since 1912. The outcome of the convention will show whether the party is to take advantage of its opportunity or muff the ball, he said. He continued:

"With the most unpopular President of a half century, who, regardless of great gifts in certain lines, has proved himself wholly incompetent, and with minds of the people set for a change, the outcome is no certainty if the party goes blind. If the delegates will work out a program adhering to the will of the people, then the party will achieve the success it deserves."

DRYS TO WIND UP ACTIVITIES WITH TWO BIG RALLIES

The united dry groups will wind up their activities prior to the Democratic convention with two meetings tomorrow and Sunday.

Three or four hundred women are expected to attend a luncheon rally tomorrow noon at the Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street, under auspices of the National Woman's Democratic Law Enforcement league, to honor Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson of Chevy Chase, Md., president of the league. Jane Addams will speak.

A dry massmeeting is scheduled for Sunday night at Orchestra hall under auspices of the Illinois Conference of Organizations Supporting the Eighteenth Amendment. Among the scheduled speakers are Mrs. Nicholson, Graham Taylor, and Arthur N. Barnhart.

WAR SHOW WILL OPEN TONIGHT IN SOLDIERS' FIELD

Amelia Putnam to Watch First Performance.

The military tournament in celebration of the George Washington bicentennial will open at 8 o'clock tonight in Soldiers' field. The proceeds the pageant, which will be given for eleven nights, will be divided equally between the Joint Emergency Relief fund of Cook county and the Army Relief society.

The tournament, developed by Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, has been prepared on a broader scale than any military display in the United States since the war, with a cast of 2,000 regular army troops and 100 planes selected from units stationed in the Sixth corps area, which Gen. Parker commands. In addition to the military presentations, a series of colorful tableaux of revolutionary war scenes are to be given, and each night one or more foreign groups will give native music and dancing.

Amelia Putnam to Attend.

Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam, who has just returned to the United States after her second Atlantic flight, will attend the opening performance tonight as the guest of Gen. Parker. Mrs. Putnam, accompanied by her husband, George Palmer Putnam, the publisher, and Capt. Brook Putnam, aid to Gen. Parker, will arrive over the city by plane from Cleveland at noon today. The party flew from New York to Cleveland yesterday.

The plane bringing Mrs. Putnam to Chicago will be met by the first pursuit group, from Selfridge field, Michigan, a short distance from the city, and escorted along the lake shore to Curtiss-Reynolds airport, in Glenview. The Putnam party will stay at the home of Capt. Putnam, a cousin of the publisher, during the afternoon. Tonight at 7 o'clock Mrs. Putnam will board an amphibian plane at Curtiss-Reynolds airport and, again escorted by the army air corps planes, fly to Soldiers' field, where she will view the maneuvers of the fighting planes from the air.

She Will Review Troops.

When the air show is finished her plane will land at the 8th street ramp and Mrs. Putnam will be met and driven to Gen. Parker's box in the field, where she will review the 2,000 troops staging the tournament. After the performance there will be a reception at the Stevens hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Putnam will return to the east tomorrow over United Air Lines.

The military tournament will open with the air show of pursuit, attack, observation, and bombardment planes. All participating troops and the equipment they use, including infantry, cavalry, field artillery, anti-aircraft, machine gun, tank, and other units, next will make a grand entry.

Cavalry Charges to Follow.

Next on the program are the animated tableaux, which depict the Boston tea party, Washington taking command of the continental army, Betsy Ross and the first flag, Washington crossing the Delaware, Washington at Valley Forge, John Paul Jones, the death of Pulaski, the surrender at Yorktown, and Washington at home at Mount Vernon.

Dashing cavalry charges with pistol and saber will follow the tableaux. While the jumps are being set up for an exhibition of horsemanship by army officers a plane with magnesium flares will loop in the sky. After the jumping, 500 well drilled infantrymen will move through intricate formations without a command. The Fort Dearborn massacre will be reenacted with a cast of 300. Battery D, 3d field artillery, winner of the coveted Knox trophy in 1931, will execute high speed maneuvers.

Then will follow a thrilling battle scene, the capture of Cantigny, with all arms of the service in action. A fireworks display concludes the show.

MAYOR WALKER IS ON WAY HERE FOR CONVENTION

New York, June 23.—[Special.]—Mayor James J. Walker, facing the prospect of serving on the all-important resolutions committee at the Democratic national convention, left this afternoon for Chicago where he will join John F. Curry's forces in their preconvention conferences.

In the mayor's absence, the mantle of authority falls upon Aldermanic President Joseph V. McKee, who will serve as mayor until Saturday noon when he, too, will leave for Chicago. Vice Chairman Dennis J. Mahon of the board of aldermen will be mayor a few hours Saturday afternoon. Then he, too, will depart for Chicago as a member of the Tammany delegation.

Thus, for the duration of the convention, the city will be without a mayor. The charter provides for no further succession after the vice chairman. In case of trouble, however, the police commissioner, Edward P. Mulrooney, could employ his police power to take command of the situation.

It is explained that Mayor Walker will be the spokesman for the New York delegation. If he is selected he will be in the uncomfortable position of either supporting or fighting Gov. Roosevelt, who has asked the mayor to reply to the charges filed against him by Samuel Seabury.

U. of Wis. Refuses to Take Chicago Teachers' Scrip

Forty Chicago school teachers who asked officials of the University of Wisconsin if they would accept Chicago school board scrip for tuition for summer courses, have been turned down by the administrative committee, it was announced yesterday by James D. Phillips, business manager of the university. "We believe the teachers should go to their banks or get loans elsewhere on their scrip instead of coming direct to the university with it," the committee said.

and what we've got, with the government losing all that revenue. Flaming youth of 1924 has grown up—but the youth of 1932 has never known anything but present conditions, which are awful.

"Soaking Rich Also Hits Labor."

"As for taxes there's always been a marriage between capital and labor and nobody yet has found a way to divorce 'em. Soak one and you hit the other. A fair basis of taxation must be found. Meanwhile I'm for revising the tariff downward so that the ships going out from that seacoast village I call home—New York—won't be going empty as they are now because Europe won't buy from us."

It was at this point that Mr. Mack, ushered into the room, crossed over and greeted his partner with a comradely kiss on her upturned countenance. He took a seat and a companion handed him a snowy napkin and a ripe banana. He spread the napkin over one knee and proceeded to peel and dispose of the banana by sections, discussing the convention that is to come and the aridity that is.

Women Busy at Teas.

Teas were plentiful yesterday in the women's quarters in the Congress. Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall and Mrs. James Roosevelt, daughter and daughter-in-law of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, presided in the New York executive's rooms. Miss Marguerite Wells of Minneapolis, who will lead a group from the National League of Women Voters before the resolutions committee, assisted in room 1240, the league's office. On the floor below other groups had other functions.

Miss Lavinia Engle, Maryland delegate, and Miss Adele Stamp, dean of women at the University of Maryland, plan a tea for Gov. Albert C. Ritchie at the Illinois Woman's Athletic club on Sunday.

Arrivals included Miss Permeal J. French, dean of women at the University of Idaho, who back in 1898 was elected state superintendent of education when it was novelty for women to hold such offices; Mrs. Teresa M. Graham, national committeewoman, Miss Ellen Healy and R. Graham Haley, all of Coeur D'Alene, Idaho. Haley and Miss Healy are 24 and 25 years old, respectively, the youngest delegates in the state's history.

Teachers' Federation Will Open Convention Sunday

The 16th annual convention of the American Federation of Teachers will start on Sunday with executive sessions and continue through next Thursday at the Knickerbocker hotel. The economic problems of educational systems will be discussed. Agnes Clohesy, chairman of the joint board of the Chicago teacher unions, will deliver the address of welcome on Monday morning. Among the speakers will be William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; James Mullenbach, former member of the board of education, and John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

Wife Sues for a Divorce from Peter Weissmuller

Mrs. Dorothy Rumble Weissmuller, 4637 North Lawler avenue, yesterday filed suit for divorce in the Superior court from Peter John Weissmuller, brother of Johnny Weissmuller, swimming champion and movie actor. The bill, which was drawn by Attorney Frank E. Cantwell, charged desertion. It said the couple were married on Sept. 9, 1926, at Crown Point, Ind., and separated on Jan. 5, 1930.

CERMAK RAISES $4,500,000 FOR CITY PAY DAY

2 Weeks' Pay for School and Municipal Staffs.

made available yesterday the teachers and other school employes will get about $2,500,000, according to the controller's reckoning.

Mayor Cermak said that the city had advanced $28,242,907 to the school system for pay rolls on 1928, 1929, 1930, 1931, and 1932 tax anticipation warrants. These have been purchased by the city with its trust and surplus funds, and held in lieu of cash in the city treasury.

Reveals Warrants Taken.

This statement by the mayor discloses for the first time that in order to aid the teachers and school employés, Mayor Cermak has accepted $2,099,357 of 1932 tax anticipation warrants, although the tax levy of 1932 has not been adopted by the city council, and consequently the warrants have been prematurely issued.

This transaction is covered in the city accounts as "an overdraft in the educational fund, representing use of city cash, which will be covered by investment in 1932 board of education tax warrants." The deal was put through last March to meet some deferred pay rolls at that time.

Of the total cash supplied to the board on the warrants listed, $19,443,007 has been furnished since Mayor Cermak assumed office in May, 1931.

The unpaid salaries of the schools consist of $18,197,853 owed to the regular teachers; $3,915,870 to the special teachers and civil service employés of the education fund, $676,933 to building employés, $231,133 to playground instructors and attendants, and $3,380 to lunchroom supervisors.

City 2½ Months Behind.

The city pay roll is about two and a half months in arrears. The sanitary district, which is approximately $750,000 behind with its pay rolls, got enough cash together a few days ago to distribute half a month's pay.

The county government, from its fees, is trying to scrape together enough money for two weeks' pay. When this is done, the county will have anticipated all of the fees until Dec. 1, when its fiscal year ends.

In addition to the $1,900,000 which the county owes its employés it owes $117,560 for the relief of the blind, $189,573 in mothers' pensions, and $193,627 for home placing agencies.

The Lincoln park and south park systems are the only two local governments which have paid their employés in full to date. The west park system, whose 1931 tax anticipation warrants were offered for sale yesterday at less than 70 cents on the dollar, owes its employés $2,367,132. These employés have received only one month's pay in the last 11 months.

AUDITOR REPORTS ON SCHOOL FUNDS HELD IN BANKS

President L. E. Myers of the board of education yesterday asked H. H. Brackett, school auditor, for a financial statement on the funds for school lunch rooms and other school activities. The funds have been on deposit in five banks.

Mr. Brackett reported that the school money was secured by A grade bonds, which the five depositaries had placed in escrow. The funds represent the cash of sixty schools in all parts of the city.

One of the banks was the Bowmanville National bank, which was closed on Monday. School money in this bank amounted to $45,000, which was secured by bonds valued at between $58,000 and $60,000, according to Mr. Brackett.

The other four banks, which are open, are the Chicago City Bank and Trust company, Mutual National bank, Terminal National bank, and the Security Bank of Chicago. It was estimated that approximately $155,000 of school money is on deposit in these institutions.

FALL IN BATHTUB OF HOT WATER FATAL TO BROKER

New Yorker Dies Day After Rift with Wife.

New York, June 23.—[Special.]—Raymond H. Allen, broker and well known figure in society, died today from burns he suffered last night when he fell into a bathtub of hot water at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Van Riper of 1560 Fifth avenue, where he had gone to spend the night. He was 54 years old.

News of the death of Mr. Allen, who only yesterday announced a rift between himself and his wife through a newspaper advertisement stating he would not be responsible for her debts, became known when Dr. George E. Davis of 1565 Fifth avenue notified the medical examiner. That Allen was at the Van Riper apartment last night was verified at his own apartment in the Park Lane, where his wife is said to be in a state of collapse over his death.

Get Statement by Phone.

The official statement from the Allen apartment came from a woman who said over the telephone that she was Mrs. James H. Gilman, Mrs. Allen's spokesman.

"Mr. Allen, while calling at the residence of Kenneth Van Riper last night met with an accident. Dr. George E. Davis was in immediate attendance, but Mr. Allen died early this morning," said Mrs. Gilman's statement.

The superintendent of the building at 1560 Fifth avenue denied that there had been an accident or a death in the building and said that the Van Ripers had been out of town for the last three weeks.

To add to the mystery, the police were unable to supply any information. No report either of the accident or Mr. Allen's death was made at the 104th street house and no police investigation is being made.

Met Aboard Liner.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen met aboard a ship on which they were both returning from Europe in 1924. They were married shortly afterward. Mrs. Allen was Miss Frances Tatum before her marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Riper, who are socially prominent, acted as best man and bridesmaid at the Allen marriage in Miami, Fla., where it was one of the brilliant affairs of the season.

Three Lose Their Lives in Drowning Accidents

Drowning accidents claimed three lives yesterday in the Chicago area. Charles Olson, 22 years old, 6414 North Claremont avenue, became exhausted while swimming off the Lawrence avenue beach, sank and drowned before help could reach him. Edward Keown, 29 years old, of Herrin, Ill., an attendant at the Dunning state hospital, was seized with a cramp and drowned while swimming in the Fox river near Carpentersville, in McHenry county. Laverne Reynolds, 14 years old, of Batavia, waded beyond his depth in the Fox river there and lost his life. He could not swim.

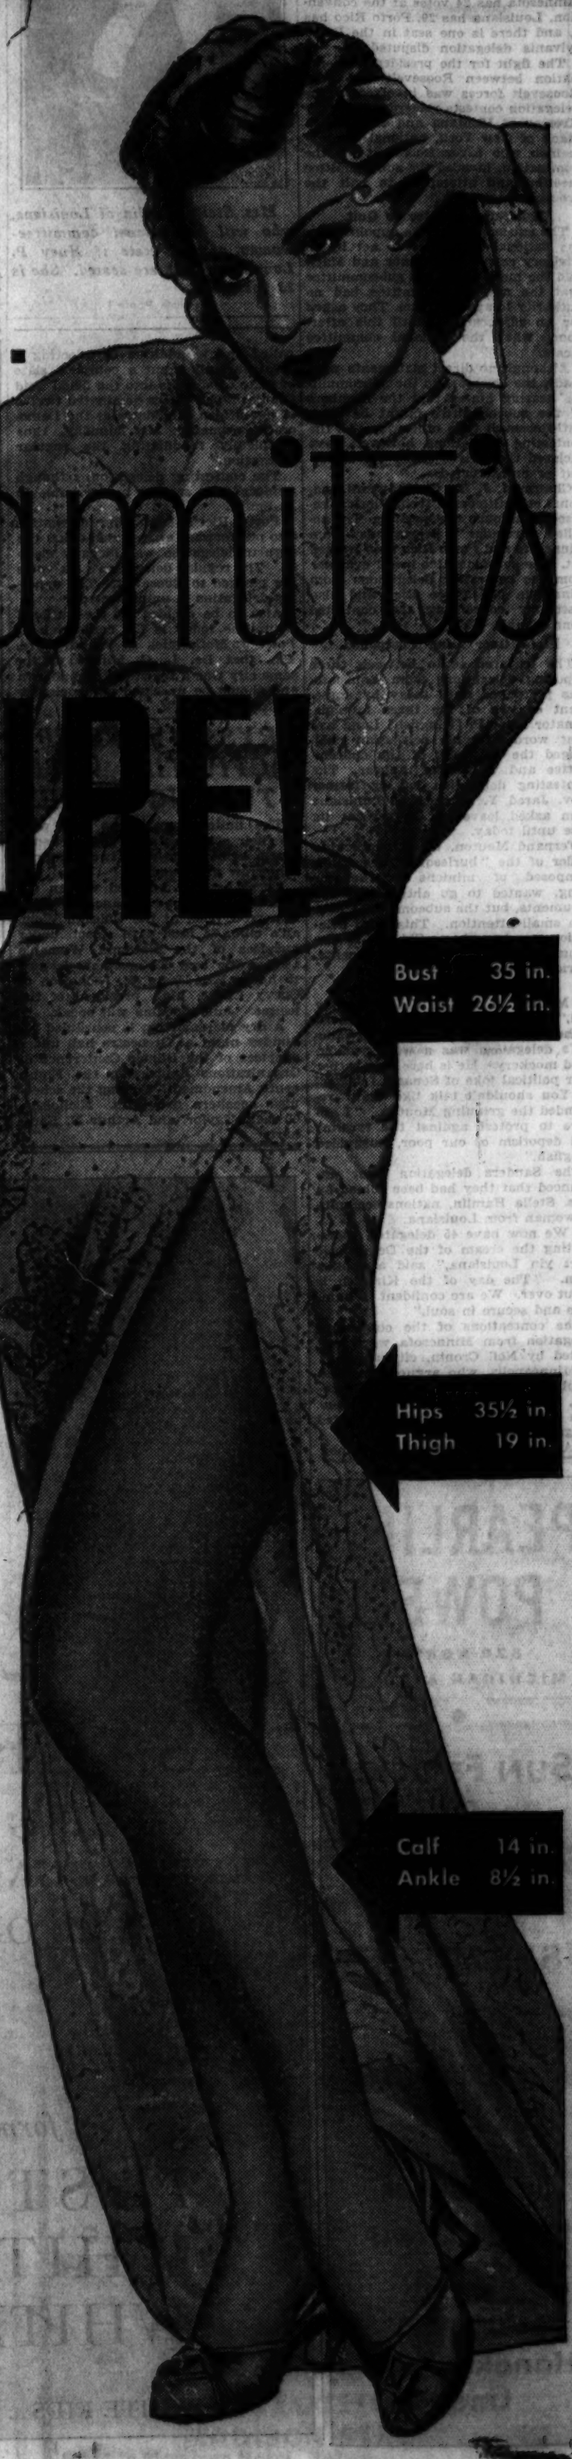
Don't Gasp At.. Lily Damita's FIGURE!



Eat two salads daily covered with Hellmann's Mayonnaise and within 60 days you, too, may regain the slenderness of youth!

LILY DAMITA weighs exactly 114 pounds. She is five feet three inches tall. And a glance at the measurements shown at the right will prove to you her perfect proportions.

Now how does provocative Mlle. Damita keep her figure so slender? How does she protect her ravishing bodily grace? By violent physical exercise? By starvation diets?

Not a bit of it! Lily Damita can not afford to ruin her health . . . even to maintain her figure!

All she does is EAT SENSIBLY. She cuts out heavy, fattening foods. And in their place, substitutes two inexpensive salads daily . . . one at lunch, another at dinner . . . covered with Hellmann's Mayonnaise. So simple . . . yet so effective!

Indeed, as Mlle. Damita says in her fascinating broken English, "That Hellmann Plan, it is so easy! It takes the weight off in just the right places . . . and in two months' time you will look and feel just wonderful!"

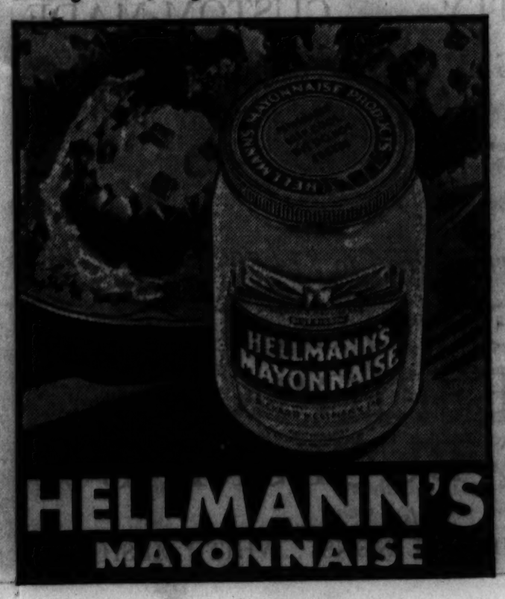
Why don't you start this slenderizing plan at once? Two salads daily . . . a minimum of fattening foods. Follow this plan faithfully, and you can regain much of the slenderness and health that you may so envy in others.

But always insist on Hellmann's, the quality mayonnaise. It is made of only the finest vinegars, oils, eggs, and spices. Then, double-whipped for extra creamy smoothness.

But we warn you! Recently certain mayonnaise makers have started using inferior fillers in a frantic effort to lower their prices and thus fool the public. This the makers of Hellmann's flatly refused to do. Hellmann's Mayonnaise remains absolutely uncheapened, absolutely unchanged. At your grocer's then, tomorrow.



HELLMANN'S MAYONNAISE

SALE OF CANDLES IN CHURCHES IS BANNED BY POPE

Taking of Photographs Also Forbidden.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, June 23.—The sale of candles by priests or those in orders in or before Catholic churches, the use of artificial flowers before altars, and the taking of photographs in churches during marriages or other sacred functions are forbidden by drastic regulations made public today by Vicar General Cardinal Marchetti Selvaggiani following "sacred apostolic visits" which he has been making throughout the diocese of Rome on the instructions of Pope Pius XI.

A sacred visit would correspond in profane affairs to a visit of inspection. During these visits the personnel of several churches and monasteries were removed and transferred, including the mother superior of the convent of Spanish sisters on Montemario hill.

Intended to Correct Abuses.

The regulations published tonight set forth that they are intended to correct abuses which are detracting in some instances from the dignity of the Catholic church and from the decorum of sacred temples.

They provide that the altar in which the holy sacrament is kept must be the principal altar of the church and its adornments must be the best that the church possesses. Article 2 of the regulations provides that many sacred images and statues which have been introduced into the church must be removed. The regulations say:

"The usage prevailing in many churches of putting votive candles at the disposition of the faithful in return for a money offering to burn on candlestick and supports is the cause of serious inconveniences. It easily assumes the appearance of superstition and favors the impression that it is done to obtain lucre and contributes little to the cleanliness of the church in which the burning of candles, especially when they are not made of beeswax, defiles the pavement, stains the walls, and rarefies the air."

Orders Practice Halted.

The article then ordains that the clergy must immediately stop the practice of selling candles in churches and oratories outside church doors or on property contiguous to the church, and that all candlesticks and supports must be removed.

It instructs the clergy to explain the reasons to the faithful for this regulation, recalling to them "that mass listened to attentively and communion received with due disposition is worth more to obtain grace and celestial favor than thousands of candles burned on long series of days."

It is provided, however, that the faithful, in accordance with ancient custom, should be exhorted to "give offerings to have mass celebrated and offer beeswax candles." These candles, however, must be obtained elsewhere than from the clergy. They may then be left in the sacristy and will be lighted by the clergy during liturgical functions.

Ban Photography in Churches.

Article 3 ordains the removal of all artificial flowers, of whatever material, from all churches.

Article 4 forbids the taking of still or motion pictures of religious ceremonies or functions inside churches.

Any one who fails to follow these prescriptions will be proceeded against with the full rigors of the canon law.

VICTIM OF 'RIDE' IS FOUND ALIVE; REFUSES TO TALK

Police from the Kensington station, informed that the body of a man shot to death had been tossed on the roadside at 119th street and Stevenson avenue, went there last evening and found the shooting victim still alive.

He is John Zarattini, 34 years old, formerly of 336 West 108th place. He had been struck in the chest and behind the right ear with bullets. In his pockets were found naturalization papers describing him as a mechanic.

Zarattini refused to tell Lieut. Garrett Coan and Sergt. Edward Hayes anything about he shooting. He was taken to the Roseland Community hospital and later to the county hospital, where his condition was described as critical. Further investigation by the police failed to disclose any motive for the attack upon him.

Heads Institute

[Melvin H. Sykes Photo.]

The trustees of Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston, yesterday announced the election of the Rev. Dr. Horace Greeley Smith of Wilmette as president of the seminary. Dr. Smith will succeed the Rev. Dr. Frederick C. Eiselen who has become corresponding secretary of the Methodist Episcopal board of education.

Dr. Smith is a graduate of Northwestern university and an alumnus of the seminary of which he will become the head. He was formerly the pastor of the Hemenway Methodist Episcopal church, Evanston, and the First Methodist church of Glencoe.

The new Garrett institute head is widely known as a constructive leader. He built new churches in Evanston and Wilmette. The Wilmette edifice is recognized as an outstanding example of Gothic architecture on the north shore. It was erected in 1928 at a cost of $350,000.

Dr. Eiselen was elected president of Garrett in 1925. During his presidency the institute came to be known as the leading theological school of American Methodism.

PAPAL LEGATE SINGS MASS AT DUBLIN CONGRESS

Solemnity Overshadows the Spectacular.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, June 23.—The spectacular side of the Eucharistic congress gave way today to the more purely religious exercises, the chief being the pontifical high mass sung by Lorenzo Cardinal Lauri, the papal legate, in the pro-cathedral.

The old church presented a scene of rare beauty, being especially decorated, and, as for the opening function, was filled with ecclesiastics in gorgeous robes of many colors. The whole service was broadcast and was heard by thousands in the adjoining streets, who knelt reverently on the cobblestones.

Nine Cardinals Attend.

In addition to nine cardinals, scores of archbishops and bishops, hundreds of clergymen and many distinguished laymen, including all the members of the present and the late Free State governments, were in the cathedral for the mass.

Throughout the day there were masses in all Dublin churches and a series of sectional meetings was held by national groups, in which in every known language Catholic theology was expounded to the people. A special meeting for priests at the mansion house was conducted in Latin and at the Theater Royal there was a great meeting at which only Irish was spoken.

Chorus of Quarter Million.

Irish also was the feature of a great popular massmeeting in the evening at Phoenix park, over which the legate presided. After this meeting he reviewed a march of thousands of devoted Irishmen and gave his blessing. The principal address was by Bishop Raphoe in Irish, while Archbishop Glennon of St. Louis spoke in English.

At a meeting for men in Phoenix park tonight a quarter of a million voices will join in hymns. Tomorrow night's meeting will be for women and Saturday noon there will be a mass for children in the park, conducted by the legate.

The visiting ecclesiastics are enthusiastic over the beauties of Dublin and are especially impressed by the glorious sunshine.

SUSPEND 2 JAIL GUARDS IN PROBE OF GUN AFFRAY

Find Special Privileges Granted Prisoner.

Statements tending to show that Jack Lawrence, 23 years old, prisoner in the county jail who shot and killed a guard and then himself with a smuggled pistol on Wednesday, had been allowed unusual privileges by jail employes were obtained last night by investigators of the tragedy.

As a result two guards, Frederick Studebaker, 615 East 78th street, and Ernest Marinelli, 550 Taylor street, were suspended pending further investigation of their conduct.

Warden Moneypenny and Coroner's Investigators Reynolds and Donahue first questioned Ray Kolar, 23 years old, 1837 North Nagle avenue, an alimony row occupant, who acted as clerk in the bundle cage. In this position of trust he could pass packages on to prisoners with guards acting as messengers.

Tells Friendship with Girl.

Kolar admitted that he had been friendly with Miss Della Broderick, a sister of Mrs. Olive Lawrence, 3331 Walnut street, widow of the killer-suicide.

Miss Broderick, according to Kolar, visited the jail Sunday afternoon and brought a basket of fruit for her brother-in-law. This package, he said, was then taken by Studebaker into the jail and delivered to Lawrence. If there was a pistol in it, Kolar declared, he knew nothing of it.

Both Studebaker and Marinelli, who relieved him soon after the visit of Miss Broderick, also denied any knowledge of a pistol being in the basket. Miss Broderick and Mrs. Lawrence were also questioned by the investigators, but on advice of Attorney Louis I. Fisher, a brother of Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court, refused to talk.

Locked Up for Night.

They were locked up in separate police stations for the night at the order of Assistant State's Attorney Nat Ruvell. The two suspended guards were told to report at the jail for more quizzing this morning.

It was brought out last evening that Lawrence had had a considerable sum of money when he entered the jail while carrying on an appeal to prevent his going to the penitentiary for robbery, and also to await trial on a charge of murder.

REMOVE TUMOR FROM BRAIN OF SENORA CALLES

Boston, Mass., June 23.—(AP)—A large tumor was removed from the brain of Senora Leonor Fldrente Calles, wife of former President Plutarco Elias Calles of Mexico, at Peter Bent Brigham hospital today.

In an official bulletin issued shortly after the operation, Dr. José M. Puig-Casaurano, Mexican ambassador to the United States, said the patient was doing "as well as can be expected."

He added that the outcome could not be determined at this time.

The operation was performed by Dr. Harvey Cushing of Boston, internationally known surgeon. He had the patient under observation since her arrival here by train Tuesday night. Early this morning he went into conference with Dr. Francis Miranda, who came from Mexico City with Mrs. Calles, and it was decided to operate immediately.

Britain, Thus Far, Fails to Join Movement.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—[Special.]—Washington officials conferred at length with the ambassadors of the major army and naval powers today on the Hoover disarmament proposals, but no new announcement was forthcoming indicating whether the President's plan would prove acceptable to the other nations.

From unofficial sources, it was learned, however, that the reception to the President's startling suggestion that all nations cut their armaments virtually one-third has not been as cordial as had been anticipated. While many of the smaller powers, whose armies and navies are negligible, have rushed to the aid of the program, Great Britain, thus far, has not given her support. France openly is hostile and Japan's attitude has been far from encouraging.

Japan Appears Critical.

In diplomatic quarters the report persisted that the French government was resentful of what was termed an attempt on the part of the United States to put France in a hole by making it appear she was the nation responsible for blocking action at the Geneva arms conference. At the same time, it was learned that there was some tendency on the part of Japan to criticise the fact that she had not been taken as fully into the preliminary negotiations as some of the other powers.

Other developments of the day included the disclosure that the United States would not have parity with Great Britain in warships, nor its proper treaty ratio with Japan by Jan. 1, next, in event the Hoover program were adopted.

In this same connection it was revealed that Great Britain and Japan would have to scrap a much greater tonnage of under age ships than would the United States if the Hoover plan were put into effect at the end of this year.

Changes U. S. Naval Policy.

Attention also was called to the fact that the Hoover move to avert the wreck of the league of nations' arms conference, marked a further departure, during the Hoover administration, from the traditional isolationist policies laid down by the founders of the republic. The move was interpreted also as a departure from the American naval policy of basing the theoretical size of its fleet on the nation's security needs in favor of a policy of basing the size of the fleet upon relativity.

While officials publicly denied that war debts played any part in the disarmament transactions, it was admitted in official quarters that disarmament and the war debts owed the United States could not be divorced. In this connection it was said that while the United States was not demanding an arms cut as the price of a reduction in the war debts, the reaction of the powers to the American proposals certainly would play a part in later negotiations in event this country was asked to allow Europe to repudiate a part or all the war debts.

Diplomat Calls on Hoover.

The diplomats calling at the White House today included the representatives of Great Britain, France, Germany, Japan, and Italy. On their departure none would give any inkling of what had been discussed. It is known, however, that war debts have bulked large in recent discussions between American officials and Washington diplomatic representatives.

An analysis of the comparative naval tonnages of the major powers, made today, disclosed that even if the Hoover program were adopted and the fleet tonnage limits were cut close to one-third below present treaty levels the United States would have to embark on a sizable warship building program or remain below treaty strength.

Counting only built and building warships, under age, and fit for use the United States on Jan. 1 next would have 691,250 tons; Great Britain 760,928, and Japan 539,640. The ratios would be 9.8 for the United States, 10 for Great Britain, and 7.1 for Japan.

Counting only under age cruisers, aircraft carriers, destroyers and submarines the United States ratio would be 8.2, Great Britain 10, and Japan 7.4. In other words, unless the United States embarks upon an immediate building program, Japan would have almost as large a tonnage in auxiliaries as this country for years to come.

Assuming the Hoover program was adopted and made effective as of Jan. 1, next, the United States would be short 130,950 tons in modern ships of the treaty tonnage quota allowed under the revised armaments treaties. Great Britain would be short 54,184 tons, while Japan would be up to full treaty strength.

Although figures given out at the state department yesterday indicated that the Hoover proposal would call for the scrapping of more than a million tons of ships, investigation revealed that the total under age useful ships to be scrapped by the five major powers would run about 700,000 tons.

U. S. Would Scrap 156,500 Tons.

The United States would scrap 156,500 tons of under age ships, composed of 138,100 tons of battleships and 18,500 of submarines. Great Britain would scrap 260,020 tons of under age ships comprising 155,800 tons of battleships, 39,428 tons of heavy cruisers, 33,840 tons of light cruisers, 14,100 tons of aircraft carriers and 12,154 tons of submarines.

Japan would have to scrap 231,067 tons of under age ships, mostly battleships and submarines.

France would have to scrap 45,889 tons of new submarines and Italy 9,653 tons of submarines. Japan would have to cut her submarine force by 44,213 tons.

Moffett Warns Disarm Craze Invites Disaster to America

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—[Special.]—Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, in an address at Macon, Ga., today, charged the the United States had so neglected its national defense in recent years that it is "inviting disaster and riding for a fall."

WILLIAM A. MOFFETT.

He asserted that apparently national defense has been forgotten, while the same pacifists, both civilians and in congress, "who did not provide the national defense which would have kept us out of the war, are now advocating that we disarm."

The rear admiral's pronouncement, coming so quickly after President Hoover had called for still more drastic reductions in American naval defenses, aroused considerable speculation in official circles. Navy officials said, however, that the speech had been prepared some days ago.

In addition to attacking pacifists, Rear Admiral Moffett criticised church organizations for entering politics.

"I deplore," he said, "church organizations opposing adequate national defense or sponsoring or opposing any political issues as such. In my opinion, the church organizations that go into politics are injuring the cause of religion and the defense of our country."

Referring to national neglect of national defense, the naval officer said:

"During the depression the country seems to have forgotten its need of national defense, although other countries—some rivals and potential enemies, have, despite the depression, not forgotten nor neglected theirs. Our people assume and take for granted that no nation will ever attack us—a most unwise assumption.

"They forget, too, that a situation may arise, when, to save our self respect and national honor, we may have to fight; that some other nation, prepared for war and knowing we are not, may defy us."

HOOVER DISARM PLAN THREATENS RULE OF HERRIOT

Political Crisis Looms in French Chamber.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 23.—A political crisis threatening the existence of Premier Edouard Herriot's government is brewing as a result of the Hoover proposal to cut the world's armaments by approximately one-third. While the entire right and moderate press howled with the same indignation that they expressed over the debt moratorium last year, the Socialists hailed it with rejoicing.

In the corridors of the chamber a number of deputies met unofficially and agreed that Herriot is placed in a difficult situation. They point out that if he shows the slightest inclination to accept the Hoover plan, he will be blackballed by the moderate elements, while if he turns it down he is almost certain to lose the vital support of the Socialists and risk producing a rift in his own party.

It is generally felt that unless Herriot can avoid taking a clear cut stand on the proposal, a showdown in the chamber will come in the next two weeks.

Hoover Linked with Il Duce.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, June 23.—In return for his proposals for the world to scrap one-third of existing armaments, Italy today festooned the name of President Hoover alongside that of Premier Mussolini as a rare and resolute benefactor of a distressed world.

The Geneva correspondent of the Stampa of Turin, for instance, said:

"Two peoples and two men take equal places at the front for their constructive volition—the United States and Italy, Hoover and Mussolini," he declaimed. "If their intentions are rapidly realized Europe and the world will receive that vigor and manipulation at the helm which will set them in the right course to better times."

Borrowed Plan from Duce.

Originality was the only thing denied Hoover. The Gazzetta del Popolo of Turin said his proposal, with a few modifications, was borrowed from Mussolini. It considered the American plan as a success for Mussolini which will remain memorable in the annals of the foreign policy of the various nations.

Some papers got the impression from yesterday's events that Hoover is astutely winking his eye at the European war debtors. The Mattino of Naples said:

"America is speaking at Geneva for Lausanne to hear. While at Lausanne Europe establishes flatly that the problem of reparations is connected with war debts, at Geneva America has let it be understood that the problem of debts can be joined with disarmament."

Britain to Talk It Over.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 23.—The Hoover disarmament proposals will be discussed at a specially summoned session of the British cabinet tomorrow. Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon, who returned to London from Geneva today, will place before the cabinet a report from the British delegation. He explained the proposals to the king late today.

Generally speaking Hoover's pronouncements were welcomed in London from the viewpoint that they will focus public opinion on the disarmament question as a whole. At the same time, however, it was held that the British proposals, which have been before the conference for some months, are just as important and in some ways more adequate.

Japan Follows French Lead.

TOKIO, June 23.—(AP)—Conversations with high officials of the foreign office, the army, and the navy produced the impression today that Japan is likely to follow the lead of France in dealing with President Hoover's new armaments proposals.

A high civilian official expressed sentiments which were echoed by the fighting services when he said that "our first requirement, like that of the French, is security. As things stand today the great masses of China and Russia adjoin our frontiers, and armaments are our only guarantee of security."

All those who were interviewed praised Mr. Hoover's motives, but everywhere there was a disposition to find certain details of his proposals impossible of acceptance by Japan.

Albert Spielman, 7127 University avenue, filed a bill for injunction yesterday in the Superior court seeking to restrain the south park commissioners from interfering with him and other veterans who peddle candy and ice cream in the parks. FRENCH, GERMANS OPEN TETE-A-TETE ON REPARATIONS

British Premier Stands Aside at Lausanne.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LAUSANNE, June 23.—For the first time in this conference, where a definite settlement of the reparations problem among European nations is considered merely part of the bigger job of economic reconstruction, the French and Germans will meet on this preliminary issue.

CHANCELLOR FRANZ VON PAPEN

After days of almost fruitless conversations between Premier Herriot of France and Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, it was suggested by MacDonald this afternoon that the French meet the Germans directly to try to put over their idea of somehow maintaining the principle of reparations payments after a long moratorium.

British Change Stand.

The French and British premiers issued a communique announcing a halt in their "friendly and profitable" conversations which indicated only one slight advance from the positions assumed at the beginning. It is still agreed that the solution found here must be final, that it must imply a revival of world confidence and that Germany cannot be asked to pay now or during the period of recovery. The British have advanced, however, in that after having stood firm on an advocacy of a clean slate they now admit the hypothesis that payments may sometime be resumed.

If ever resumed, the communique continues, the payments must be of such a nature as not to hinder international economic intercourse. The British, it is understood, have gone further in a private memorandum, saying that these hypothetical payments must never be such as to interfere with Germany's commercial balance or budgetary equilibrium.

French Revive Hopes.

The French were less pessimistic tonight because of MacDonald's willingness to stand aside and let them see what they can do with Chancellor Franz von Papen of Germany in spite of that otherwise affable gentleman's rigid refusal to agree to resume payments at any future time or to maintain even a shadow of the principle.

It seems the French delegation is desperate enough to snatch at straws to the right or left, and tonight it spotted a straw in the London Times' assertion of the pure cancellationist view in favor of an appeal to Germany to make some offer that is "clearly in her capacity to make."

While Herriot was meeting Von Papen the rest of the German delegation was meeting ministers and experts of the French delegation. The smiling Von Papen, while standing firm on his refusal to pay, will personally present his various ideas on trade treaties, political pacts and whatnot to compensate the French for wiping the slate.

Military Alliance Denied.

Rumors of a proposed military alliance were denied by the Germans and pooh-poohed by the French.

Herriot's situation is becoming increasingly difficult here and at home. He has again and again appealed to MacDonald for concessions to help him strengthen himself and so enable him to fill the rôle he had imagined for himself as one of the artisans of a new Europe. Even the members of his delegation fail to see how, even if he wanted to, he could agree to wipe the slate clean now that he has gone on record daily against it.

It is clear at Lausanne that when Herriot returns to Paris on Saturday morning he will be attacked by his moderate supporters for the reparations concessions he has made and those which it seems he will inevitably make if the conference continues. He also will be assailed by the left wing Radicals and Socialists, who are sold on the Hoover disarmament plan.

Handle Hoover Plan Gingerly.

Meanwhile, at Geneva, where the disarmament conference is meeting, Hoover's demand for a one-third per cent reduction in the world's armaments has been placed gingerly under the table around which private conversations of the powers continued today.

On the table is still the French plan for budgetary reduction which the French think will obviate the necessity for straight cuts such as Hoover has in mind. But the Hoover plan, although very much underneath the table, is not in the icebox at all. It will eventually be pulled up if the conversations continue long enough.

Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, rushed to London to attend a cabinet meeting today and, it is suggested here, to see how far he can go in his new rôle as umpire of the French and Americans and also to sound out the admiralty on the "embarrassing" naval cuts.

The conference as a whole was groggy today. Arthur Henderson, president of the conference, mentioned for the first time the possibility of a summer adjournment.

TRIAL FIGURES SHOW LOSSES OF BAIN DEPOSITORS

Receiver Lists Loans to Banker's Family.

Figures supplied yesterday by Irwin T. Gilruth, receiver of the twelve closed Bain banks, and Carlos A. Life, assistant to Gilruth, told a story of the losses suffered by depositors and investors. They testified in the trial of John Bain, his two sons, John H. and Robert A. Bain, and his son-in-law, W. Merle Fisher, who are charged with conspiracy. The trial is being heard by Judge John M. O'Connor without a jury.

Loans of $10,111,425, many of them unsecured, are contrasted with deposits of $13,000,000 in the twelve Bain banks. Receiver Gilruth testified that on June 9, 1931, the date of the closing of the banks, there was but $231,836 in cash on hand in all twelve banks.

In a civil suit pending before Superior Judge William J. Lindsay it has been shown that the twelve Bain banks collected taxes under authorization from the county collector, and failed to turn over to him $884,000 in cash of the tax money collected in the six weeks prior to the banks' closing.

Stress Loans to Family.

Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber continued to drive away at the loans made by the Bain family and companies in which John Bain was the guiding spirit. It was shown these loans amounted to $2,156,207, which it is estimated, nearly a 100 per cent loss, although $17,555 has been collected to date on John Bain's account. But for whatever other of the loans were secured—not many—the collateral was stock in Bain banks, now worthless, according to the prosecutor.

The loans to the Bain family, as listed by Gilruth, were: John Bain, $650,543; John Bain, Inc., $993,572; Lews company, $257,600; John Bain Real Estate Improvement company, $47,500; John H. Bain, $51,846; Robert A. Bain, $32,939; Leslie Bain, $6,200; Merle Fisher, $41,007; W. H. Fisher [father of Merle], $45,000.

Other Loans Listed.

In addition there were other loans, as follows: Frank A. Mulholland, partner of John Bain, $514,477; Dr Walter H. Buhlig, partner of Bain, $123,000; officers and directors of the banks other than those already named, $2,285,495; and by general investors, $5,032,246, of which $1,357,774 has been repaid. From the other officers and directors the receiver has recovered $312,913.

In showing the extent of the collapse of the Bain banks, after listing the $10,111,425 of loans against deposits of $13,000,000, a statement read by Gilruth showed the amounts collected for each bank, the cash on hand at the time of its closing and the amounts owed to each by other banks, as follows:

Bank.	Currency collected to date.	Cash on hand on June 9, '31.	Amt. owed by other banks.
Ash Pk T&S.	282,525	30,868	49,929
Brainerd State.	93,599	7,662	22,623
Br Mawr State	213,492	12,164	53,271
Chatham St.	196,828	8,338	33,778
Chi Lawn St.	307,007	30,892	118,866
Elston State.	138,288	51,918	47,748
Ridge State.	54,162	2,538	28,120
Stony Isl T&S.	409,428	13,423	122,811
W Englwd T&S	774,451	45,848	64,859
W Highland St	212,670	13,746	56,666
West Lawn St.	57,479	7,627	16,328

There is a discrepancy in the figures for the amount collected—$2,792,318 as shown by the table and $2,792,526 as shown by the following divisions: from John Bain, $17,555; from officers and directors other than of the Bain family, $312,913; and $13,357,774 from the general public.

Preferred claims will nearly consume all of the moneys so far collected, it was indicated when Gilruth stated that the government has filed a lien, which is a preferred claim, against John Bain for $145,000 to make up a deficiency in his 1929 income taxes. This, added to the county's preferred claim of $884,000 [which has not been allowed by the court], and other preferred claims, will come close to equaling the amount of cash now on hand, it was estimated.

The loss to investors of Bain bonds and mortgages was shown by Mr. Life, who gave testimony regarding twenty-four bond issues for an aggregate amount of nearly $6,000,000, all of which are now in default. Not more than 10 or 15 per cent of these bonds were held by Bain banks, the balance having been sold to the public. Prosecutor Raber charges that valuations were highly excessive in each bond issue.

29 YEAR OLD HEAD OF CLOSED BANK ARRESTED BY U. S.

Federal authorities yesterday arrested Francis Karel, 29 years old, president of the First American National Bank and Trust company of Berwyn, which closed its doors last Saturday.

The arrest was on a bench warrant charging him with making false entries and misapplying money, funds, and credits of a member bank of the federal reserve system. He was released on $5,000 bonds.

It was learned later that the bench warrant was based on a suppressed indictment returned Tuesday by the federal grand jury before Judge John P. Barnes. Assistant District Attorney Owen A. West, who obtained the indictment, would not reveal details of the charges. The First American National Bank and Trust company had deposits of $500,000 at the time that it closed and capital of $175,000.

File Liability Suits.

Suits to enforce stockholders liabilities in the five state banks were filed later in the day in the Superior court.

State Auditor Nelson announced yesterday that receivers of three closed banks are ready to make payments to depositors immediately. George W. Reinecke, receiver for the Roseland State Savings bank, will send out checks for $158,500, a 10 per cent dividend. He has already made a 20 per cent payment to depositors.

The Service State bank, 5601 West North avenue, will pay 10 per cent, amounting to $32,500, to depositors. Paul Corkell, receiver of the Industrial State bank, 4700 South State street, will pay a 10 per cent dividend amounting to $19,000, the second which this bank has paid.

Hitler Threatens to Seize Police Powers in Germay

BERLIN, June 23.—(AP)—Embittered clashes between Adolf Hitler's National Socialists and communists raging throughout the nation took a toll of four dead today, making a total of ten persons killed since the last week-end.

Fatal clashes occurred at Dortmund, where a National Socialist was killed, and at Duisburg and Strassfurt, where two communists died. A policeman died in Hamburg from injuries received in fighting earlier this week.

Flays South German States.

Referring to the refusal of south German states to lift entirely the government's recently rescinded ban on the Hitlerite storm troops, Goebbels declared:

"We would have given those South German Marxist-Separatist canaille five minutes to think it over and sicked the reichswehr [army] on them."

He warned that unless the police checked the communists, "We will give the command to clear the streets ourselves."

Edmund Heines, National Socialist member of the reichstag, speaking at Breslau, said that "if the police don't support us, we will drive them to the devil."

"In one month we will be the police and then no one else will march," he said.

Use Water Hose on Reds.

Throughout the day emergency squads of Berlin police patrolled the Moabit, Wedding, and Neugoelln districts, where they used clubs and water hose to disperse huge crowds of communist demonstrators and separate communists and brown shirted Hitlerites.

An open air demonstration in the Lustgarten forbidden, the communists threw barricades across streets in the Moabit section in northwest Berlin. Paving slabs, mattresses and building materials were commandeered. The streets were even torn up to hinder the police transports.

The police sealed portions of three streets in the Moabit district and raided houses, flashing big searchlights after the street lights had been smashed.

Disorders in Ruhr District.

Several persons were wounded by bullets and 60 were arrested in a fight tonight near the center of the city.

Disorders continued in the Ruhr district, where it was reported at Essen that the National Socialists had formed motor patrols, assuming police powers and searching the houses of workers.

Clashes at Bergkamen, Bochum, and Duisburg added several more to the list of wounded and 60 to those arrested.

STATE WILL TRY M'GEOGHEGAN FOR ROBBERY AGAIN

Nol Pros Recalled; To Be Reindicted.

The nol. pros. which gained freedom for Daniel McGeoghegan, south side hoodlum, was recalled yesterday by the state and an early second trial will be sought on the charge that he participated in the $60,000 robbery of the State bank of Clearing in December, 1930.

DANIEL McGEOGHEGAN.

The grand jury will be asked to return a new indictment against the gangster today. This action was taken in preference to reinstating the old indictment. The defense might win an appeal on technical grounds if the old indictment were reinstated, State's Attorney Swanson said.

Detectives were ordered to arrest McGeoghegan following a conference attended by State's Attorney Swanson, Lambert Bere, vice president of the bank; Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker, and Assistant State's Attorneys William A. Rittenhouse and Walker Butler.

First Charge Dismissed.

The bank robbery charge was nol-prossed earlier in the week after a jury disagreed at the first trial two weeks ago. The motion was made by Prosecutor Butler, who stated that the bank officials objected to being guarded in a loop hotel and felt their services necessary at the bank. The jurors stood 11 to 1 for conviction when they were dismissed by Judge Prystalski after they had deliberated for 24 hours.

State's Attorney Swanson said that Butler had taken the action without his sanction and started an investigation. After the conference yesterday the state's attorney said that Bere had previously asked that the case be dropped, but is now ready to testify at a second hearing.

Guards will be appointed to protect the witnesses, Mr. Swanson said. It was reported that the guards would accompany the bank officials to their work in order to overcome the objections expressed over the hotel imprisonment for safety during the first trial.

Butler to Direct Trial.

State's Attorney Swanson, Chief Schoemaker, and Bere expressed satisfaction over the manner in which the first case was conducted and it was announced that Prosecutor Butler will direct the second trial.

The first trial brought positive identification of McGeoghegan as one of the bandit gang. Bere and John Camphouse, head of the real estate department of the bank, took the witness stand and pointed out the hoodlum as the leader of the gang.

McGeoghegan, considered one of the toughest gangsters in the city by police, supplied alibi witnesses to prove that he was attending funeral services in a south side church at the time of the robbery on Dec. 6. Steve Ladd, a deputy clerk of the Municipal court, appeared as a witness. He said that his uncle, James Ladd, was buried on Dec. 6, and that he was positive that McGeoghegan was at the funeral.

JUDGE COMMENTS

New York, June 23.—[Special.]—The quashing of charges of robbery against a gangster accused in a Chicago bank holdup because the witnesses feared death and were "anxious to get back to work," evoked comment here today from General Sessions Judge Otto A. Rosalsky.

"Without casting reflection upon the Chicago judge and district attorney involved in the case," said Judge Rosalsky, "I have great doubt whether any judge in this city would approve of a prosecutor's action for dismissal because of reported danger to witnesses.

"The judges in our courts, as well as our prosecutors, must have courage. It is a sad condition when intimidation by anti-social elements can stay the hand of justice."

EXPECT BATTLE IN ELECTION OF CHIEF JUSTICE

The judges of the Circuit and Superior courts, including those assigned to the Criminal court, yesterday received a notice to attend a joint meeting today for the purpose of electing a chief justice of the Criminal court for the next twelve months. Immediately after the notices were received there were chamber conferences and the party lines within the two courts became sharply drawn.

The reason for the differences between the judges is a plan suggested by six of the seven sitting Criminal court judges several weeks ago. These six judges, who are Democrats, advocated that the chief justice of the Criminal court be chosen by the judges of that court alone. The seventh judge is a Republican. The Republicans on the Circuit and Superior benches protest that under the plan proposed the election of chief justice might be controlled by the Democrats for several years.

The plan of the six judges is contrary to the custom which has governed the election of chief justice in recent years. Until the state Supreme court denied the right of Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg to impanel a Criminal court jury while sitting in a Chancery court, the judges of the Circuit and Superior courts had doled out the Criminal court office to a different judge each year under a "gentlemen's agreement." The Supreme court, however, held that only those judges duly assigned to the Criminal court had the power to act in Criminal court matters. The Democratic judges insist that under this ruling it is necessary to adopt their plan.

FAIL TO SETTLE STRIKE OF CITY STREET WORKERS

After conferring with Michael Carrozza, head of the city street laborers' unions that have been on strike for three days, officials of the street bureau said yesterday that no settlement of the strike had been made. It was understood, they said, that Carrozza will confer with John W. Garvey, representative of the international union with which the laborers are affiliated, who called the strike during Carrozza's absence from the city.

The city officials were uncertain whether the payment of two weeks' salary today to all city employés will break the strike.

Meanwhile members of the city council finance committee are studying a proposal to contract for garbage removal and street repair work, authority for which is contained in the city's 1932 budget.

NAMES OF FILM AND OPERA PAIR IN HUTTON CASE

Nurse Spends Day Under Cross-Examination.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 23.—[Special.]—The names of Victor McLaglen, motion picture star, and Pietro Gantile, grand opera singer, entered the $200,000 balm suit trial of Miss Myrtle St. Pierre against Dave Hutton Jr., today while the thirty year old therapeutic nurse was on the witness stand under cross-examination.

Pietro showed up in the anteroom of Superior Judge Lester Roth's court, where the comely brunette, with a bottle of smelling salts in one hand and a glass of ice water at the other, was engaged in swapping retorts with Attorney Mark Jones for Hutton.

The opera singer explained he had been subpœnaed as a witness for Hutton, "but I do not know what for." He said his only acquaintance with the good looking plaintiff was when he had her treat his throat at a hotel in Pasadena where he was giving a concert.

Hutton told questioners that McLaglen would be used as a witness in his favor. Hutton's attorneys disagreed with this, and said that they did not expect McLaglen to go on the stand.

"Good Patients," She Says.

The husky movie actor was another of Miss St. Pierre's patients at one time, she explained. "But if Mr. McLaglen and Mr. Gentile are witnesses, they will help my case," she said. "Both were good patients of mine."

Under cross-examination Miss St. Pierre, who occupied the stand morning and afternoon, was required to tell again how soon after being introduced to the present husband of the Rev. Aimee McPherson-Hutton he began making love to her.

Leading back to the meeting which was arranged by the neighborhood butcher, Miss St. Pierre calculated that the introduction to Dave took place Saturday night, and "it was Tuesday when he told me that he loved me." Previously he had "only kissed the palm of my hand on Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday."

Tells About Dave's Limp.

Eventually the subject came up of Dave's limp. "He asked me if it was because of his limp I would not give him his answer," the witness explained. "We were sitting on my divan and Dave pulled up his trouser leg and showed me his leg. He said his left leg was smaller than his right and it had been caused by an illness, infantile paralysis, when he was a child."

"Well, let's go back to that good old divan. Was there any particular reason for you going to your home that night?"

"Yes."

"Did you take your little overnight bag?"

"Yes."

"When he kissed you, of course you resisted him and tried to stop him?"

"Yes."

"You're sure Dave kissed you, and you didn't kiss him?"

"Now, Mr. Jones, that is a strange question. Naturally, the person being kissed is also kissing the person that is doing the kissing. That is what a kiss is."

"Oh!"

Hutton was an eager watcher all day. He often whispered to his counsel, or swung around in his big swivel chair to follow the witness' moves. Hutton alluded to the crowded courtroom as "my public."

MARRIED LIFE LASTS 24 HOURS; SEEKS DIVORCE

Her married life lasted just 24 hours, Mrs. Loveian De Vore, 32 years old, declared yesterday in a bill for divorce filed in the Superior court. She was married March 26 to William De Vore, secretary of the Pierson-Hollowell Walnut company of Danville, Ill., and left him the next day, the bill states. Mrs. De Vore charges that he endangered her life. Attorney Benjamin Davis of Socrates and Davis, obtained an injunction from Judge Joseph Sabath restraining De Vore from disposing of any of his assets. He has failed to keep up the payments in a $17,200 settlement to which he agreed on May 2, the bill charges.

DISEASE AND BAD WEATHER KILLING VALUABLE TREES

Hickories and Red Cedars Are Affected.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Disease and unusual weather conditions threaten to denude the Chicago area of hickory and red cedar trees in the next few years, much as these two forces have almost annihilated the chestnut trees in this region in recent years.

This danger was revealed yesterday in a survey of Cook, Lake and Du Page counties, in which it was found that more than a hundred young and middle aged hickories, largely of the shellbark species, had perished since last fall.

In contrast to the lifeless skeletons of the broadleafed nut trees found in several wooded areas during the survey, other hickories were continuing to survive. Some of the thriving trees however, showed first signs of infection.

Blame Weather and Fungus.

While a more thorough study of the causes is to be made, first indications led tree experts to declare that abnormal weather conditions, plus the probable effects of a fungus which produces a disease called white wood rot, were responsible.

Tree experts at the Morton arboretum, north of Lisle, said that alternate freezing and thawing last winter and the winter before, plus lack of moisture and food supply in many cases, had reduced the nut tree population in the Chicago region.

They also pointed to the heavy losses of red cedar trees due to the attacks of cedar apple rust. This disease is found in summer on hawthorne and flowering crabapple trees in the form of rust spots which in extreme cases cause the leaves to wither.

In winter, the disease moves to red cedars and other trees of the same family. It takes the form of brown globe shaped growths called cedar apples. Some forms of the rust attack common apple trees with damaging effect.

Little Hope for Trees.

Little hope is held for saving either the hickory or cedar trees from the unfavorable weather and disease, except where the cedars may be isolated from the trees which are affected by the rust in summer, and where extra feedings may be given to hickories to give them greater strength and resistance. These practices, however, are more adapted to home grounds than to wooded plots.

Little trouble with nut trees has been encountered in the forest preserves, according to Charles Sauers, superintendent. He joined with several nurserymen familiar with tree life in the Chicago area in declaring that nut trees were difficult to grow in this locality, because of the deep tap root character of growth and susceptibility to winter injury.

Mr. Sauers has directed a more thorough investigation of the damage to hickories reported in privately owned wooded plots in DuPage and Lake counties as a protective measure to prevent losses of trees in the county properties.

AMELIA EARHART PUTNAM Lands in Chicago Today!

THE flyer, who made the fastest transatlantic flight in history, comes to Chicago today to take part in the Military Pageant at Soldiers' Field.

She arrives this morning over Lansing Airport and is picked up by a squadron of Army Planes and escorted to Curtiss Field. About noon, from a Standard Oil plane, she will review the army maneuvers over the Loop. In the early evening, she is to fly an amphibian plane to the Lake Front.

Remember her record? 13 hours and 30 minutes to Ireland—a woman flying alone! Unafraid, she conquered the long, lonely ocean, trusting to her plane and Standard Oil products to carry her safely through those far sky stretches.

Amelia Earhart Putnam used Standard Oil products on her record-making flight and her Army Escort planes also use Standard Oil products. Flyers know that these products are manufactured with a precision that means unfailing dependability—on which life itself depends in the air.

You benefit by that same precision and dependability when you use Iso-Vis Motor Oil or Standard Red Crown—1933 World's Fair Gasoline. Its eager power will never fail you, no matter where or how far you go.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE PROVINCE OF ILLINOIS.

The United States senate has turned down the request of the Chicago spokesmen for a federal loan for the pay of public employés and the relief of distress. This may not be the final word of the federal government, but it is the answer to date. Senator Lewis and Senator Glenn gave all the aid they could, but Illinois has long been a negligible fraction of the American fiscal scheme.

It is not one of the fourteen states accustomed to take more from the federal treasury than they pay in taxes nor one of the states habitually relying upon the federal government for local improvements and sectional benefits. Therefore, a request from it for a loan to be repaid was denied by senators who send subsidies to their constituents as Christmas presents from Washington.

Illinois is relied upon to contribute majorities to the Republican ticket and to pay its taxes to the federal collector. When it has complied in these two particulars it then submits to more than the usual federal interference in its affairs.

The federal government encourages a conspiracy against its waterway and conducts systematic campaigns against two of its distinctive enterprises, the packing industry and the Board of Trade. California obtains $165,000,000 and is encouraged to expect $220,000,000 more to hook the Colorado river up with its water mains. Chicago is ordered to stop the flow of water in the Chicago river, meter all its domestic taps, and spend millions in plants for the treatment of its sewage.

Chicagoans go to Washington as the early Britons might have gone to Rome, people from a far province who should be heard from only through the tax collector.

ANOTHER PROHIBITION KILLING.

Two armed federal prohibition agents who entered a country store in Texas to apprehend a suspect and there killed a storekeeper and wounded his wife have just been acquitted for murder and assault by order of the federal district judge. The agents, of course, pleaded self-defense. The wife of their chief victim said she and her husband thought their store was being robbed. The federal judge was not disposed to let the issue go to the jury, but directed acquittal. This seems to be another instance of prohibition violence supported or condoned by federal authority. The local conscience is not to speak. The king's judges protect the king's officers.

The case is one of the many illustrating the inevitable excesses of such a system as federal prohibition. Federal agents of enforcement have been encouraged to reckless use of arms. The result has been to bring about violence when the object of arrest and the offense suspected or charged do not justify violence. In England the police do not carry deadly weapons and professional criminals do not go armed. Arrests for much more serious offenses than illicit liquor dealing are made without killing. But under prohibition homes and private premises are invaded by armed men, citizens are shot down on suspicion, the laws have been perverted and discredited by lawless enforcement, civil rights have been evaded or trampled upon.

No wonder a good part of the law abiding citizenship of the nation are demanding the promptest possible release from this tyranny. The prohibition question, as Dr. Butler has well said, is no longer a question of liquor, but a question of government. The fight for repeal is a fight for the American system of ordered liberty, for the heritage of a free people.

THE KINGFISH AT THE DOOR.

The qualifications of Senator Hooey Long (call him Kingfish or roll your own) for a seat in the Democratic convention, along with the qualifications of his commissars, are being considered by a subcommittee of the Democratic national committee. Former Gov. Sanders of Louisiana heads the contesting delegation. The Kingfish is one of the aberrations of democracy which never do a party any good. Often enough the afflicted party realizes this, but doesn't know what to do about it.

In trying to crash the gate into the Democratic convention Long seems to have double-crossed everybody. The convention four years ago ruled again that delegates should be chosen in convention. Long had presented himself with an irregular delegation and was seated with a warning not to try it again. He has repeated the trick, resting his claim for recognition on the action of a majority of the state committee, which he controls. The opposing delegation was chosen in a convention called by other members of the state committee in conformity with the rules of the national organization.

Expediency and compromise frequently govern in the settlement of state disputes brought before the national party arbitrators. The reputable elements of the Democratic party in Louisiana are fighting to throw the Kingfish out and they are bound to succeed. It would help them a great deal if they got some assistance from the national party. Hooey is a senator and he has a governor in his pocket, but it would help the national party a great deal to send the ballyhoo back to the medicine show.

THE PRESIDENT'S ARMS PROPOSAL.

The American public will undoubtedly give its prompt approval to the President's proposal for arms reduction. In Europe the response will be different. France especially, since it has the most formidable land armament in the world, will lack enthusiasm and will not be impressed by Mr. Hoover's contention that a horizontal reduction, such as he proposes, will not effect any change in her relative position. Her experts will examine the proposals for the elimination of certain weapons from the standpoint of their effect upon military efficiency, and so will those of Great Britain. We already read objections from the latter because the submarine is not to be abolished, a measure which the lesser naval powers do not favor.

The fact is that in spite of the financial conditions oppressing European nations there is no such zeal for general armament reduction as exists in the United States. European diplomacy at this time, moreover, is especially suspicious of American pressure for reduction, as it is understood to be a phase of our policy on debt payment. We have made it clear that we think one of the chief reasons why Europe will not pay us is that they are spending too much upon armaments. The rather vague implication that we may reduce, if not cancel, our claims in proportion to their reductions in armament does not offset the fear that reduction will encourage us to insist upon rather than surrender payment. We may also expect some resentment at what will be called American dictation. It will be pointed out that the Hoover proposal is not only an effort to force sovereign nations to form their national defenses according to American ideas and interests, but also that it will not effect a reduction of existing American forces. There is a very obvious answer to that objection, since our existing forces are at a minimum so low as to constitute no threat to any of the powers upon which armament reduction depends.

The American public will not be concerned with any of these considerations. The fact that the proposal does not call for reductions in our already moderate and even depleted forces makes it desirable from the American viewpoint that other great powers be induced, if possible, to cut down their armaments. Even those who are convinced that we have gone too far in reducing our defense on sea and land realize that in our present condition expenditures necessary to build up to treaty limits, or to invest in expensive weapons, are out of the question.

We do not think the President's plan is likely to be adopted. We do not think that if adopted it would be as conducive to European peace as pacifistic theorists imagine. But at least it does not propose unprofitable and one-sided sacrifices by us, and if it can have any substantial influence toward reducing armament expenditures in Europe its benefits should reach us directly or indirectly in due time.

A REVOLUTIONARY ROAD PROGRAM.

Ald. Massen, as chairman of the traffic committee of the city council, says that if the state will spend its road funds in building arterial highways and grade separations in and around Chicago the increased revenue from gasoline taxes and license fees will pay whatever these improvements cost.

At present the state spends most of its road funds downstate. With few exceptions the roads it is building accommodate little traffic even on Sundays, add next to nothing to the consumption of gasoline, and induce no one to buy an automobile who hasn't one already. If the money were spent, as Ald. Massen suggests, in construction in the metropolitan area, there is no doubt that motoring would become more attractive to thousands who now have no cars or, having them, refuse to undergo the annoyance of Sunday motoring in and out of Chicago.

Needless to say, Ald. Massen's suggestion is revolutionary. The idea in Illinois has always been that the road funds are a form of political patronage to be distributed as such. The relative needs of various communities for additional road facilities have never been consulted. The congestion of the highways in a particular area has never been accepted as an index to the need for highway improvements in that area. The possibility of increasing the state's revenues by making motoring attractive in the Chicago region must be a brand new thought to the Springfield bureaucrats who distribute the money. Their idea hitherto has always been to reward the faithful and punish the unfaithful voters.

Editorial of the Day

[Illinois State Register.]

Chicagoans have felt more or less aggrieved at being required to pay state automobile fees and gasoline taxes for the maintenance of the state paved road system, claiming that downstate Illinois has received practically all of the direct benefits.

It is true that thus far all the funds for the state paved road system have been expended in downstate Illinois, but while the rural communities of the state have profited more directly than Chicago from the expansion of the paved road system it must be remembered that each and every city, town, or community connected by paved road with the main paved arteries of the state highways is brought closer to Chicago, as a veritable travel and trade feeder.

It has always been our contention that Chicago would get full value received from every dollar contributed toward the construction and maintenance of the state paved road system, whether or not a single dollar was ever spent on the improvement of streets or highways within its city limits, and there has been much justification for that argument.

But now the Chicago grievance, fancied or otherwise, is being appeased. The state highway program for the year calls for an expenditure of some $2,000,000 within the city limits for the improvement of highways leading into the heart of the metropolis. The bids for the first stretch of pavement within Chicago boundaries have been opened and the future will undoubtedly witness much larger expenditures directly benefiting the city.

Downstate Illinois approves these expenditures wholeheartedly because it realizes that in turn the money spent on improving Chicago streets will indirectly benefit the motorists from downstate who travel by automobile to or through the lake city.

Any improvement that profits Illinois in any part is a benefit to the whole state, either directly or indirectly.

A LA SALLE STREET SAGA.

Those who think there is naught but sorrow and sadness, wailing and gnashing of teeth in La Salle street these days are all wet. And indeed much wetter than the w. k. Republican platform. The merry brokers take it on the chin with a smile and to prove it comes this sparkling little story which is bouncing back and forth on the street and awakening everywhere merry peals of laughter, which rise ofttimes as high as the top of the Board of Trade. One broker approaches another and says, "I have a conundrum for you." "Bet it's about U. S. Steel," says the other, suspiciously. "Nix," answers the first man. "It's like this: If two trains pass each other, one going east fifty-two and a half miles an hour and the other going west sixty-nine and a third miles an hour, how old am I?" "Thirty-eight," answers the second man promptly. "Wonderful!" said the first man; "why, that's exactly my age. How did you do it?" "Well," says the second man, "I've got a brother nineteen years old and he's half nuts. So you're thirty-eight." Ah, shrieks of childish laughter. Who said depression?

SUMMER LOVE.

I think I know the game you play,
It's written in your glances,
You're searching for a summer girl
Who swims and golfs and dances.

Who'll play at love but will not try
To land you . . . Oh my, never!
Who'll let you think you got away
Because you were so clever.

A girl who will be half surprised
If maybe you remember
To send a holly-sprinkled card
The last of next December.

Your roadster's built to cover ground,
I crave speed and I'm fickle,
I'll drink with you to summer love
And sell it for a nickel.

Flirtations are a boon, my dear,
That liberty enhances. . . .
But, then, I'd probably fall for you,
And I'm through taking chances.

CANCER AND TOBACCO OILS.

In a discussion of the relation of smoking to cancer, which appeared in the Journal of Hygiene this spring, there was much valuable information, even though the debate ended in what might be called a dog fall.

It is quite well proved that long continued applications to the skin of certain tars and oils tend to puroduce cancer. There is a something in such tars and oils which is called carcinogenic, or a cancer producing principle. Not all oils or tars contain it. Furthermore, it is now known that this principle is found in that part of the oil which has a certain wave length. More than that, they know it is found in that part which vaporizes in a certain range of temperatures.

Thus, although we know so little about the nature of cancer, we do know that certain chemicals can cause it; that at least one such chemical is found in some tars and oils, and that it has a certain wave length and volatilizes at a certain temperature. This is a fair body of information on which to stand while continuing the search for the cause of cancer.

These few known facts were applied to tobacco as a cause of cancer. It was found that tobacco oils have the right wave length. They can be burned at about the right temperatures for the volatilization of the cancer principle. However, under the conditions in which smoking is done, the temperatures reached are not those at which this oil volatilizes.

Perhaps a fair way to state it is that in the research work on which the discussion above referred to was based it was proved that tobacco oil contained the cancer producing principle, but it was not proved that it was liberated and applied in a way that produced cancer.

The man who wants to know whether he subjects himself to danger if he smokes will not get much from the discussion, on which he can make his decision. The mouth surgeon tells him that he is liable to get cancer if he smokes too much and especially if he smokes a pipe. When he asks the mouth surgeon what he bases his opinion on he learns that the only foundation is that the surgeon has seen many mouth cancers among smokers.

When he asks whether the surgeon has checked his opinion by figures of mouth cancer among nonsmokers, or figures of smokers who did not develop cancer he is apt to be told that he has not. The surgeon tells him that he has noted that smokers are apt to have hard areas, called leucoplakia patches, in the mouth, and that cancer is apt to develop in these. But, again, he will find that this is not a very clinical observation.

The tar research man tells him that the tar from tobacco smoke contains a principle which volatilizes at the right temperature, and has the right wave lengths for the cancer producing principle. But he will also admit that his proof is not complete and that he has not produced cancer with it.

To this the man on the other side will say that laboratory conditions are never the same as actual conditions and that experiments done on lower animals are never wholly applicable to man. This is an argument that may be used either for or against tobacco. He may add that the danger does not lie in one use of tobacco, or in one day's use, but in the use of it many times a day for many years.

The innocent bystander finally concludes that he must wait a while longer for the final word.

JUNE 24, 1916.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—The two troops of the Tenth cavalry, numbering about 125 men under Capt. Charles T. Boyd, were practically wiped out by the attack of Mexican forces under Gen. Gomez at Carrizal June 21, according to indications given in a supplementary report received by Gen. Funston from Gen. Pershing. The message stated that seven survivors in all, including those who arrived tonight, have reached the main column. All were enlisted men, but the report did not say whether there were noncommissioned soldiers among them. According to the stories of the survivors, a mounted force of Mexicans made a charge from the flank at the conclusion of a parley between Capt. Boyd and Gen. Gomez at the same time that a machine gun opened fire from the front as Gen. Gomez reached his lines. Capt. Boyd had ordered his men to dismount as the machine gun opened fire, and the combined effect of the Mexican charge, the machine gun fire, and the rifle fire from the Mexican garrison of Carrizal, which had almost surrounded the small American force under cover of the parley, sought by Gen. Gomez to discuss whether Capt. Boyd should be allowed to pass through the town, stampeded the horses.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—With all available information adding to the fear that practically the entire command of Capt. Boyd was wiped out by a treacherous attack by Carrancista troops in overwhelming numbers at Carrizal, the United States tonight is close to a declaration of war on Mexico. If Gen. Pershing's final report bears out the conviction that the Boyd command was treacherously annihilated, it is expected that the administration will serve an ultimatum on Carranza to disavow the attack and release the seventeen American prisoners taken to Chihuahua. Whether the attack at Carrizal shall be pronounced "an overt attack of hostility by the de facto government" is the question before the administration.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Mustering of the Illinois troops into the federal military service will start tomorrow in all of the regiments. But the men probably will not go to the border sooner than a week or ten days hence. There will be 13,000 of them here by tomorrow night. Lieut. Col. E. M. Lewis of the regular army, as senior officer, will be in charge. It is up to him to say when a regiment will be ready and until he has given the word no Illinois soldiers will leave Camp Lincoln or Camp Dunne for the front.

VENICE.—Austrian airplanes dropped bombs on Venice this morning, killing six persons. The material damage was insignificant.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

YESTERDAY'S QUESTION:

What is the nature of consciousness and its relation to the nervous system?

ANSWER:

Consciousness is only a name, a label—not a thing. One acts "consciously" or "unconsciously," but never has consciousness. To act consciously is to act in a more complete way than to act unconsciously. Employed in this manner the term is correctly used as a descriptive adverb. To make a noun out of this descriptive term, to think of "consciousness" as some mysterious thing, is to commit the fallacy of reifying (making a thing out of) an abstraction. "Consciousness," "life," "mind," "instincts," "ideas," "intelligence"—all are abstractions, not independent existential realities; they have no existence in their own right. Combine hydrogen with oxygen, under proper conditions, and the result is water which has new qualities, one of which is "wetness." Where did the wetness come from? Did it enter in from the outside? The "wetness" is simply an emergent quality, a function of a higher form of organization. With an increase in complexity of organization new and often unpredictable qualities emerge. The most complex substance known to man is protoplasm. This remarkable structure naturally possesses equally remarkably functions. We conveniently describe its complex behavior by the term "living." But another emergent quality has appeared—the organism is "consciously" active; it is "aware" of its surroundings. The emergence of this aspect of behavior is no more—and no less—mysterious than the emergence of the quality of "wetness" in the case cited above. It merely lies on a higher plane of organism. Considerable scientific evidence indicates that the complex structure underlying conscious activity is the nervous system—more exactly, the brain. It is a matter of common knowledge that drugs, anesthetics, head injuries, and certain diseases may profoundly disturb "consciousness"—i. e.: affect an attribute, or function, by attacking its underlying structure.

SHOULD BE PAVED.

Chicago, June 19.—[Friend of the People.]—Kildare avenue between George street and Wellington avenue is in a very bad condition due to not being paved and having piles of clay of such uneven proportions as to make it practically impassable. This condition also creates a fire hazard, as no vehicles can travel on this street without the possibility of overturning. The owners of homes on this street are not in a position right now to have it paved, but they would appreciate having the street leveled out. A. J. S.

Report is made that Kildare avenue between George street and Wellington avenue is an unimproved street. A sewer was installed several years ago and sufficient time has elapsed for necessary settlement of backfilling. The next step should be the improvement of the roadway by paving. This is the only remedy for present conditions.

DEPENDS ON THE WORDING.

Chicago, June 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father's half brother died in 1892 leaving a will in which he gave half of the estate to his only child, a son, and half to his adopted daughter, and in the event of her death her half was to revert to the son. At the son's death, without issue, the estate was to go to "his legal heirs." The daughter died without issue and the son is about 79 years old and unmarried. At the time of my uncle's death there were about twenty nieces and nephews. Today there are about seven. 1. When the estate is distributed is the distribution confined to the nieces and nephews living? 2. Or do the descendants of those who died participate in the distribution? I am informed by the probate judge, where my uncle lived and died, that the distribution of the estate will be governed by the law of descent which was superseded in January, 1932, by a new law of descent. M. T. S.

1. Depends on the wording of the will. It seems probable from what you say that the wording is such that the relatives took vested interests on the death of the testator and that such interests have descended to the heirs of the ones who have died.
2. See No. 1.

MORE ABOUT THE PATENT OFFICE.

Washington, D. C., June 9.—Before me is the letter appearing in the June 8th edition of your paper, signed by the board of managers of the Patent Law Association of Chicago.

The writer of that letter would have you believe that the actual work of making an examination on an application for patent today is much more arduous than it has ever been before. No fallacy is greater than this, for a study has shown that, considering the force at the patent office today, there are relatively fewer applications filed than were ever filed before. The total of applications for patents has increased, no doubt, but for a number of years past the increase in the personnel of the patent office corps has been relatively greater. Nor has the field of search increased, despite the contentions to the contrary. Today there are relatively fewer patents assigned to each examiner as his average field of search than there were twelve years ago. The specifications in patent applications, by actual count of words, have been found to be no longer; and the number of sheets of drawings are not greater than they were at other times in the history of the patent office. There is nothing to the contention that the work is heavier today than it was 25 years ago, except in one particular: today the patent office has adopted the attitude of freely refusing patents to inventors, whereas 25 years ago its policy was that of freely granting patents to inventors.

While the patent office was not inaugurated as a revenue producing enterprise, it is a fact that up to the year 1922, with few exceptions, the annual receipts from patent fees exceeded the disbursements by this government bureau. When Albert B. Fall, secretary of interior, induced President Harding to appoint the present commissioner of patents, the total accumulated balances favorable to the patent office amounted to more than $3,000,000. It is a fact that since that date the accumulated deficits have amounted to approximately $3,000,000, leaving [as the letter of the board of managers states] approximately $5,500,000 still as a credit to the patent office. But it must be remembered that during the last ten years there has not been a single year in which the budget of the patent office has been balanced; and this in spite of the fact that during this same period there have been substantial increases in the fees charged inventors.

It is true [as the letter states] that the rules of practice of the patent office are substantially the same as they have been for many years; but the manner of applying those rules has undergone a change in the last 12 years. Before that time a spirit of liberality toward the inventor was the consistent policy of the patent office. Today there are few attorneys, in practice for a sufficient length of time to make a comparison, who will deny that the present attitude of the patent office officials is one of illiberality and antagonism to the issue of patents to inventors.

It is hard for this writer to believe that the six patent attorneys, referred to as the board of managers of the Chicago Patent Law association, knew the facts as they exist, or they would not have permitted their names to appear under such a letter, even though it was written in the patent office itself.

GOLFING IN THE PARK.

Chicago, June 20.—The writer and hundreds of other north side golfers would like the Lincoln park commissioners to explain through this column why we have to pay 150 per cent more to play on the new north course than the south siders pay at Jackson park.

Please don't tell us that it cost $25,000 an acre to build, that there are two starters, two cashiers, as well as a greens keeper and laborers to pay. Any schoolboy knows that this is taken care of by taxation. The tennis player plays free even though there is an exclusive investment as well as monthly salaries to pay to starters.

Why don't the commissioners charge to visit the animals? There is a large investment in buildings, as well as a large number of keepers to pay; besides, those tigers sure do eat.

Well, as I heard a sweet young thing say the other day, you don't have to be crazy to play golf, but it helps; and I guess that's about as good an answer as any. R. N. SHOFFNER.

THE "L" EMPLOYE'S POSITION.

Chicago, June 21.—Why doesn't some one tell the truth about the "L" men? They are not voting against a pay cut, but against the hours. The contract they want them to accept reads: "No overtime until after eight hours and thirty minutes," which means that they want to make runs that long, which in turn means that more runs could be taken off and more men laid off.

Eight hours are plenty to work, especially these days. These men should not be blamed for voting against longer hours. They would be voting some one out of a job if they were to accept this contract. [MRS.] MINNIE CLARK.

A PLATFORM.

We, the Democratic party, pledge ourselves:

1. To repeal the 18th amendment.
2. To reduce government operating expenses 30 per cent, from the President's salary to the janitor of the doghouse on the White House lawn, and everything else in between.
3. To eliminate every unnecessary government board and bureau.
4. To take the United States government out of private business.
5. To pass no new laws—but to repeal every objectionable law we can.
6. To reduce all forms of government taxes—not less than 30 per cent.

JOHN DOUGHTY.

HE WANTS TO KNOW.

Chicago, June 13.—You have a lot to say about the repeal of the 18th amendment. Why do you forget the 15th? Hasn't the 15th exactly the same status as the 18th? Wasn't it evaded in the same way, doesn't it violate state rights in the same way, and isn't it just as difficult to enforce? D. DAVIDSON.

ADAM SMITH ON PRICE TRENDS.

Shawano, Wis., June 13.—As a bit of manna in the seemingly endless desert of depression may I submit a gleaning from Adam Smith's "Wealth of Nations"? It is this sentence from book 1, chapter 7:

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—[Special.]—The pages of the Congressional Record today disclosed that an objection by Representative William H. Stafford [Rep., Wis.], frustrated passage of a bill providing $5,000 damages from the government for Nick Vasilzevic, 6 year old son of a Milwaukee victim of ruthless federal dry law enforcement. The boy's mother was electrocuted when she stepped into a pool of wine carelessly left in the basement of her home by raiding prohibition agents.

W. H. STAFFORD. [A. P. Photo.]

"Federal prohibition agents operating under a search warrant, searched the home of the deceased mother of the beneficiary of this bill," Representative John C. Schafer [Rep., Wis.] stated in explaining to the house why the bill had been reported favorably by the committee handling claims against the government. "They poured the confiscated spirits down the sink, as the report from the department indicates, but they poured the confiscated wine on a dirt basement, and as a result the spirit of this little boy's mother is in the great beyond at the present time."

Blame Laid to Agents.

While the agents were taking the husband, the owner of the premises, to jail, the mother went down in the basement to turn off the electric light. By reason of the fact that the wine had been poured on the dirt electric contact resulted in her electrocution. If the agents had not poured the wine on the basement floor, but had poured it down the sink, the same way they poured the spirits down the sink, the boy's mother would not be dead.

"A reading of the committee report shows that Mr. Woodcock, the director of the prohibition department, censured the agents and said they exceeded their authority. A prohibition agent is a law enforcement agent and has no legal authority to act as judge and jury, to confiscate and destroy property."

"When this inquest took place in my home city, arising out of an incident in my district," Mr. Stafford said, "I naturally followed it. I was rather impressed with the finding of the coroner's inquest, to the effect that there was a defective electric light bulb which was the contributing cause of this injury. What has my colleague to say about that?"

Spilled Wine Causes Contact.

"The defective light bulb could not contribute to the death of any one who turned that light on or off until the prohibition agents spilled the wine on the dirt floor, thereby making a contact," retorts Representative Schafer. "Therefore, the pouring of the wine is the primary causation of the passing of this poor, unfortunate woman, with the result that she has left this little child. In view of these facts, and in view of the fact that the prohibition director's report indicates negligence on the part of the agents in pouring the wine on the dirt floor, and in view of the fact that the director of prohibition censured the agents for so doing, I believe this is about as meritorious a bill as there is on this private calendar."

"If the gentleman will permit," interrupted Representative James M. Mead [Dem., N. Y.], "let me say in verifying the statement he has made to the effect that the agents contributed to the death of this woman, that any one who knows anything about electricity knows that liquid of any kind poured upon a cellar floor or any other place immediately becomes a conductor of electricity and endangers the life of any one who places any part of their body in contact with an electrical circuit of high voltage.

Objects, Then Withdraws It.

"Had the cellar floor been dry or left in a dry condition by the agent—in other words, if this liquid had not been poured on the floor to dampen the feet of this woman—no matter how many defective light bulbs she may have touched, there would be no current passing through her body because of the resistance of the dry floor, her stockings, and shoes. So the presence of the liquid spilled by the federal agent made possible the contact and made her body a conductor of electricity and brought about the condition explained by the gentleman from Wisconsin."

Representative Ross A. Collins [Dem., Miss.] objected to passage of the bill. He expressed the view that the condition of the light cord had caused death.

"If the agents had not entered the property," countered Schafer, "and if they had not poured out the wine on the dirt floor, there certainly would not have been any short circuiting causing the death of this boy's mother."

"Well, I do not want to do an injustice," replied Mr. Collins. "I withdraw my objection."

"I shall have to object," said Stafford.

Pay for Damaged Tubes.

Although objection was raised to the payment of damages for the death of a woman, none thus far has been made in the case of a damage suit for $330.06 for damages caused to a pile of old inner tubes by raiding prohibition agents.

Gordon, Ind., 1814 Albert street, Racine, will get the $330.06 in payment for damages done to property by the carelessness of prohibition agents raiding the place at 1314 Frederick street when congress passes its next deficiency appropriation bill.

With the approval of Attorney General William D. Mitchell, Director of the Budget J. Clawson Roop has asked congress to appropriate to settle the claim.

SWINDLE GANG SUSPECT TAKEN; MILLIONS LOST

Woman Charges Theft of $177,000.

New York, June 23.—[Special.]—Frank Delpinrie, alias Frank C. Davis, Frank Christie, George Walker, and Lawrence Monahan, who represents himself as a bankrupt automobile dealer from Bronxville, but who the police say belongs to a gang that has fleeced people out of $4,000,000 in the last ten years, appeared in the lineup at police headquarters today on a grand larceny charge.

The alleged larceny involves the sum of $177,000 cash which the police report as having been secured outside the law by Delpinrie and a confederate from Miss Kathryn K. Besson, 50 years old, of Uniontown and Pittsburgh, Pa., now living in a New York hotel, when the two "con" men used the "lost pocketbook" game to make her acquaintance in the dining room of a Newark department store on Nov. 30, 1930.

Inherited $2,000,000.

The police allege that Delpinrie is a former lieutenant of the Gondorf brothers, internationally known confidence men, race track swindlers, and wire tappers. Miss Besson is reported as having inherited $2,000,000 from relatives who acquired their wealth in United States Steel. She maintains a home in Pittsburgh as well as in Uniontown, Pa.

She was having lunch in the Newark store when Delpinrie asked her if a wallet he had picked up behind her chair belonged to her. She replied that it did not. After he had opened it in her presence a man came along to claim the money and securities in it as his. The "owner" wanted to turn over all the money to Delpinrie, who introduced himself to his confederate and Miss Besson as Frank C. Davis.

Gives "Inside" Stock Tip.

This Mr. Davis refused to accept any reward for his "honesty," so the man to whom the wallet "belonged" insisted that he must reward the finder and Miss Besson in some way. He chose an inside tip on a stock transaction as the method, with the result that Miss Besson borrowed $177,000 in cash on $220,000 worth of stock. She turned the money over to Delpinrie and his confederate with the expectation of making half a million, and that was the last seen of Mr. Davis until he was arrested early today in West 171st street when he came out with a small dog.

Miss Besson, accompanied by a lawyer, this afternoon went to police headquarters and positively identified Delpinrie as one of the two men concerned with the larceny of her $177,000.

SLUGGED, BUT SAVES HIS $600.

Jacob Seidscher, 50 years old, 8045 Paxton avenue, was struck on the head with the butt of a revolver when he resisted two bandits yesterday. Seidscher, president of the Eureka Parlor Manufacturing corporation, 5030 Lowe avenue, was carrying $600. The robbers fled without taking it.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste, and your breath is foul; skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel up and up. They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

GRAND TRUNK

Lost Ugly Fat

Her Husband Says She Looks Five Years Younger!

There is a certain weight at which every woman looks her loveliest—not skinny underweight nor pendulous overweight, but normal weight. We find artists, doctors, theatrical producers (and husbands!) all agree upon this point. "My husband says I look five years younger," writes this lady of 29 who—thanks to her daily dose of Kruschen Salts—has unburdened her body of 18 pounds of ugly fat. Read her letter:

"Having heard from a friend of mine that she lost considerable weight since taking Kruschen Salts, I started using them in July last when I weighed 177 lbs. I have lost weight steadily since then, and am now 159 lbs.—my normal weight. Moreover, I feel brighter and more energetic in every way.

"I have inquired of my dressmaker my measurements which in August last were: Bust 40, hips 43½, waist 33¼ inches, which is normal for my height, which is 5 ft. 8 in. My age is 29. My husband is a very severe critic. He says I look five years younger. There is no other reason for my loss of weight except Kruschen as I do not take any particular diet.

"(Mrs.) S. R., London, England."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that will last four weeks costs but a trifle—take as directed every morning. When the jar is empty get on the scales and see how many pounds you have lost. Attention to diet will help—cut down on nasty and fatty meats; go light on potatoes.

But remember, to take off fat harmlessly and SAFELY be sure for your health's sake that you ask for and get Kruschen Salts. Get them at any drug store in the world, and if the results one bottle brings do not delight you—do not joyfully satisfy you—why, money back.

MILLS DECLARES RESPONSIBILITY OF PARTIES FAILS

Seabury Assails New York City's Corruption.

Cambridge, Mass., June 23.—[Special.]—Breakdown of two phases of American government were discussed today before the Harvard Alumni association by Ogden L. Mills, secretary of the treasury, and Judge Samuel Seabury, counsel for the Hofstader legislative committee which is investigating Mayor Walker's administration in New York City.

Mr. Mills described the recent action of congress in connection with the revenue bill as a "dastardly performance" resulting from a breakdown of party responsibility.

Mr. Seabury told the alumni that millions of dollars had been wrung from the people of New York City by a political despotism.

Voted as Individuals.

"Men voted as individuals careless of their responsibilities to their party and to their party leaders and responding only to their own views and to their own individual prospects as they viewed them," he said.

"A smooth running and effective legislative organization had dissolved instantaneously into 435 individual units. There was greater safety in abandoning the party than in supporting it. It was a dastardly performance, and yet, I repeat, a dramatic culmination of a process long since under way in this country.

"Fortunately, the remedy is not far to seek, though it lies in your hands and in the hands of all the citizens of this country to apply it. The men and women of the country today are more vitally concerned in the government than ever before, because under modern conditions and the problems which confront us a government can more directly and vitally affect their lives and destiny than ever before.

Demands Majority Control.

"Let them translate that concern into action, and since individual action is bound to be an incentive, let them unite and organize, and when they reach that point they will find that parties furnish the most convenient and effective mediums for organizations of this kind.

"Let us, then, rebuild our two great parties into responsible and responsive instrumentalities of government. Let us insure majority rather than minority control of our government."

Seabury Assails Corruption.

"Municipal government in the United States has long been recognized as the weakest spot in our system. Under it we have popular government only in form," Mr. Seabury said. "In fact, we have a political despotism, controlled by political organizations whose fixed purpose is to commercialize the processes of government. In this way, and by this means, millions of dollars have been wrung from the people of the city of New York. The ignorant, the poor, and the helpless have been ruthlessly and remorselessly preyed upon."

After discussing various political evils, Mr. Seabury urged all young men and women being graduated from the country's colleges to spurn an attitude of indifference to public affairs. He said preservation of an interest in public affairs must constitute "a paramount loyalty."

MINISTER WINS LIBEL SUIT FROM CHURCHMEN

Springfield, Ill., June 23.—(AP)—The Rev. John A. Logan Warren, former pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Durand, today had won his libel suit against church members who caused his retirement as a clergyman.

The Supreme court refused to review the case, thereby affirming the opinion of the Appellate court, which upheld a $10,000 judgment against Judd Van Sickle, Albert E. Swinson, George Fritz, Edgar Best, and Henry Graham.

It was charged they conspired with N. E. Lamb to defame the minister and induced Lamb to appear before the church board, which ousted the pastor, and charged him with misconduct with Lamb's daughter, who had served as a domestic in the minister's home.

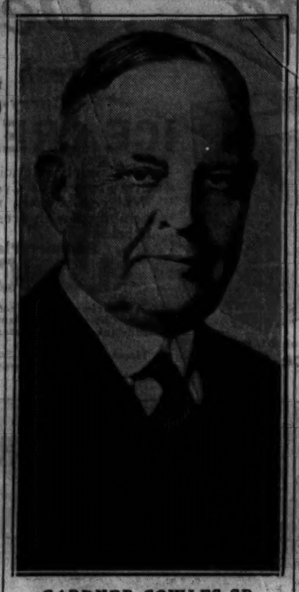
Liquor Sales in Quebec Off 21 Per Cent in Year

MONTREAL, Que., June 23.—[Special.]—Hard times and additional taxation on sales gave liquor sales in the province of Quebec a severe setback during the fiscal year ending April 30, 1932, according to preliminary estimates from the provincial capital today. A decline in sales of $5,000,000 is reported, the total being placed at $17,500,000, against $22,711,639 in the previous year. This represents a drop of 21 per cent.

House Committee O. K.'s Survey of Chicago Harbor

Washington, D. C., June 23.—[Special.]—The house rivers and harbors committee today approved a resolution introduced by Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] calling for a survey of the Chicago harbor with a view to deepening the channel to accommodate passenger steamers.

GETS PLUM



GARDNER COWLES SR.

COWLES, IOWAN, IS APPOINTED TO FINANCE BOARD

Succeeds Dawes, but Not as President.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—[Special.]—Gardner Cowles Sr. of Des Moines, Ia., today was nominated by President Hoover to fill the vacancy on the board of directors of the Reconstruction Finance corporation caused by the resignation of Charles G. Dawes.

In sending the nomination to the senate President Hoover explained that while Mr. Cowles was being appointed to Mr. Dawes' seat on the board, he was not being put forward also to fill Mr. Dawes' place as president of the corporation.

To Name President Soon.

President Hoover will designate the new president of the gigantic government financing agency at a later date. That some person not now identified with the corporation might be selected was indicated by the fact that it was explained the president need not be a member of the board of directors.

Mr. Cowles, who is 71 years old, is publisher of the Des Moines Register and Tribune and is prominent in Iowa banking interests. He is listed as an independent Republican.

FORMER IOWA BANKER.

Mr. Cowles left the banking business to enter the newspaper field. When he became a publisher, in 1903, he gave up the management of ten country banks in northern Iowa. He served as a director of the Iowa-Des Moines National bank and of the Northwest Bancorporation until two years ago, however.

He served in the Iowa house of representatives from 1899 to 1903. His appointment today is the second given him by President Hoover. He was a member of the public lands commission, which made its report a year ago.

Mr. Cowles was born in Oskaloosa, Ia., and attended Penn, Grinnell, and Iowa Wesleyan colleges, being graduated from the latter in 1882.

Foreclosure Bill Filed Against Covenant Club

A bill for foreclosure against the Covenant club, 10 North Dearborn street, was filed in the Superior court yesterday by the Chicago Title and Trust company. The bill charged that the club defaulted on $50,000 worth of bonds last July 1. The bill says that the mortgages on the building and ground, leased by the club for 99 years, total $800,000.

Contrasted to the administration's contention that the relief program should contain no public works section at all is that of the house leadership, which is very likely not to be be satisfied with the substitution of the Wagner bill's 500 millions for the Garner "pork barrel" bill's public works provisions of one billion and ninety millions.

The Wagner bill, as passed today, was a substitute for the entire bill sponsored by Speaker John N. Garner [Dem., Tex.]. The speaker has already given warning that he expects to be satisfied with the amount of money for federal construction.

Road Amendment Loses.

In addition to the rejection of the Moses and Harrison amendments a third significant defeat was suffered by an amendment offered by Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.], who sought to have highway construction under the bill distributed according to population, instead of under the usual federal aid formula.

The agricultural states and the state that Senator Moses once called the home of the "wild jackass," immediately rallied in opposition and the amendment was defeated, 22 to 55.

There was no roll call on the bill's final passage.

In its final form, following four days of amendment, the relief measure was, as Senator King said, "a catch all."

As its chief feature, it provides that the Reconstruction Finance corporation may issue additional bonds in an additional sum of one billion, 460 million dollars and make loans to states, political subdivisions of states, boards and commissions, to finance projects authorized by law, under some form of government regulation, and which are self-liquidating in character.

Can Buy Securities.

The corporation may also make contracts with such states and subdivisions for the purchase of their securities. Loans also may be made to limited-profit housing corporations, to private corporations for constructing bridges, tunnels, docks, viaducts, water works, and canals devoted to public use and self-liquidating; and for bridges paid for in part by taxation.

The corporation is authorized to set up in any federal land bank district a regional agricultural credit corporation and furnish it with a paid up capital of not less than $3,000,000.

The corporation is to advance an additional $40,000,000 to the secretary of agriculture, to be used by him in financing the export of farm commodities—presumably those now held by the federal farm board.

Bond Issue Provided.

The public works section of the bill creates an "emergency construction fund" of 500 million dollars, to be raised through the sale of government bonds; the bonds to be first offered as a popular loan and to bear interest at a rate of not more than 4¼ per cent.

Projects are to be selected from those already authorized and on which work can be immediately started. Approximately 200 millions of the work is now carried in the annual appropriation bills. The total expenditure is to be divided as follows:

For federal highways, 120 millions; forest and park roads, 16 millions; river and harbors projects, 30 millions; flood control, 15½ millions; Boulder dam, 10 millions; air navigation, one-half million; lighthouse service and navigation, $3,810,000; coast and geodetic survey, 1¾ millions; navy department yards and docks, 10 millions; public buildings, 100 millions; army housing, $15,335,000. The remainder of the 500 millions is to be spent under the direction of the President.

It was the 500 millions for construction that drew from Senator Moses a fiery speech of objection.

"The result will certainly be a depression in the price of government bonds," he said. "And it will unbalance the budget by 307 millions. If the senate proposes to unbalance the budget it must make up its mind to take the consequences.

"All this for the employment of only 85,850 men."

He pointed out that a great portion of the public works program lay in rural areas and would offer no employment to the millions of jobless in the great centers.

Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], principal author of the bill, took issue as to the number of men to be employed. He emphasized the indirect employment which would result and promised to furnish detailed figures tomorrow.

A lively interval in the debate was furnished when Senator Thomas P. Gore [Dem., Okla.] sought to oppose a motion by Senator Henry F. Ashurst [Dem., Ariz.] to strike out a section providing for the creation of an industrial commission to study the economic structure of the country.

"Senators seem to have an abhorrence of facts," said Senator Gore.

"Abhors" Commissions.

"I have an abhorrence of commissions," Senator Ashurst retorted. "The Wickersham commission spent $500,000 and not a single senator will say that their reports are worth $5."

SENATORS TOLD WALKER BOOSTED FOX FILM STOCK

Investigator Testifies to Mayor's Activity.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—[Special.]—Mayor "Jimmie" Walker of New York was described today to the senate stock market investigating committee as a promoter for the pretentious market operations of William Fox, motion picture and theater magnate.

David Stock, committee investigator, testified that the dapper, accommodating New York mayor was one of a number of "distinguished citizens" who appeared on theater stages throughout the country extolling the business integrity of Mr. Fox.

These "minute men" speeches were part of a vast publicity campaign conducted by Mr. Fox to interest the public in the stocks of the Fox Film and Fox Theaters corporations only ten days before the crash of 1929 brought the value of the shares down from 29¾ to 10.

Collapse Was Probable.

"The financial condition of the Fox interests at the time," Mr. Stock said, "was such that this collapse was likely, even though the market crash had not come."

The committee's much heralded day in court for the lambs who were fleeced in the stock market was held today, but only two witnesses—both women—took the stand to denounce the market.

Miss Grace Van Braam Roberts of New York and Miss Ann Gushee, Cheyenne, Wyo., bank employé, furnished the whole burden of testimony. Miss Roberts declared the New York Stock Exchange condoned frauds as long as they were committed by prominent men and called on the senate to adopt strict regulatory legislation.

Not Repaid by Exchange.

The witness said she suffered a heavy loss in a purchase of Atlantic Gulf and West Indies stock in 1920 through Hayden-Stone & Co., New York brokers. She won a $16,000 suit in the courts as a result of the transaction, but failed completely, she said, to get the stock exchange to take any disciplinary action against the brokers.

Miss Gushee told the committee she bought 35 shares of stock in the Continental Shares company through the Denver office of Otis & Co. at 70 and 83 in 1929. The value of the stock today, Miss Gushee testified, is virtually zero. A member of the committee observed that it was worth 35 cents a share.

BELCASTRO FREED IN COURT.

James Belcastro, gangster, and James Catura were freed yesterday by Judge Howard W. Hayes of disorderly conduct charges. Police admitted that there was no evidence against the men.

U. S. Acts to Prevent Evasion of New 3 Cent Postage Law

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—[Special.]—The postoffice department acted today to safeguard the government's virtual monopoly of the letter carrying business against possible encroachments by large corporations which face heavy increases in mailing costs on July 6, when the postage rate is raised from 2 to 3 cents under the new revenue bill.

Considerable protest against the increased rates has been voiced by public utility companies and other large organizations which use the mails to distribute monthly bills. Their mailing costs, they have contended, will be higher than the cost of employing some private agency to distribute the bills.

May Use Own Employés.

In instructions recently issued to postmasters throughout the country, the postoffice department has called attention to a provision of the postal laws under which corporations are forbidden to use the same agency or messenger in sending out bills or other letters. There is no law against a company using one of its own employés to distribute bills.

The postal law provides a fine of not more than $500 for persons jointly using private means of distribution, and the person delivering the bills is also liable to a fine of $500 for each letter.

Coupled with the tax on bank checks imposed under the new revenue bill, the increased postage rate will bring the tax postage cost of collecting monthly bills to about 8 cents apiece, the protesting corporations have argued, although the cost in many cases would be borne for the most part by the persons sending checks through the mail in payment of the bill. If 100,000 bills were distributed, it has been pointed out, the contribution to the government would be $8,000 if all were paid with checks sent through the mail.

Await First Returns Only.

Meanwhile, the government's tax collecting agency, the bureau of internal revenue, was awaiting the first influx of revenue from the new excise taxes which went into effect on June 21. Until the first returns are made on July 1 the bureau does not know just what to expect, just how many evaders there will be, or just how to go about nabbing the evaders if there are any.

There are medals for GOOD JUDGEMENT IN SELECTING FUEL

The medals awarded for good judgement in selecting a fuel are not useless. You can exchange them for the things you want and need . . . food . . . shelter . . . clothing . . . a car . . . a trip. For these medals are cold, hard dollars. . . . So if you have been giving serious thought to what fuel you will burn next winter, substitute realities for promises, facts for generalities and let judgement, not unfounded hopes, guide you.

HERE ARE THE FACTS

SAFETY — When you burn coal you don't require additional insurance policies for full protection.

DEPENDABILITY — Coal is the only fuel that, in burning, doesn't depend entirely on mechanical equipment subject to break-downs. Moreover, it is the only fuel that cannot freeze-up on sub-zero days.

CLEANLINESS — Both of the fuels that can be substituted for coal claim greater cleanliness. If that is so, why is it necessary to buy insurance against property damage from smudge if you burn one? Why is there danger of having to rebuild stained walls, reline chimneys, re-lay roofs if you burn the other?

FREEDOM FROM ATTENTION — Both the fuels that can be substituted for coal offer greater freedom from attention than hand-fired coal because they have to be fired automatically. Coal doesn't have to be but it can be. Modern equipment will feed coal mechanically . . . will give accurate automatic temperature control.

COST — An estimate based on a five year price study of the heating costs of 8 representative Chicago homes, apartments, and buildings proves that by burning coal during this period each of these structures has saved an average of $1,300.98 over the cost of heating with oil; $3,128.69 over the cost of heating with gas. Your savings are proportional. A member of the Chicago Coal Merchants Association will gladly help you estimate fairly, fully, and accurately just how much more it would cost you to burn oil or gas than coal or coke.

Now sum up these important considerations in selecting a fuel. Coal gives you hundreds of thousands more heat units per dollar than any other fuel . . . saves you hundreds of dollars in heating bills. It gives you more safety, more dependability; it also gives you more silence, more evenness. Here are five out of your seven requirements answered beyond challenge by one fuel. The other two requirements are disputed by all fuels. Good judgement selects coal by a vote of five to two!

HOW TO CHOOSE RIPE MELON AND TIPS ON SERVING

Thumping a Traditional Test.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

Thump-thump! Thumpety-thump! Employing a time honored test, the cooking fraternity, with the melon season approaching its height, thumps and listens and pronounces its verdicts.

The experts tell us unripe melons will respond to the test with a ring of metallic sharpness, and that ripe specimens, on the other hand, emit a sound that is duller and more muffled. But for the purchaser who is assailed by doubt even after he has conscientiously performed the thumping rite there are other ways by which he may reassure himself.

Test for Ripeness.

One approved method for testing the ripeness of a watermelon is to run the thumbnail along the surface. The thin epidermal layer of green skin will peel off a mature fruit like loose paint. Then there is the color to consider. As a watermelon ripens the bright, clear green of immaturity gives way to a faint yellowish cast, and the white of the under side takes on a pale yellow or ivory tone. It is the variety of the melon, not its degree of ripeness, which determines the color of the seeds, be they white, brown, or black.

Late in July, after the harvest has reached its peak, many overripe watermelons flood the market. The flesh of an overripe specimen tends toward mealiness. The surface is usually much mottled with yellow.

Should Be Chilled.

Ordinarily the mature honey ball and the honey dew melons will "give" somewhat to slight pressure.

It is well to remember that all the melons are best chilled in the refrigerator. If cracked ice is used it should be employed as a bed and never in the hollow of the fruit, where it will dilute and impoverish the flavor.

The epicure prefers his melon served with only a slight seasoning of salt. But there are a number of delightful ways to prepare it for those who are intrigued by variety. To luncheon or dinner on a warm summer day the melon cocktail is a refreshing and colorful introduction. The most attractive is, of course, the cocktail made from a number of different varieties. Small red, pale green, pink and yellow spheres [cut out with a French cutter] served with a few drops of peppermint in a dainty, thin stemmed glass will entice the most exacting appetite.

Delicious Dessert.

A delicious dessert can be made by freezing the sweetened pulp of either cantaloupes or watermelons in an ice cream and sherbet tray of a mechanical refrigerator.

CANTALOUPE SWEET PICKLES.

Select fine underripe melons. Peel and scoop out the seeds. Rinse in cold water, drain, and weigh. Cut in strips or squares. Add three pounds of rind to boiling sirup [recipe follows] and cook until glassy. Pack hot in sterile jars and cover airtight.

SIRUP.

2½ cup brown sugar.
1 pint vinegar.
1 stick cinnamon.

Break the cinnamon stick in two and tie it with the spices in a cheesecloth bag. Suspend the bag in the sugar and vinegar mixture and boil [about ten minutes] until clear.

Many housewives who visit the loop grocery stores and fancy food shops are enthusiastically discussing the merits of a new melon which was developed and placed on the Chicago market last month by a South Water street market commission firm. The newcomer, from the Imperial valley of California, is thin skinned and pink fleshed and combines with its cantaloupe flavor the sweetness of a honey ball. Its seed cavity is small. The surface is netted, though not quite so heavily as is that of a cantaloupe.

Ready to Serve Meats Represent Good Buys

In its regular weekly report issued for the guidance of consumers the committee on marketing information of the Meat Council of Chicago states: "Pot roast of beef and the fore quarter cuts of veal such as the shoulder and breast are recommended as unusually economical meat buys in Chicago retail meat stores this week-end. Ready to serve meats including many of the sausages and other prepared meats are selling at levels substantially lower than those of a year ago and represent good buys."

MENUS FOR THE WEEK-END

BY MARY MEADE.

Gone—praise be—are the "good old days" when the worth of a thrifty housewife was determined by the number of hundred cans of garden and orchard truck she could display in shining armies on her cellar shelves. Today life is worth too much to spend eternally peeling, stemming, boiling, and sealing—and yet——

Perhaps it's a yen just to prove to ourselves we still have the same old knack. And perhaps it's a sneaking conviction that no matter what the neighbors say, home turned jams, jellies, and canned fruits some way just can't be excelled. But whatever the facts of the case, preserving kettles are coming out all over town, and local markets are being crowded with buyers of the fresh fruit offerings now at their best.

Strawberries, still luscious and low priced, suggest an exciting variety of preserves, jams, and jellies.

In buying, select only fresh, ripe, firm berries as even in size as possible. Since we have all turned strict economists these days—of labor and time as well as of pennies—the modern short boil method for preserving fruits most often gets our vote of approval. It takes less time, uses less fuel, turns less heat loose in our never-too-cool summer kitchens, and, according to many connoisseurs of the flavorful and fruity, gives in the end a more delicious flavor and texture. This method, of course, involves the addition of commercial fruit pectin, which hastens the jelling process and often makes it possible to ensnare in the jelly glass flavors of fruits which in themselves have too little natural pectin to thicken them.

Strawberry jelly is rather a newcomer in many of our kitchens—but what a tangy, pleasant arrival it is!

STRAWBERRY JELLY.

1 quart strawberry juice
3 quarts sugar
1 bottle fruit pectin

This jelly starts with about three quarts of ripe berries. Wash the fruit thoroughly, place in a jelly bag, and squeeze out the juice. Measure one quart of it into a large saucepan and add the sugar. Bring to a boil over a very hot fire and at once add the pectin, stirring constantly. Bring to a full boil and boil hard for one-half minute after the juice has reached this point. Remove from the fire, skim, and pour quickly into hot sterile glasses. Seal with hot paraffin immediately, and let cool before storing. This will make about eleven eight ounce glasses.

STRAWBERRY PRESERVES.

Wash and hull the berries and put one quart in a large kettle with two pounds [four cups] of sugar. Cook for twelve minutes, then add a second quart of berries and four more cups of sugar. Bring to the boiling point and boil ten minutes longer. Remove from the stove, cover and let stand for twenty-four hours, stirring occasionally. Turn into sterile jars and seal.

STRAWBERRY AND PINEAPPLE JAM.

2 cups crushed pineapple, canned or fresh
2 cups crushed strawberries
7 cups sugar
½ cup fruit pectin [½ bottle]

The strawberries and pineapple must both be crushed or ground to a pulp. Turn the fruit into a large preserve kettle and add the sugar. Bring to a full boil over a hot fire, stirring constantly. Boil hard two minutes, remove from the fire and stir in the pectin. Return to the fire and boil one minute, then remove and stir and skim alternately for five minutes to prevent floating fruit. Pour at once into hot sterilized glasses and seal with melted paraffin. You will need about ten 8 ounce jelly glasses.

But jams and jellies aren't the only offerings from the fruit kettle. Soon a wide variety of vegetables will also be coming along, demanding at least a moderate amount of room on our canned goods shelves. To fill such a need this department has prepared a canning booklet of simple but detailed directions for different methods of canning a wide variety of fruits and vegetables. This booklet will be sent you without charge on receipt of a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

TOO HOT AN OVEN CAUSES YOUR ROAST TO SHRINK

Meat Expert Claims Old System Is Wrong.

Too hot an oven not only causes excessive shrinkage in cooking such meats as beef roasts, but decreases the palatability and detracts from the appearance of the finished product.

This information is being passed along to housewives this week as the national live stock and meat board is holding its annual meeting at the Blackstone hotel, passing upon the developments of seven years of study in meat consumption under R. C. Pollock, director of the board. Farmers, packers, distributors and other branches of the meat industry have supported the seven year program.

Watch Temperature of Oven.

"Roasting used to be called a quick method of cooking meat, and so it was when eight minutes per pound was considered the proper length of time in preparing a roast of beef," Mr. Pollock said. "But this is all wrong according to scientific meat cooks of the present day."

Too many cooks carry on roasting at a much higher temperature than is desirable either from the standpoint of quality or economy in the number of servings, it has been found. A low temperature over a longer period gives a much more palatable roast than one cooker more quickly at a high temperature.

The quality of a roast is measured to a large extent by its juiciness and juiciness can be measured to some extent by the losses incurred in cooking. A saving of from 5 to 10 per cent over the usual loss is an item worth the consideration of the careful homemaker.

Losses of Two Kinds.

Losses in roasts are of two kinds: evaporation loss due to loss of moisture and other volatile substances, and dripping loss, which is the fat and liquid in the pan. Drippings do not represent complete loss, since they are utilized in making gravies and sauces.

The more nearly a roast reaches the well done stage, the greater will be the shrinkage. In experimental work roasts cooked in a 258 degree F. oven, which is a slow oven, rare roasts showed an average total loss of 16.8 per cent, whereas roasts cooked to the well done stage showed an average loss of 22.3, or a percentage increase of about 32 per cent. It is advisable for economy's sake, therefore, to cook the meat to as rare a stage as is palatable.

These figures are based on roast beef, where degree of doneness is a greater factor than in either pork or lamb, since both of these are usually roasted to the well done stage. Pork should be thoroughly cooked, but it is a question whether lamb is not usually served in an overcooked condition.

One frequently encounters in restaurants broiled lamb chops which are just a little pink and they are delicious. There seems no valid reason why roast lamb cannot be served slightly under done, the investigators report.

TOMATOES WILL BE CHEAPER FROM NOW TILL FROST

From now on until frost kills vines in fields near by to Chicago, tomatoes will be increasingly cheaper from the comparatively high price that has prevailed since the beginning of winter.

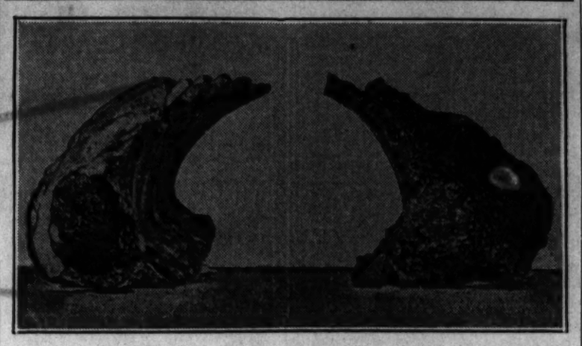
The supply at present is being obtained largely from field grown vines in Texas and from hothouse production in Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio. A poor crop in Florida early this year kept prices higher on tomatoes than on almost any other fruit or vegetable as compared with normal years, according to fruit and vegetable dealers.

38,000 Ozark Acres Will Be Planted to Tomatoes

Springfield, Mo., June 23.—[Special.]—Thirty-eight thousand acres of Ozarks land will be devoted to commercial tomato production this season, according to estimates made by the Ozarks Canners association.

Planting of this vast acreage was recently completed, after having been delayed by a drought in May. Canners generally feel that the guaranteed price of $8 per ton to be paid farmers for their tomatoes this year will enable the growers to realize as much or more profit per acre than from any other crop.

WELL DONE VS. OVERDONE



Two rib roasts of identical weight and appearance were cooked, and here is how they looked when taken from the oven. The ribs at the left, cooked at 230 degrees Fahrenheit, lost 1 pound 14 ounces in the process and were more juicy and evenly cooked than those at the right, cooked at 500 degrees, during which they lost 5 pounds 12 ounces.

CHICAGO BERRY SEASON IS NOW AT ITS HEIGHT

Chicago's berry season has arrived, with strawberries making their last intensive stand within the next week, but with plentiful supplies of blackberries, blueberries, dewberries and raspberries. The blueberries are still from the south, from such states as Alabama, Arkansas and Tennessee, but within several weeks Michigan will begin another harvest.

Michigan gooseberry patches are being picked. The retail price in Chicago is around 15 cents a quart for this pie or sauce fruit. The same price will be found on a quart of good quality Kentucky blackberries, while dewberries are worth slightly less per quart.

Household Hints

Finely ground bread crumbs may be substituted for part of the flour in the cornbread recipe.

TIMETABLE FOR PROPER BOILING OF VEGETABLES

Solves No Small Problem to Housewives.

What quantity of water to use and how long to boil vegetables is a problem that often faces the housewife. Over cooking destroys delicate flavors and textures, lessens palatability and nutritive value and reduces the vitamin content.

In a recent study by home economics experts of Michigan State college, determinations were made of the proper time to allow for proper cooking of common vegetables, and how much water to use in the process.

A large amount of water is required for green beans, young and old beets, brussels sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower, fresh corn, onions and turnips. Asparagus, parsnips, white and sweet potatoes require enough water to cover the vegetables, the studies indicated. Young and old carrots, celery and peas require only enough to keep them from burning. Boiling spinach is accomplished with the water that clings to the leaves after washing.

Here is the time table for boiling: Asparagus, tips, 5 to 10 minutes; ends 15-25; green beans, 30-35; beets, young, 30-35; old beets, 60-120; brussels sprouts, 8-12; cabbage, quartered or shredded, 8-9; young carrots, 15-25; old carrots, 20-30; cauliflower, 10-15; celery, cut, 15-25; fresh garden corn on cob, 3-5; fresh market corn on cob, 10-15; onions, quartered, 30-35; parsnips, quartered, 25-30; peas, shelled, 15-30; Irish potatoes, 20-30; sweet potatoes, 15-25; spinach with stems, 8-12; spinach without stems, 3-8; turnips, pared and diced, 20-30.

BOUNTIFUL PEACH CROP NOT EXPECTED; PRICES MODERATE

Housewives who remember the bountiful crop of peaches available in Chicago last year and used widely for canning in the home will likely not have a similar opportunity in 1932, according to reports of commission houses dealing in fruits.

Some peaches are already on the market and are being sold for around 15 cents a pound. It is not expected, however, that the price in season will be very high, in spite of the small crop.

ONCE PATRICIAN AVOCADO NOW IS PLEBEIAN DAINTY

Its Price Drops Within Reach of All.

BY JEAN GUTHRIE.

Another food has tumbled from the tables of the moneyed into the laps of those who have even to tug a bit to make ends meet.

Avacados, variously known as alligator pears, midshipman's butter, and vegetable butter, a short year ago sunned their yellow green luciousness among the luxury foods and despised the table operated on a moderate income. Whereupon Mrs. American Housewife, not to be snubbed by a mere fruit, vowed that she couldn't see what any one wanted with a fruit that tasted like a nut, spread like a butter, spooned like ice cream, and chewed like a fat vegetable.

An Acquired Taste.

Which all goes to show that tastes are funny things, likely to thrive and flourish over night. For today markets all over the country are offering at popular prices an increasing supply of these oddly flavored fruits, and their offers are being enthusiastically bought up as fast as Florida, California, Guatemala, and other tropical fruit sections can ship them. Those in the know among avacado growers predict a time not so far distant when the fruit will sell from street stands at the amazing low price of 5 cents apiece.

When shopping for avacados, expect to meet them anywhere from the size of an egg to that of a grapefruit. Shapes range from pear shaped to round. To be good, the fruit must be just dead ripe, yielding to the whole hand upon slight pressure.

Great Food Value.

Then if you would know just what you are getting for your money in the avacado line, be informed by the United States department of agriculture which places the caloric value of a one pound avacado equal to that of half a dozen eggs, a one pound loaf of bread, or a good sized broiled steak. In addition the new favorite offers a variety of minerals and practically the whole alphabet of vitamins, besides contributing something perhaps even more important to the palate weary—an alluring array of new dishes running the whole gamut of appetizers, soups, salads, and sandwich spreads—and even winding up with enticing desserts and cool clinking drinks.

Preparation is simple, as the avacado lends itself readily to dicing, mashing, and slicing. The rich nutty flavor combines deliciously with eggs, so dice the fruit and mix into scrambles or fold into puffy omelets.

It adds an intriguing something to cream soups. Simply cube the meaty flesh and stir into savory corn, pea, or bean purees just before serving.

Blends with Meat.

It blends perfectly with meat flavors, inspiring sliced cold chicken circled with thin wedges of avacado . . . bacon curls flanked with avacado slices . . . or most pleasant yet, a tropical dish of dried beef and avacado. For this delicacy, sauté one-half pound of dried beef in one-fourth cup of butter. Transfer to a piping hot plate and in the remaining butter thoroughly heat long slices of peeled avacado. Serve at once—two avacado slices and plenty of beef curls to each diner.

Scalloped avacado is simply made and amazingly tasty. Alternate layers of buttered bread cubes and peeled sliced fruit. Season well with dashes of salt, pepper, and cayenne, and bake in a moderate oven twenty minutes.

For Appetizers.

Cocktails which really appetize result when ripe avacados are diced fine and served frostily cold with a sprinkle of salt and pepper and a topping of spicy tomato catsup or lime juice. Or for a really novel hors d'oeuvre, spread toasted cheese crackers with ripe, smoothly mashed avacados which have been seasoned with salt, lemon juice, and minced pimento.

AVACADO COOKIES.

2¼ cups sugar.
2 cups flour.
2 teaspoon baking powder.
1 cup pistachio or other nut meats, chopped.

Beat the butter, sugar, and yolks together till light and fluffy. Add the avacado pulp and stir in the sifted dry inredients and nuts. Roll moderately thin and cut in fancy shapes. Bake about ten minutes at 425 degrees Fahrenheit.

AVACADO PINEAPPLE SALAD.

Cut medium sized avacados in half. Carefully scoop out the meat, leaving a shell which can be filled with a fruit salad mixture. To prepare this, shred fresh pineapple into bits with a fork and add in equal proportions with the finely diced avacado meat. Toss together with French dressing and pile lightly into the shells. Serve in cool, crisp lettuce cups.

MISSOURI SHIPS 1,000 CARS OF STRAWBERRIES

Springfield, Mo., June 23.—About 1,000 carloads of Ozark strawberries moved from Missouri points to the various midwestern markets during the season just closed. Monett displaced Sarcoxie for the first time in many years as the "berry capital" of the Ozarks, shipping 136 carloads. Sarcoxie shipped 101 cars.

Other leading strawberry shipping points in the Ozarks this year were Anderson, with 88 cars; Neosho, with 64; Billings and Pierce City, 41 each; Carthage, 39; Purdy, 31; Logan, 30; Butterfield, 26; La Russell, 24; Aurora and Exeter, 20 each; and Stotts City, 16.

EAT BREAD? THEN READ WRAPPER! IT'S INTERESTING

"We see advertised quite commonly these days different types of bread, and we see what seem to me to be some rather exaggerated claims made for them," says Dr. P. B. Dunbar, assistant chief of the federal food and drug administration.

"Bread, in common with scores of other foods, has value in maintaining a person's health, but officials who enforce the pure food law have always contended that to label a food with the word 'health,' implying that that food has a special 'health merit,' is not in keeping with our interpretation of the federal food and drugs act. The housewife who goes to the store for a loaf of bread should not expect to get a food of special 'health' qualities."

Dr. Dunbar, however, does not believe that the purchaser should neglect to read what is printed on the wrapper. For one thing, there will be a declaration giving the weight of the loaf, and there may also be statements which indicate the type or quality of the bread contained therein.

The housewife who customarily asks merely for a large or a small loaf, may find it more economical, price considered, to ask for a certain weight of loaf.

There are many kinds of bread—white, whole-wheat, raisin, rye, Boston brown, graham, and milk bread. The government has established official definitions for most of these kinds of bread and bakers are following them.

Officials who enforce the federal food and drugs act rarely have trouble with commercial bread makers, although, during the last year, the government took steps to require a change of label on a number of brands of bread which purported to be "whole wheat," whereas the food actually was not that kind.

Sweet Corn Prices Are Lower, Survey Reveals

A dozen ears of sweet corn costs only 75 per cent what it did one week ago, a survey of the Chicago market reveals. The highest prices are placed on the comparatively scarce yellow bantam ears, while less expensive are the ears of the white or evergreen.

JUNE BRIDE SOON FINDS OUT THAT HER HUBBY EATS

So Here Are Some Tips on Feeding Him.

BY FLORA MARTIN.

A multitude of events mark June as one of the prize months on the calendar but chief among them are the traditional June weddings that bring scores upon scores of young brides into the age old ranks of cooks and housekeepers. With brand new kitchens, bright and shining new pans, kitchen implements, and dishes combining to make a fairyland for the new mistresses in the kitchen, cooking should be a glorious adventure for them. But a few words to the wise are never amiss.

First of importance for brides in this new business is a cook book—one that explains such terms as braising, sautéing, marinating, searing, and the like, that are so much Greek to those new at the game, and has a wide collection of recipes of all kinds. Armed with such a helpmate, it should be easy for them to hurdle the obstacles that pop up in the day's cooking.

Get Him Started Right.

Most important in the new schedule are the first meals. Of course, the very first will probably be breakfast. That's easy enough. It can start off with cold orange juice, melon or any one of the seasonal fruits. Eggs, fried, scrambled, poached or baked, served with crisp fried slices of bacon, golden brown toast and coffee, all piping hot, can complete the menu.

Broiling is a comparatively easy task and one made to order for new cooks, so why not tempt hubby with a juicy broiled porterhouse steak at that first dinner? Heat the oven well before starting, put the steak on the broiling rack, near but not too near the flames, and sear on both sides. Then turn the burners down and broil on both sides, making it rare, medium or well done, whichever the order might be for the dinner. When it's done, sprinkle with salt and pepper, set a good sized piece of butter in the center, and serve it HOT.

To Go With the Steak.

Tomato juice or a fruit mixture, both of which are purchasable in cans, can be employed as cocktails for the dinner. Mashed potatoes, whipped into a fluffy mash with plenty of butter and a little warmed milk, piled lightly in a dish and topped with a generous sprinkling of paprika and little squibs of butter, make an ideal dinner companion for steak. New peas or carrots, boiled and then buttered, can be the side dishes. And why not make the salad of a crisp lettuce leaf, topped by a slice of canned pineapple, with a ball of cream cheese rolled in chopped nuts in the pineapple center and a dash of mayonnaise on top? Radishes, young green onions, or sliced cucumbers in a vinegar dressing can also be used in the menu.

Whether it's to be bread, hot rolls or biscuits will all be a matter of taste. But if it's to be biscuits, a few can be saved from the dinner to be topped with strawberries and served with cream for dessert. If you don't want to attempt biscuit making yourself, you can buy them already made and shaped in cans or can purchase that new preparation which has all of the ingredients except the milk already mixed and shape them up and finish them yourself. They're both easy to handle and there's almost no chance of a failure.

Feed In-Laws Spaghetti.

That all important of meals, the first for the new "in-laws," could be a spaghetti dinner. Here's a grand recipe for a spaghetti combination that's tasty and easy to make:

1 onion.
1 large can of tomatoes.
1 box of spaghetti.

Salt the round steak, tomatoes, green pepper and onion [both of the latter of which are to be cut up into small pieces] and simmer in a covered frying pan for one hour. The spaghetti should be put on to cook separately in boiling salted water about twenty minutes before the other is done.

Serve the preparation with the meat on the bottom of the serving dish and the spaghetti, which should be well drained off, on top. Grated American and Italian cheese sprinkled over the spaghetti will give it an added flavor. Five people can be served generously with this recipe.

COLOR PSYCHOLOGY USED TO ADVANTAGE BY FOOD MERCHANTS

Food merchants in many ways have adopted the suggestion of psychologists that color attracts the eye. Many instances are found in buying foods where an attractive color is used to set off the food that is for sale.

A new color 'wrinkle' is being used in wrapping perishables. It is the use of colored paper or other protective material which has been tinted such a shade that it permits only cerain less destructive light rays to enter the package.

Grass green and black wrappers or bottles of that color glass have been found by food research specialists to aid in the preservation of foods, delaying rancidity, retarding deterioration and keeping lard, butter and salad oils sweet.

RIGHT VEGETABLE FIXED PROPERLY WILL SAVE MONEY

Take Asparagus, Beets, Etc.—There's Variety.

By using all parts of such vegetables as asparagus, beets and celery that can be made edible the ingenious housewife can enhance variety and economy in her cooking.

The tough ends of asparagus broken off from the stalks may be utilized in several ways. By removing the skins, cuting them into pieces and cooking until they are tender, they can be creamed or scalloped, or they may be rubbed into a pulp through a sieve to make a puree for stock or cream soups.

Here's How.

For scalloped asparagus add about one quart of cooked asparagus to a pint of thin white sauce. Stir in the beaten yolks of two eggs, turn the mixture into a buttered baking dish and cover it with one cup of buttered crumbs. Brown the dish in a moderate oven.

In buying beets choose the medium sized ones with fresh crisp tops, so that after serving the cooked beets at one meal you can cook the tops for another meal. In preparing the tops discard all the bruised or discolored portions. Wash the remaining leaves thoroughly and add only enough water to prevent them from burning. Boil them until they are tender, and then chop them slightly and season with butter, salt and pepper.

Don't Waste Anything.

If celery is handled in the proper way, there should be practically no waste. The celery hearts can be used for salad, for sandwiches or for eating raw at one meal; the outside stalks can be served creamed or scalloped at dinner the next day; and the leaves are useful for flavoring when dried.

If you don't have a creamed celery formula in your recipe book, the following directions will help you: Cook one pint of one inch pieces of the outer stalks in boiling water until tender. Use the celery water to save the minerals and vitamins, make a medium white sauce with one-half cup of milk, two tablespoons of flour and two tablespoons of butter. Add the cooked celery and season it to taste with salt and pepper.

Household Hints

A board on small wheels or rollers, with a string to draw it, makes it easy to move a scrub bucket from place to place.

Windowless closets may be made less dark if the inside walls and woodwork are painted a gloss white.

Sudden Love

By ELISABETH SANXAY HOLDING

SYNOPSIS.

Esmee Sully spends her forlorn young life between the office, where she is an inefficient typist, and a dismal home. The widowed Mrs. Sully loves her children blindly, but doesn't know how to direct their spiritual or physical needs. Lew, a year older than Esmee, is mingling in bad company. Cynthia, the oldest, has been deserted by her husband. Jimmy Consadine, a crook lawyer, forces Lew, whom he has in his power, to introduce his sister. Esmee is fascinated by Jimmy's grand manner, but finds him an unmanageable lover. Then she meets Michael Marriott, a young playwright, imbued with the futility of life. It's love at first sight. Esmee feels his need of her is real. Claire Cowley, Michael's sister, tells Esmee that Michael is engaged. But Michael tells her his engagement is broken; that he can't live without her, and wants to marry her. Esmee tries unsuccessfully to break with Jimmy. He accuses her of double crossing him and threatens to have Lew sent to jail. Esmee drives out to the country with him on Sunday. He forces her to accompany him to a roadhouse, where his word is law. Michael, who has trailed Jimmy's car, breaks in and rescues her. Jimmy swears he'll have Michael killed. Esmee doesn't want to tell Michael about Lew. She's afraid of Jimmy's evil power. Michael takes Esmee to spend the night at Claire's and drives her to her office next morning. They go for a drive in the evening. Esmee sees a car following. As it comes alongside she throws her arms around Michael and receives the bullet intended for him. When she regains consciousness she is at Claire's. Her mother is there and Michael is safe. Esmee thought it was Lew who had fired the shot at Michael.

INSTALLMENT XXXV.

AN UNBELIEVABLE SURPRISE.

Lew came in alone and closed the door after him. His dark suit was very shabby. He looked ill, worn, and most terribly reckless. There was a light in his blue eyes that appalled her.

"He doesn't care what happens to him," Esmee thought.

He drew up a chair and sat down by the bed, but he did not speak.

"Lew, dear."

"I wanted to tell you last night," he said. "I would have told you, if you'd been alone. And now—I've got to. Maybe it'll help you, Es."

She could not speak, only tried to hold his hand tigher in her clasp.

"I mean, Es," he said, "you mustn't mind my taking the rap—going to prison. Because I'd rather. It's much the best way out."

"I—do mind," she said. "I know—you didn't mean—to do——"

"I've done worse things than you know," he said. "I—it's hard to explain. I—lost my head—over that girl. And I knew all the time she was—I knew what she was. They can pin it on me all right. Jimmy Consadine's got me where he wants me. But I came to tell you, Es, that—it's the best way out. It's the only way I could break loose. It'll only mean a year in the pen—maybe less. And God knows that's better than the last few days. Anything's better than—being hunted."

She looked at him, and she thought: "Isn't he—even a little sorry for this?"

But after all, it made no difference. He was shabby and ill and worn. He had suffered more than he could well endure, and she loved him.

"Lew, dear. Perhaps we can—find a way out," she said.

"No, and you're not to try!" he said, vehemently. "God! Haven't you had enough of Consadine now? Can't you see, after this, how far he's ready to go? Let him alone. You couldn't touch him, anyhow. He's covered.

"When I heard what had happened to you, Es, I wanted to tell you. I wanted you to hear it from me before—they get me. I'm doing this of my own accord. I'd rather go to jail. I'll take my medicine—and when I come back"—he turned away his head. "I'll be different," he said. "I start over again—somewhere new—with a new name. I'll write to you and mother. It's—just making a clean break with—the past. I've finished with all that."

"Don't cry, kid," he said. "I'm young. I can stand this. I—maybe it'll do me good. I think I've learned something, anyhow. Only"—his eyes seemed to darken—"only I wish I could kill that—that"—he could find no word to use before her—"the man who shot you," he said. "I hope to God he gets all that's coming to him——"

"Lew!"

"I do!" he said. "If I was sure who it was I'd squeal."

"You—don't know, Lew?"

"I'm not sure. It might be any one of three fellows Consadine sent out to get Marriott. Esmee, it can't be good for you to cry like this."

"It is, Lew! It is good for me!"

"I was sorry I wrote that note to Marriott," he said. "But—I wasn't looking at things straight then. I—had a sort of—panic when I thought of being locked up. I thought I couldn't stand it, even for a night. But now, I'm going just to walk out of here and go home, and the first dick that wants to can pick me up. Es—d'you know what turned the trick?"

"No, darling."

"Consadine told me some damn dirty lie about you and Marriott—going to a hotel together. I knew it was a lie. I knew if there was one girl on earth that was straight and good it was you. And just hearing him say that——"

This checked her tears. Her fingers tightened on his hand.

"Es—are you going to marry this fellow?"

"I—Yes, Lew."

He gave a little sigh.

"Then he'll look after you and mother and Cynthia—until I get back," he said. "I haven't—taken the responsibilities I ought to have taken. I see that now, all right. I mean—I was the man of the family."

A man? He was a boy, and a boy most tragically ill equipped. She thought of his correspondence course, she thought of him eating his breakfast in the kitchen, in the dark of a winter morning.

"Lew, dear—you have tried!" she said. "You've been wonderful."

He smiled faintly and did not answer. And she thought how strange it was that a woman could love a man, and not care what he did, not change in her heart for any change in him, but that a man must have, for the very saving of his soul, so high, so terrible a virtue in the woman he loved.

"Lew," she began when the young nurse knocked at the door and entered. She saw the marks of tears on Esmee's face.

"Time's up, Mr. Sully!" she said briskly. "We've got to keep our patient quiet for a day or two."

Lew rose, but Esmee still clung to his hand.

"You'll—let me hear—everything that happens, Lew?"

"Yes, Es."

"Lew, you know—O, you know, Lew, how I feel about you?"

"I know, Es. Good-by, dear."

It was coming true. Lew in a cell—Lew in his shabby dark suit—disgrace, disaster, misery—but he had not done that last and worst thing.

"Yet even if he had," she thought, with a sorrowful wonder, "I'd have loved him just the same."

"I'll read to you, Miss Sully," said the nurse, not liking that look on her patient's face.

With her unfailing politeness, Esmee tried to stay awake and listen while the nurse read her a story out of a magazine. But weariness was overcoming her. She tried to keep her eyes wide open, looking at the nurse's face, looking about the orderly, sunny room, filled with flowers. But she was too tired.

"That's just what I wanted," said the nurse. "You've had a nice, long nap, and you look rested. Now you can have a cup of tea, and some toast—and no more visitors. But you can send a message down to this one. Look what's just come for you!"

She brought a box to the bedside, a boxful of orchids, and in it an envelope which Esmee opened. The note inside was written in a careful, copybook hand.

"I would like to see you for a few moments if you feel up to it. I am sorry about this."

"I've got to see him!" she cried.

"You've had enough visitors today," said the nurse firmly. "I'll take him down a message and tell him he can come again."

"No! I've got to see him now! I've got to! Just for a moment! It's—more important than anything. O, please! Bring him up, please! O, please, be quick!"

"I don't——" the nurse began doubtfully.

"O, please be quick!" cried Esmee. "I—it'll make me much worse not to see him. Please bring him up this instant!"

"Only for five minutes, then," said the nurse, and marveled that any girl who had Michael Marriott would be so desperately eager to see any other man.

"But I'd better let her see him," she thought. "She's so excited about it—orchids, too—well——!"

Doris Blake Answers

Avoid Secret Marriage.

"Dear Miss Blake: My friend prefers a secret marriage. I don't. Please advise. EVE."

It is no good sign to have a man urge a secret marriage. Don't be a party to it.

"Faint Heart."

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a girl, but have not the nerve to ask her if she loves me. Please advise. "GEORGE."

Chicago Girl Presented at English Court

Marjorie Goodman Wears White Tulle Gown.

BY ANN WHITTINGHAM.

[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, June 23.—Buckingham palace was agitter again tonight when King George and Queen Mary held their third court of the year. Among the Americans making their curtsies to the Britannic majesties is Miss Marjorie Sawyer Goodman of Chicago.

Miss Goodman's gown of white tulle was in a style created especially for her. The bodice was tight fitting, while the skirt was very full, with bands of peach colored satin running around. Over her shoulders hung a tiny cape of tulle and she had a court train of the same peach satin as the bands of the skirt.

She wore white slippers and carried a Victorian bouquet of pink and white flowers. It was a perfect summer's night, so a little white ermine cape gave enough warmth during the wait.

Other Americans receiving the royal command were Miss Anne Bissell of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Miss Joan Diehl of Pittsburgh, Miss Kathleen Knox of Washington, Miss Patricia Tobin of San Francisco, Mrs. Herbert Seymour Howard of Buffalo, N. Y., Mrs. Thurston Macauley of Atlanta, Mrs. Gilbert Miller of New York City, and Mrs. Nion Tucker of Burlingame, Cal.

Since there is no American ambassadress, the women were presented by Mme. De Fleuriau, wife of the French ambassador, who is the doyenne of the diplomatic corps and in the absence of an ambassadress is by precedence the one to make such presentations.

For the first time in the history of the royal court there was no waiting along the Mall. A crowd of admirers and critics assembled as usual and was denser than ever for the entertaining several hours of scrutinizing those to be presented. But the queue of cars was missing.

The explanations is that a traffic experiment was being tried out at the palace. On arrival the court bound cars were ordered to drive immediately into the palace by the left gate. The cars were parked in the inner courtyard and when this was filled in the fore court.

And this was the nearest view the public was allowed. As a result a precedent of privacy has been set.

Mrs. David Bruce, the daughter of the American ambassador, Andrew W. Mellon, is the latter's official hostess, but cannot herself make the presentations.

Miss Joan Diehl, daughter of the vice president of the United States Steel corporation, followed her Pittsburgh debut by her presentation at London. Her gown was of ivory mousseline, cut in simple classic lines, with a square neck and draped shoulder straps fastened with diamond and emerald clips. The train was of the same material as the gown and fell from her shoulders in a cowl. She wore white satin sandal slippers and carried a compact bouquet of gardenias. Miss Diehl is an enthusiastic aviatrix and rides with the Rolling Rock hunt.

A pale blue satin gown was chosen by Miss Kathleen Knox. It was fashioned to cling to her figure and had a silver lace train lined with pale blue velvet. Silver and blue slippers carried out a pastel effect. She carried a bouquet of variegated flowers. She expects to spend several months traveling in England, France, and Germany.

ADELE ASTAIRE THERE

LONDON, June 23.—(AP)—Adele Astaire, now Lady Cavendish, was presented to the king and queen tonight, but a shock of surprise swept society when the American dancer's new mother-in-law, the duchess of Devonshire, failed to appear as her sponsor. There was no explanation beyond the statement that the duchess was "indisposed," but the surprise was heightened by the fact that she also is mistress of the robes and her attendance on the queen is almost mandatory.

The acting mistress of the robes, the dowager countess of Airlie, took the place of the duchess, both officially and as sponsor of the dancer, who recently married Lord Charles Cavendish, one of England's most eligible young men.

Lady Cavendish carried the usual three plumes, but her gown of pale pink satin was of the simplest severity, devoid of trimmings of any kind. The train was long and beautifully draped to match.

Beach Ensemble Designed by Worth Disguises Trousers with Box Plaits

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Great has been the excitement this summer in Paris regarding beach styles. The pajama versus the apron has been the big issue. Some of the former stanch supporters of the pajama are putting smart French women in aprons on the fashionable beaches of France this summer. They say that pajamas have had their day and must give way to something more feminine and modest. But they have a herculean task before them. Even the ladies who fairly eat up femininity have their relaxed moments.

There is one creator in Paris who can afford to sit back on the sidelines and listen to this feminine-masculine beach clothes controversy as a spectator. This is the house of Worth, who gave the world the beach apron last season, and now introduces an ensemble that has a little of both genders in its composition. The accompanying sketch shows this ensemble. It is in a deep golden colored linen. The simple hip length jacket, with its narrow collar and pockets, is buttoned down the center front on gold buttons. A wide, draped girdle in printed silk encircles the waist and ties on the left hip.

The big news is in the skirt, which isn't a skirt at all, but trousers. These are dress length and cleverly conceal the fact that they are trousers by having two wide box plaits as the front of the skirt. This is the kind of chic outfit women who are remaining neutral until this controversy is settled are wearing for promenading in smart summer resorts.

In the small sketch you see this ensemble minus its jacket. It has a sleeveless, round necked blouse in white cotton which tucks inside of the skirt. A stiffened white cotton belt is worn on the skirt.

Child Catches Critical Look in Elder's Eye

Too Much Inspection Can Hurt.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

He caught his mother looking at him hard.

"What is it now?" he said. "My ears or the back of my neck?"

"Why, Jerry!" his mother exclaimed with an injured air. "What a way to talk. Why do you say that?"

"O, you had that dissecting expression as if I was a specimen or something. Are my ears dirty? Tell the truth now."

"Well," she said guiltily, "I was thinking you must have skipped them when you took your bath. Didn't you?"

"Ah ha! I told you so. Say, Mom, do you really see me when you look at me, or are you just inspecting me?"

And when your children are old enough to no longer take their baths under your supervision—when they get out their own underwear and clean clothes generally—then you're in danger of getting that inspecting, dissecting expression every time they come near enough for you to get a good look at them. From inspecting and dissecting it's apt to progress to mildly disapproving.

Then you're apt to go from bad to worse—to find yourself correcting or finding fault with table manners. Or holding post mortems after visitors have gone, so that your child gets either hurt feelings or begins to be self-conscious when company comes because he thinks he's doing everything wrong.

This is a phase parents go through. Does that "phase" explanation have a familiar ring? We're usually tying it up with the children's behavior. But if mothers and fathers don't look out, this "phase" of always looking with critical eyes at a son or daughter can get to be a habit, and a bad one.

We mothers all need to be brought up short once in a whole. And if your son answers you like the one in this little story, don't get hurt feelings, but change your ways.

Lovett Writes Vivid Tale of English Novel

Critical Study Has Appeal for Layman.

"The History of the Novel in England," by Robert Morss Lovett and Helen Bard Hughes [Houghton-Mifflin].

ROBERT MORSS LOVETT, professor of English at the University of Chicago and suther of many distinguished books on literature, and Helen Bard Hughes, professor of English literature at Wellesley, have made something of a drama out of the history of the English novel. Beginning with Sir Philip Sydney, who is said to have written what might be termed the first English novel, and closing with James Joyce, one of the great literary innovators of our time, "The History of the Novel in England" encompasses the selected field in a manner that is at once scholarly and fascinating.

PROF. LOVETT.

England is perhaps, over a period of centuries, the richest of all countries in the field of the novel. Her literary history abounds in famous novels and novelists. From the Elizabethan age to the contemporary Georgians there is a long array of great names and works. To four centuries of English literary history the authors apply their critical and evaluating technique.

The important questions they ask and answer are briefly these: What is the value, historical and social, of the novel under examination, how does it succeed or fail as a conscious artistic and technical achievement [as a work of art], and how does it, directly or indirectly, reveal the personality of the author and his inner and outer conflicts?

In asking these three major questions, the authors open the way for a broader interpretation of the novel. The reader not only feels that he is learning directly about the novel itself but also feels that the panorama of English cultural history is being spread out before him. Currents in political and social thought, actions, and reactions in moral and philosophical trends, the more obvious historical background, all are a part of this history of the novel. This is criticism of the higher order.

It is interesting to note that Mr. Lovett does not allow the reader to forget what is happening in kindred and in dissimilar fields.

Another valuable device is that by which the authors link up the developments in Europe with those in England. The presentation of parallel movements throughout the continent helps to give perspective to those in England. Furthermore, since English literature is in many cases highly derivative, the outside influences [so noticeable in every century], the analyses of their sources and importance, are given the necessary emphasis.

Briefly, the value of this book, primarily intended for a text book but of real interest to the layman, is inherent in Mr. Lovett's two approaches to literature, first, the emphasis upon social currents, and, second, the unwritten injunction to the reader to see the novel as only a part of the whole, as one manifestation of the great cultural movements in England. M. D.

Old Fashioned Block Prints Appear in Newest 'Kerchiefs

BY RHEA SEEGER.

After silk stocking designers launched with much enthusiasm and as much success the lace effects that were faithful copies of patterns from rare old laces, handkerchief designers also dug into the past and revived some old, old designs which are now the summer's most successful best sellers.

Authentic printed effects made with color blocks that are more than a hundred years old . . . these quaint and lovely 'kerchifs are as alluring as they must have been in decades long buried in lavender memories and perfume!

You'll notice that they are generously sized . . . evidently the fragile ladies who carried them long ago demanded more than a mere wisp to weep in. Most of them are bordered with floral designs, such as rows of prim hollyhocks marching around the hand rolled ends . . . others have masses of old fashioned sweet william, bleeding hearts, plump zinnias, or fox gloves or petunias bursting with enthusiasm around the white center circle.

These hankies are deliciously refreshing after the blasing color-screaming modernistic affairs which have tucked about our costumes for the last three years . . . they have a crisp, cool charm that defies description!

If these old-new pocket gadgets fail to stay your irrepressible urge for color and gay contrast, you'll be more than satisfied with the dashing bits of hand painted squares to celebrate the Olympic games . . . sleek feminine swimmers and divers are painted on some . . . black silhouettes of discus throwers, javelin hurlers and whirlwind runners and other entrants have been skillfully reproduced on sheer linen in all the now well-known Olympic colors.

A week ago the town had tons of elephants on display . . . every where you looked these ponderous pachyderms wallowed in popular approval, but that part of the circus is over and now we are being deluged with donkeys, or silly asses, depending upon your favorite planks, orators, ancestral beliefs and the weird thing called politics.

The elephant has retired to nurse its wounds and prepare for further battle while the donkey brays and brags disconcertingly from every conceivable vantage.

You'll see some gay young donkeys prancing in twos and threes on colored 'kerchiefs . . . you'll see them parading, solemly conscious of their importance, in single file across the borders and you'll see big, bold, blustering donkeys holding down the corner of an eighteen inch linen square in solitary grandeur.

If you are too loyal to consider using the beast so disrespectfully, the monogrammed handkerchiefs will certainly capture your flagging interest . . . you've no idea how good-looking the initial of your last name will appear until you have seen the three and four inch whoppers . . . black, brown, blue or green or any other color is available as contrast against pastel tinted linens.

And if you are a member of the gift bearing tribe, you'll be interested to know that all your small relations can be remembered with hankies that are fringed all around the edge and then, as an additional glory, have the names of the youngsters embroidered in each corner.

There is a large supply of practically every well known name, but if your child has an unusual nickname, that, too, can be stitched into place for a very small sum. These fringed delights can be purchased singly, but are boxed delightfully in sets of three different colors as a special gift idea.

HOW TO KEEP FROM GROWING OLD

Popular Society Girl Will Be Fall Bride.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES DANIEL FREY of 1435 State Parkway announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to Gail Borden, son of Dr. and Mrs. Gavin Hamilton of Houston, Tex., reads the formal announcement received yesterday from Mrs. Frey, with the request that it be published this morning.

Miss Frey, better known as Betty than as Mary Elizabeth, is one of the most popular young women in society and has had beaux galore ever since her debut four years ago. Mr. Borden is a new beau and their engagement is a surprise to Miss Frey's intimate friends. The young man who has won her is a newspaper writer. He was graduated from Dartmouth in 1927, received his master of arts degree from Harvard, and taught for a year in the English department at the University of Chicago before becoming a newspaper man.

Miss Frey was graduated from Vassar college last June with honorable mention. She made her debut in September, 1928, in Winnetka, where her parents had a house that summer. This summer Mr. and Mrs. Frey and Miss Frey and the two younger members of the family, Barbara and Charles Jr., are going to Mallorca, sailing on July 2 and leaving Chicago tomorrow or Sunday.

Miss Frey tells me she and Mr. Borden plan to be married in the autumn, probably soon after the Freys arrive at home from abroad. Mr. Borden's mother, who has been visiting him at his apartment at 211 East Chestnut street for the last few weeks, returned to Houston yesterday.

Mr. Borden was injured in a crash of his airplane not long ago out near Wayne and was in the hospital at Geneva for a week and then at the Passavant for several weeks, but he is out now, apparently all well except that he walks with a cane.

Miss Frey and Miss Elinor Durbin were classmates at college and are very great friends, and since Miss Durbin and her fiancé, Sartell Prentice Porter, also plan an autumn wedding, I would not be surprised if the two young women had a number of joint parties given for them next fall.

Graduation at St. Mark's.

Chicago society is well represented at Southboro, Mass., for the graduating exercises of the fashionable St. Mark's preparatory school, which will be held today, for five scions of well known Chicago families will receive their diplomas—Gordon Palmer, Garfield King, Robert Hall McCormick III., Joseph T. Ryerson Jr., and Walter Johnston Watson.

Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer, who have been visiting the Harold A. Howards at Bar Harbor, and their younger daughter, Pauline, who attended the Concord academy at Concord, Mass., are there, and also Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garfield King, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson, and young Mr. Watson's mother and sister, Mrs. Walter B. Wolf and Mrs. Walter F. McLallen. Young Watson's brother, Hathaway Watson Jr., also is there, for he is a student at St. Mark's.

The Palmers will return to Chicago on Monday, and will be off for California about July 14 to spend the balance of the summer near their elder daughter, Bertha, and her husband, Oakleigh Thorne Lewis, who are spending the summer on his grandparents' estate at Santa Barbara. Potter Palmer III., and his bride, the former Rose Saltonstall Movius of Boston, have returned to Sarasota, Fla., to spend the summer there.

An interesting fact about the Palmers going to California for the summer instead of to their residence at Bar Harbor, where they usually spend the warm weather seasons, is that it is a most important impending event in the Lewis household that is making California their destination, and what is most interesting, according to reports, is that Mrs. Palmer and Bertha's intimate friends are buying presents for Mrs. Lewis in pairs!

Other Plans for Summer.

The King family will leave Chicago almost as soon as they return from the east to spend the summer at their Montecito place, having set next Tuesday as the date for their departure for the west. Mrs. McCormick and her daughters and sons already have opened their Bar Harbor residence for the summer. The Ryersons will arrive in Chicago tomorrow and will leave for their California place a bit later. Mrs. Wolf and her daughter and sons will motor home, arriving in about ten days to join Mr. Wolf and Mr. McLallen at their Winnetka residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Eliot P. Goss [Lucy Stone] are not officially "at home" in their lovely little house on the lake at North Bay, Racine, but they are really pretty well settled now and this afternoon Mrs. Goss is to be hostess to the dozen or so girls who have been getting together regularly for bridge club meetings ever since they made their debuts with her two seasons ago.

Mrs. Goss' parents, the John Sheppard Stones, are planning to remain in Chicago all through the summer and Mrs. Stone intends to make frequent trips to Racine in order to spend as much time as possible with her daughter, for eventually Mr. and Mrs. Goss will move east to reside in Waterbury, Conn., where the young man will enter his father's business.

Mrs. Julius Rosenwald's Ravinia estate will be open to the public today for an exhibit of lingerie, dresses, maids' uniforms, and all the other hand made articles fashioned in the Industrial Workshops for the Handicapped. A group of north shore girls will act as mannequins.

Graham Aldis will preside at the Chicago Council of Foreign Relations' luncheon today at the Palmer house for William Hard, political writer, who is to speak on the American foreign policy in relation to the present conditions in Europe. Mr. Hard has just returned from a four months' political survey of Geneva, Berlin, and Paris.

Among the guests at the luncheon will be Mrs. Arthur T. Aldis, Mrs. Graham Aldis, Senator and Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. William Allen White of Kansas, Willis J. Abbot and Mrs. Abbot, Prof. James T. Shotwell of Columbia university, Melvin A. Traylor, Edward N. Hurley, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, Mrs. William G. Hibbard, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Tiffany Blake, James Bone, editor of the Manchester Guardian; Arthur Krock, and Adlai E. Stevenson, and Senator Otis F. Glenn.

The luncheon meeting today of the executive committee of the Friends of Opera at the Arts club probably will be rather a sad affair, for now that the Civic Opera company is not to have a season next winter, there won't be any work for this efficient organization which has lived up to its name since it was started in 1919, and the committee today probably will decide to disband, at least temporarily. Mrs. Arthur Meeker, chairman, will preside.

James C. Dunn, chief of the bureau of protocol, will arrive tomorrow to visit his brothers-in-law, A. Watson and Laurance H. Armour of Lake Forest. The Watson Armours will give a dinner for Mr. Dunn tomorrow night and on Sunday the Laurance Armours will entertain at dinner for him. Mrs. Dunn, the former Mary Armour, is motoring in Italy.

Laurance Armour, president of the Post and Paddock club, and John Hertz had planned a stag luncheon for Monday, the opening day, at the Post and Paddock club at Arlington, but they have changed it to a supper for that night at 6 o'clock. Among the guests will be about two dozen Chicagoans and a number of distinguished visitors who will be here for the Democratic convention. The William E. Hitts are to be the Laurance Armours' house guests during the Arlinton season, and Mr. and Mrs. Armour are planning a luncheon for them on Saturday, July 2, at the Post and Paddock club.

Since the first of June Mrs. Lansing B. Warner's beautiful gardens overlooking the lake in Hubbard Woods have been open to the public for the benefit of the Chicago Junior school near Elgin. The project is to be continued through July. The committee in charge, headed by Mrs. Warner, includes Mrs. George Channer of Glencoe, Mrs. Ezra S. Taylor, Mrs. William Colvin Jr., and Mrs. Harris Capron of Winnetka.

Mrs. Cyrus Mark, who remains loyal to the Kenwood Social Service club despite the fact that she has moved from the south side to Winnetka, is giving a luncheon for the members on Monday afternoon at her residence. The luncheon will be the first of a series of summer meetings to be held at the homes of members residing in the suburbs or in summer cottages at nearby lake resorts.

Mrs. Helen Wadsworth of 1300 North State street has taken a suite at the Mountain View at Whitefield in the White mountains, N. H., for the summer. The Ernest Pooles of New York have arrived at their summer estate on Sugar hill, not far from Whitefield. The Poole house is one of the most attractive in the vicinity and Mr. Poole finds it a fine place to work on his novels.

Sally Selects 100 Guests for First Party of Summer

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

I've read your letters, boys and girls, and I've selected the hundred winners who will accompany me to White City on next Thursday for our first party of the season. It was no easy task, I assure you, for there were so many good letters I had a difficult time deciding which of you would enjoy the day most.

There were a number of you who might have won invitations if you had followed the rules more closely. For instance, several boys and girls omitted their addresses or their surnames. Others forgot to tell me their ages. And there were still others who asked for invitations for a brother, a sister, or a friend. These, of course, I had to bar, for every one must write his or her own letter.

The names of the winners will appear in Sunday's TRIBUNE, so do not fail to see it. And with this list there will be news of another grand party.

SUFFERED FOR FORTY YEARS

Then One Lucky Day She Used Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Here is great news for sufferers from constipation. Read Mrs. Kendig's voluntary letter:

"For about forty years I had been praying for a lasting remedy for constipation and its attending evils. To make it short, I ate nothing but ALL-BRAN and a little broth. Since that time (about then years ago) I have not taken any medicine. Have been well and entirely free from constipation."—Mrs. I. H. Kendig, R. F. D. No. 2, Lancester, Penna.

Constipation is caused by lack of two things in the diet: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines. Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. Laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN furnishes both. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears out the wastes.

Isn't it much pleasanter to enjoy ALL-BRAN than to risk taking pills and drugs—so often harmful?

Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. If you have intestinal trouble not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve as a cereal, or use in cooking. It is not habit forming. Recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Married Kind Deceiver and Is Glad of It

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Truth IS stranger than fiction! We read a story recently in one of the monthly magazines, purporting to be the confessions of a woman happily married to a man for years before the discovery came that he was a dope fiend, bigamist, and wanted on a murder charge. We marveled with the telling of how the woman's heart stood the discoveries and still clung to the tender love that was meted out to her by the Jekyll-Hyde creature. While the following deals with a male character who failed to acknowledge his first marriage to his second wife, it does throw light on that complex piece of machinery, a woman's heart. The confession that follows comes after a statement of ours that "there is sure to be incriminating evidences of a former marriage."

"Dear madam—Are you so sure that there will be incriminating evidences of a former marriage, as stated in your article? Let me tell you my experience. I was married sixteen years to a darling chap, thinking all the time that he was a bachelor when I married him, and I am still truly grieving over his passing away last year.

"But after he died, I had the discovery to make that he had a grown daughter as well as a former wife, who lived not ten miles from where I did, and to whom he had contributed $50 a month of our, at times, meager salary during all that time. And, if you think I am not bright, I wish to state that I am now doing difficult legal work, have always been a reader of good literature, an opera goer, have attended all the best plays of the last sixteen years in our home town, at that time New York City, and at fifty-two am making a place for myself in a position where younger women have been found sadly lacking.

"And what's more, I do not blame my husband for deceiving me in our conversations I often remarked innocently that I thought people who had been once or twice divorced were simply the type that could not be lived with anyway!

"To say our life was a bed of roses would be exaggerating, but it was a great deal more comfortable and congenial than that of 90 per cent of the usual run of the mill marriages. I had a free hand financially, all the family income [outside the fifty]. Possibly this utterly free hand was a conscience salver, knowing I was being held out on one very important score.

"But I would not, even with the deception, change my memory of a happy married life for most of the 'gigolos' one encounters nowadays. Imagine a man who simply, naturally, would not even sit down to breakfast [Sundays—he got his own other mornings, and like it] until you had done so, and all the other little graces and attentions that most men reserve for pre-nuptial days, and the morning after they are married.

"So you see, all the moralizing in the world does not fit individual cases. It all depends, darling. ELAINE."

Friends Plan Comeback for Renee Adoree

Film Actress Making Gains Toward Health.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., June 23.—Motion picture friends are getting together a fund to give Renee Adoree a new start after she arrives here from her recuperation from tuberculosis in Arizona. Norma Shearer, Jack Gilbert, and Irving Thalberg head it. It is not generally known that during all the twenty-one months of her illness in the sanitarium Miss Adoree was kept on the MGM studio pay roll at a very moderate sum.

When the physicians recently decided that she could try the use of her legs again, after nearly two years on her back, weeks were required before the star of "The Big Parade" could trust the strength of her legs. She had to learn to walk again, like a child. The actress now weighs 105 pounds and is steadily increasing her new found store of strength. When she was taken to Arizona she weighed only a little more than 80 pounds.

Ben P. Schulberg, who stepped out last week as general manager of production and head of the board of directors of the Paramount corporation, is back in Hollywood after the New York business conferences which preceded his withdrawal, but says he won't make any announcement about his future until Oct. 1. Mrs. Schulberg, whose separation from the film executive recently was announced, is opening her own professional offices as an agent and business manager for film writers, actors, and directors.

According to returns given by theater men to questionnaires of the Motion Picture Herald, Marie Dressler was the outstanding movie star for the 1931-'32 season, with Wallace Beery topping the men. Janet Gaynor and Joan Crawford followed Miss Dressler in popularity among the women stars and Will Rogers among the men.

Wishing to call his new Scotty pup by a name which wouldn't confuse him with any other dog, Bob Montgomery has named his new acquisition "Dirty McNasty."

Maurice Chevalier is rushing his director and his cast at top speed to finish "Love Me Tonight" by Friday, so he can make a getaway to New York to catch the liner Paris for France June 29 and spend a four month interval at home. His wife preceded the French actor home some weeks ago.

Await Return to Films

Events on the Stage

"The Man Who Reclaimed His Head," a drama adapted from the French of Jean Bart, is now having its first performances in Philadelphia, in an ambitious production with Claude Rains of the Theater Guild's acting company in the title rôle. The play will figure in the late summer or early fall offerings on Broadway.

In sixteen scenes, handled with a revolving stage, this piece tells the story of a master mind in pre-war Paris who retired from the world because of his grotesque appearance. A politician hires his brain, and wins fame from his ideas. In short, the plot bears some resemblance to the basic idea of "Cyrano de Bergerac." But the politician also seduces his "ghost's" wife; and the climax is a melodramatic scene in which the unknown genius takes revenge for this betrayal.

Philadelphia is giving high praise to Mr. Rains' acting, and asserting that the play, although interesting, is too long. Mr. Rains' last appearance in Chicago was in the title rôle of "He," staged by the Theater Guild last spring.

Whitford Kane of the disbanded Goodman Repertory company, Walter Hampden's "Cyrano" cast, etc., will be active in the direction of the Casino theater, Newport, R. I., this summer. Its season opens July 5 with "June Moon." "Hobson's Choice," with Mr. Kane in his original rôle and Katherine Krug as the heroine, will be staged for the week of July 26.

The summer festival of drama at Malvern, England, which has become an objective for tourists, will offer the following program next August: "The Play of the Wether," 400 years old; "Ralph Roister Doister," first acted in 1552; "London Assurance," by Dion Boucicault, written in 1841, and Bernard Shaw's "Too True to Be Good," for its first English performances. Cedric Hardwicke will have the most important male rôle in Shaw's play, which the Theater Guild presented in Boston and New York last spring.

Chicago may see the highly successful political satire, "Of Thee I Sing," next September. The present plans of its manager, Sam H. Harris, contemplate the organization of a second company for a run in Chicago, opening on Labor day.

An operetta based on Voltaire's "Candide" has been acquired by Arthur Hopkins for staging next season. The libretto and score are the work of George Antheil, the composer.

The annual drama festival at Ann Arbor, Mich., is now in its fifth and final week. "Peter Ibbetson," with Glenn Hunter and Violet Kemble Cooper in the leading rôles, is the bill.

Quality, Not Quantity Food, Goal for Thin

Overeating Is Dangerous for Underweights.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Word reaches me of an underweight case that probably has many duplicates. The girl, 19, extremely thin and flat chested, began stuffing herself with the foods broadly classified as fattening foods. Cream, butter, potatoes, white bread, eggnogs, malted milks, etc. She was going to put on weight or die.

She very nearly did die as a result of her eating folly, for when a physician was called in he found the excessive thinness of his patient a symptom of a serious constitutional disorder.

That's why I always urge a thorough physical examination first for the notedly underweight. There may be no constitutional disorder at all, but the examination will not be a loss, since it is well to know that one can pass such examination. Bad teeth, infected tonsils, and other easily remedied troubles may cause the thinness. Anyway, the physical examination is money well spent.

Then, when planning a fattening diet, don't try for quantity, so much as quality. You must remember that your stomach is comparatively small. You have to train it to larger food consumption. This is got around by increasing the number of meals daily to four or five. Don't stuff. Give the stomach a chance to stretch gradually, so there'll be no discomfort in eating.

A good plan is to drink a glass of milk between breakfast and luncheon and in mid afternoon take something else. Add cream to the milk at each taking. But don't make the common mistake of thinking fattening foods are your best and only bet. Milk you will want to drink and you should have a quart a day. But—and here's what most of you girls wanting to put on weight overlook—you need your leafy vegetables as much, if not more, than the overweights. And you need fruit and fruit juice.

It isn't how much more food you should eat but what better kind of food you should eat. Butter you can help yourself to heartily, since it is easily assimilated. Put butter on your cooked vegetables, on your meat, on anything you can. And in two meals a day, see that some food rich in protein, such as eggs, meat, fish, is provided. The proteins are the foods that build up tissue and repair damage from fatigue or nervous wear and tear.

You thins probably do not think of rest in connection with diet. You need rest while you diet in order better to digest food.

President Hutchins Will Address Y. M. Graduates

Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, will deliver the commencement address tonight at the graduation exercises of the All-Central Y. M. C. A. schools at the Chicago Temple, Clark and Washington streets. It will be the first public appearance of President Hutchins since he was released from quarantine, following his illness with the mumps.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

APPEALS FOR CLOTHING.

"I have just gotten out of a sanitarium and am on a farm trying to get back my strength before I begin looking for a job. I am badly in need of clothes, which I can't buy, and I'd be thankful if you would get me some. I need a suit, size 38; shoes, 9½; a cap or hat, size 7½, and some shirts, size 14½. I will welcome any of these articles. F. B."

Presentable clothing would help to give this man the start he needs once he is able to begin job hunting. Won't you send him any in his size you are planning to discard?

Launch Move to Store Food for City's Poor

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

A campaign for the collection of foodstuffs for Chicago's needy was put in motion yesterday by the Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart, Episcopal bishop of Chicago. He appointed the Rev. Dr. Edwin J. Randall, executive secretary of the local diocese, as chairman of a church group which will operate a project known as "Friendly farms." Throughout the rural churches of northern Illinois groups of people will put up thousands of cans of fruits and vegetables under the bishop's committee's direction.

Bishop Stewart's announcement yesterday said that not only canned goods but also hundreds of bushels of potatoes, cabbages, beets, tomatoes, turnips, carrots, onions, and apples will be collected at rural churches and then shipped for storage in Chicago to be ready for use next winter among the poor and jobless.

The first step of the committee, Bishop Stewart announced, will be to call upon Episcopal churches seeking their cooperation in the planting of gardens. This plan already has been adopted in a number of local churches. At Belvidere the Episcopal church has developed what they call "the bishop's garden." Laymen of the parish cultivate the plot. In all rural sections farmers are allowed to pay their church pledges in produce.

Bishop Stewart has planned a number of trucking routes which will pick up the produce, and a central warehouse has been provided at 718 West Monroe street, where the foodstuffs will be stored and from which they will be distributed to various Episcopal institutions and organizations in the city.

Chicago Musical College Confers Degrees at Concert

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Alexander Joseffer, Willie Goldsmith and Marshall Sumner, pianists; Alexander Tannenbaum, violinist, and Adelaide Abbot, soprano, were the soloists in the commencement concert of the Chicago Musical college at Orchestra hall Wednesday evening. These young artists, the winners of a contest held on May 14, will receive musical instruments in addition to their positions as soloists.

The Chicago Musical College Symphony orchestra, directed by Leon Sametini, played the accompaniments, appearing also in a performance of Weber's "Euryanthe" Overture and in the "Idyll," by Allan Samar, another student of the institution.

"You know," said this attractive Mother . . . "I've been told that you have an instinctive flair for fashion. So I just came in to look around" . . . . This charming, value-wise and fashion-wise Mother later brought in her daughter. We three had a perfect festival of choosing pretty things . . . first for Daughter . . . then for Mother. "Who'd ever dream you could choose the newest Pique Evening Dress for $9.75?" said the happy Mother . . "Adorable," said the Daughter when she laid her eyes on a Flowered Print Frock. BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OLIN DUTRA.

Leo Diegel, registering this year from Agua Caliente and a favorite with the crowd of 6,000 following the matches, was second with 73. Gene Sarazen, the new British open champion, and Jose Jurado, the Argentine, were tied in third place with 74s. Walter Hagen, Lloyd Gulickson of Cleveland and Billy Burke, the present titleholder, all came in with 75s.

Fans Pick Wrong Players.

Young Dutra's sparkling round was the feature of the day, but most of the crowd missed it, the morning gallery being held by Sarazen and Burke and the afternoon crowd following Tommy Armour and Willie Macfarlane. The afternoon gallery was made up of 4,000 rabid golf fans and the attendants, armed with fishing poles, had their hands full keeping it from overrunning the course. There also was unusual police activity, with bluecoats stationed about the clubhouse and at several of the vantage spots near greens. Three burly policemen followed Gene Sarazen wherever he went. No bookmakers were seen on the course.

Dutra picked up a fair gallery when he started on the last nine, word having reached the clubhouse that he was burning up the course. He is a six footer, weighs about 200 pounds and hits a mighty shot. Born in Del Monte, Cal., 31 years ago, Dutra was a caddy out there when MacDonald Smith was the professional. He grew up with the Espinosa boys, who are well known golf players around Chicago as well as other parts, and is half Spanish, half Portuguese.

This afternoon Dutra did things to Fresh Meadow's championship layout that no one else has ever done. Dutra played every shot well and most of the time he was straight down the middle of some of the narrowest fairways that ever broke a golfer's heart. It was perfect golf. A drive, an approach and a couple of putts and he was down. At the eighteenth he was putting for a 68 and he almost got it. Mortie Dutra, Olin's brother from Long Beach, got a 77, and remained in the running.

The long, narrow, severely trapped fifth hole made Fresh Meadow just a lot of sour grass to a lot of players. It was the best barometer on the course.

When the last divot had been dug and the sandshowers were over there were 23 7s registered on this par 5 hole, a half dozen 8s, and Tom Cooley of Chicago had hung up an 11 to give him a score of 54 for the first nine.

There were only two birdie 4s made on the fifth today. Alex Geriale of Albany got one and Willie Kline got the other.

The players who went out in the morning got the breaks, as the wind increased in velocity during the afternoon and made low scoring extremely difficult. As a consequence a number of the stars came home in the late 70s. Joe Kirkwood had to fight to get a 76, and Harry Cooper of Glen Oak, Chicago, finished with a 77, after a flashy 35 on the first nine. Bobby Cruickshank, a veteran usually found up among the leaders, ran into 6s on the fifth and seventh holes and rang up a 78.

Sarazen's Putter Fails Him.

Gene Sarazen's golf was not his best today, but it still was of championship caliber. He played his round with Billy Burke only four over par, and would have had a better score if his usually trustworthy putter had been working. Gene got only one

GERMAN CLUB TO JOIN IN WELCOME TO RING CHAMPS

Orders 3,500 Tickets to International Bouts.

The German club, at its luncheon yesterday at the Atlantic hotel, enthusiastically prepared to join in the reception and entertainment planned for the amateur boxing champions of Germany when they arrive in Chicago for the international bouts at Soldiers' field against the Golden Gloves team.

Not only did the members of the club discuss the reception of the German champions, but they requested a reservation of 3,500 tickets for the club, which is the largest German organization in the city. Club officials asked for 1,500 fifty cent tickets; 1,000 $1 tickets, and 500 each of the higher priced tickets. All now are subject to a 10 per cent federal tax. These tickets will be sold at the offices of the German club, 175 West Jackson boulevard.

Invite Schmeling.

The German club expects to provide tickets for its members and their friends and orders will be accepted until July 10 when an accounting will be made with the Golden Gloves ticket manager of THE TRIBUNE.

The club also extended an invitation to the German champions to attend its annual picnic July 17 at which the club also expects Max Schmeling. Acceptance of the invitation by the German team is contingent on arrival in Chicago by that date.

H. C. Hintzpeter, president of the German club, asserted that the international bouts would be one of the greatest sports events ever held in Chicago.

"We are pleased that THE TRIBUNE has arranged to have the German champions meet the Golden Gloves team," he said. "Many of us saw the international matches last year against France. This year we are gratified that the German team was selected over those of other nations. And those German boys will provide tougher opposition than did the French.

"Germany Belongs on Top."

"I'm certain that Chicago's German population will welcome an opportunity to see the fatherland's boxing champions. Many of us feel keenly the defeat of Max Schmeling, although we scarcely can call it a defeat if reporters and radio announcers were accurate in their descriptions of the championship fight in New York. We will look to our amateurs to convince Chicago that Germany ranks at the top in boxing."

Those present at yesterday's luncheon were:

Carl W. Schmidt, Louis Knabe, Oscar A. Stoffels, John Gutknecht, Michael F. Girten, Arthur C. Lueder, Otto F. Reich, James F. Todd, B. W. Denisha, John C. Eich, treasurer of the German club; Otto Wulf, Ernst Buehler, William Rothman, Robert G. Scheunemann, president of the Germania club; August Torpe Jr., Albert W. Weinberger, William F. Jacobs, C. G. Kuechler, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, H. C. Hintzpeter, president of the German club; T. A. P. Schlichting, Walter W. L. Meyer, Lee V. Roeder, Joseph P. Immel, Walter J. Fiesch, Henry W. Olschner, F. A. Neef, William C. Scherwat, Karl M. Vitsthum, Arthur R. Seyferlich, F. E. Spoerer, H. C. W. Laubenheimer, and Dr. A. C. Fusheck.

Protest Schmeling Decision.

The German club yesterday took official notice of the Schmeling-Sharkey fight in New York in which the world's heavyweight title passed to Sharkey by a 2 to 1 vote of the judges and referee. After listening to accounts of members who saw the fight the club unanimously approved of the following telegrams to Schmeling and the New York state boxing commission:

"Max Schmeling: With pride in your conduct we greet you and regret the unsportsmanlike treatment you have suffered."

"New York boxing commission: We, the governors of the German Club of Chicago, speaking for our members and all Americans of German blood in this community, herewith add our protest against the unfair and unsportsmanlike decision rendered in the Schmeling-Sharkey fight. We believe this decision is one of the darkest blots the name of American sportsmanship has ever suffered."

Gehringer Injured in Auto Crash; Out Several Days

Detroit, Mich., June 23.—[Special.]—Charley Gehringer, Detroit second baseman, will be out of the lineup for several days because of injuries incurred last night when his automobile crashed into a viaduct rail.

PLANNING WELCOME FOR GERMAN BOXERS

Members of the German club of Chicago met at Atlantic hotel yesterday to discuss plans for the reception of the German boxing champions who will arrive July 17 for their battles with the Chicagoland Golden Gloves fighters at Soldiers' field on Tuesday, July 26.

Schmeling Has 'No Complaint' About Decision

New York, June 23.—[Special.]—"I have no complaint to make about the officials. I believe all three of them who judged the fight were honest in the opinions they rendered. Of course I thought I won—but I have never uttered one word of protest against the verdict."

Max Schmeling, whose world heavyweight title was shorn from him by a two to one vote of the New York state athletic commission officials in Tuesday night's battle with Jack Sharkey, made this statement this afternoon.

"I never questioned the officials either before or after their appointment to handle the bout. What has happened is history. We can't change the decision by talking about it," he said.

Jacobs Didn't Mean It.

"Yesterday I had a talk with Joe Jacobs and ordered him to stop complaining about the decision. All that talk did no good and it only stirred up feeling that was not good for boxing."

On top of this startling statement of Schmeling, Joe Jacobs followed with his official announcement:

"I lost my head when I talked over the radio and said Max had been robbed. I was excited and disappointed at the outcome of the fight. What I said was in anger and now that I have had time to cool off I'm sorry for the foolish things I might have said."

Smith Considers Suit.

Gunboat Smith, referee of the fight, was advised by his attorney to bring suit against Jacobs because of the inferences by Jacobs that Schmeling had been robbed. Smith, who has been advised by wealthy friends in the Wall street sector that they will stand the cost of court proceedings, will put the matter up before the New York state athletic commission tomorrow and follow that body's advice.

WALKER BATTLES RISKO TONIGHT IN CLEVELAND

Cleveland, O., June 23.—(AP)—The twice postponed bout between Johnny Risko and Mickey Walker will be staged tomorrow night at Cleveland stadium. Victor by decisions over Risko in their two previous bouts, Walker quit training today for the 10 round fight, the first in the stadium since the championship battle between Young Stribling and Max Schmeling last July.

Yale Crew Wins First in Annual Harvard Series

New London, Conn., June 23.—(AP)—Yale took the first victory in the annual Harvard regatta today when the Eli combination crew defeated the Crimson eight three lengths over the 2 mile course. Yale's time was 10:28.3, Harvard's, 10:40.

Tomorrow evening, for the 70th time in 80 years, the varsities will pull out of Bartlett's Cove on an ebbing tide and swing down the river to the railroad bridge four miles away. In the morning, as a general tightener for the excitement of the evening, the freshman and then the junior varsity eights of the ancient rivals will race two miles upstream on the varsity course.

20 Decathlon Stars Compete at N. U. Today

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Five events of the decathlon will be held this afternoon at Dyche stadium, Evanston, starting at 2 o'clock. Tomorrow morning the remaining five contests will be staged and from the list of 20 candidates will come America's decathlon team, which will compete in the Olympics at Los Angeles in August.

This afternoon's events are: 100 meter dash, broad jump, 400 meter dash, shot put, and high jump. In all there are six field events, three running races, the longest of which is the 1,500 meters scheduled for tomorrow, and the 110 meter high hurdles.

The makeup of the decathlon, naturally demanding all around athletic supremacy, lends itself to those who excel in the field. The present American record, established last year by Jesse Mortensen, was based on his skill with the javelin. Mortensen at one time held both the national collegiate and intercollegiate javelin titles.

Bausch Is Favorite.

Jim Bausch, who rates as favorite since Mortensen will not be competing, bases his marks on superiority in the discus and shot put. His weakness is the 1,500 meter race which, in general, is the nemesis for decathlon candidates. Wilson Charles Jr., former Haskell Institute athlete, is another strong contender.

Points are scored in each of the ten events, 1,000 points indicating that the athlete has equaled the 1912 Olympic record for the event. Eight thousand points for ten events is excellent, but it will require 200 or 300 more to win the Olympic decathlon. The world's record is held by Jarvinen of Finland, whose 1930 mark surpassed the Olympic record set by Paavo Yrjola in 1928 and Yrjola's mark of 8,187.3 points made two years later. Jarvinen's world record is 8,255.475 points.

Olympic Trial Tomorow.

Event—	Yrjola.	Jarvinen.
Total points	8,187.3	8,255.475

Discus	130 ft. 1¼ in.	119 ft.

Tomorrow afternoon a sectional tryout for the Olympic track and field team will be held at Dyche stadium. The first three in each of the events, or more if the contestants better the arbitrary standard laid down by the committee, will be eligible for the semi-final meet at the same stadium July 2. The first three in each event in that meet, providing their records are sufficiently good, then will go to the west coast for the final meet at which the American team will be selected.

Two Prep Champs Entered.

Two Illinois state high school champions will compete in the sectional trials tomorrow. They are Robert Stephens of Joliet, and Vange Hurnett of Libertyville, shot put and discus title holders, respectively.

The arbitrary standards of excellence for tomorrow's meet, which will determine qualification for the Olympic semi-final July 2, follow:

Freeman Scores K. O. Before Foe Lands Punch

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 23.—(AP)—Tommy Freeman, former welterweight champion, knocked out Lee Sala of Donora in the first round of a 10 round bout tonight. Freeman met Sala with a volley of body blows and Sala sagged without returning a punch.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Philadelphia Athletics and the White Sox yesterday started out to entertain a ladies' day crowd of 25,000 with a deliciously clownish ball game, but George Earnshaw, who had contributed one of the afternoon's many drolleries, suddenly grew serious and spoiled everything. The A's won the final, 4 to 3, thus splitting the four game series.

Despite the fact that the A's outhit the Sox, 12 smacks to 4, Ted Lyons and the Sox should have won, two runs to one, on an earned run basis. But the Sox committed five errors to four by the visitors, and three of the Chicago misplays came in tough spots. Incidentally, Lyons has allowed a total of only three earned runs in his last two games, both of which were losses.

There were other amusing features aside from the efforts of some of the players to field baseballs, the hilarity starting off when a small dog ran amuck on the field, causing the entire Philadelphia cast to abandon baseball and concentrate on its capture with flying tackles and all manner of antics. Finally Foxx caught the dog, which brought out a lot of punning under the general heading of "this is news." Well, you should have heard the gals laugh and holler.

Suffering Bob Suffers On.

There was more fun when Catcher Charley Berry tried to puncture Umpire Geisel's bosom protector with his index finger in the course of a debate, and it was funny to see all the fielders dance under flies because of what is technically known as a high sky, which is as confusing to ball players as that other standby of confused ball players, sinus trouble. Williams, Hodapp, Foxx, and Cochrane were victims of the high sky, all being lucky they weren't hit in the head instead of simply getting charged with errors.

The distress of Bob Fothergill at the plate and the perplexity of Billy Sullivan in trying to play first base were other amusing matters. Fothergill, the hitless cleanup hitter, again failed to hit, bringing his record to 21 times at bat with a total of one scratch single off a pitcher's glove. Suffering Robert was at bat only four times yesterday, but twice was given additional opportunities when Foxx and Cochrane dropped his fouls. Three of the four Philadelphia errors, in fact, were on Fothergill pops, the first being on a fair ball which enabled the first run of the game to score.

Billy Needs a Sextant.

Sullivan never seemed to know just where to play, and Appling and Hayes each had to take an error on throws which a more graceful performer could have handled.

The first run made by each team not only was unearned but exceedingly cheap.

The Sox got theirs first—in the first inning. Selph singled, with two out. Fothergill lifted one of his pop-ups to Williams, on the edge of the grass, back of second. Dib juggled the ball and before he could recover it Selph had scored. Simmons then backed against the left field wall to capture Hodapp's fly.

The A's first tilt run came in the third inning and tied the score. Hayes' first error put Williams on first with

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 23.—Either the Phillies are improving or the Cubs are failing apart.

It seemed to be a little of each today when the Chicagoans, in their final game of their first invasion of the east, stood up before Burt Shotton's firing squad and were executed by the shameful count of 16 to 10. It was the year's worst beating for the Cubs, but it wasn't severe enough to jar them out of first place, if that is any consolation.

CHUCK KLEIN.

The easiest way in which to explain the sad happenings is to mention that the mauling Quakers mistook Guy Bush and Jakie May for a pair of batting practice pitchers. They shaved off Bush's side burns with a six run blast in the third. They got after him again in the fifth, when an error provided an opening, and chased him just in time to let May sneak in and permit Chuck Klein, the hammering Hoosier, to hit homer No. 21 with the bags loaded. And even with all this the Phils still were out for amusement in a big way in the sixth, so Jakie was taken for another ride that netted the last five runs.

Tenth Defeat on Road.

Phil Collins, the Chicago butcher shop proprietor, received credit for handing the Cubs their tenth defeat in seventeen starts since straying away from home; but it was a sort of hollow honor. The westerners clawed him for a four run lead in the second, but he tightened right up and remained that way until after his mates had revealed their terrifying batting talents. Then Collins began to get fidgety, as is his custom, and the Cubs clouted him hard at the finish. Among the last minute taps, which at least made the score look better, were homers by Stanley Hack and Gabby Hartnett.

Bush didn't start his afternoon's assignment in an impressive manner. He set down the first two men and then pitched himself into a peck of trouble. He walked Klein, probably out of fear. Hurst spun Grimm around on a single down the first base line, and Klein went to third. Whitney drew a pass. Then with the bags filled Hack picked up Lee's sharp grounder and stopped the fuss. However, the Phils made up for this a bit later.

A walk to Moore with one out in the second sent the Cubs away to the four run lead which didn't last long enough to be enjoyable. Moore went to third on Grimm's long single to right center. Hartnett drew a pass, loading the bases. Hack then bounced a single over second to score Grimm and Moore. After Bush had been retired on an infield roller, English slashed a two bagger to center, Hartnett and Hack crossing the plate. The incident was concluded on Herman's grounder to Whitney.

All After Two Out.

Klein doubled against the right field fence after two were gone in the third and for the next few minutes there was real action. Hurst singled to right to score Klein. Whitney walked. Lee bounced a phoney single past Hack and Hurst registered. A single to center by V. Davis moved Whitney across the plate. Friberg accounted for another pair by tripling to the bleacher in left center. Then Bush was insulted beyond words when Collins picked on him for a single which scored Friberg with the sixth run.

Friberg should have been the third out in the fifth, but English let an innocent roller scoot through his

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

A band of nearly 100 hopeful shooters traveled over the course of the Sunset Ridge Country club yesterday in the seventh annual stampede, seeking par, but only two of them were able to come within speaking distance of same. They were J. N. Heath of the home club and Harry Wolf of North Shore, each with 161 for 36 holes. Heath won the prize on the toss of a coin, but Wolf came in for two prizes himself, one for his afternoon gross of 79 and the other as a member of the low net foursome in the morning play.

George Walzer of Milwaukee submitted the best net effort for 36 holes, turning in a card of 172—32—140. The winning low gross foursome for the day was composed of C. T. Frykman and H. L. Strickler of Sunset Ridge, H. Elston Pease of Nippersink and W. F. Arnold of Edgewater, who had an aggregate of 704. The best low net was scored by a quartet including E. N. Golding and L. T. Ellis of Sunset Ridge, C. Zepp of Tam O'Shanter and C. A. Parliment of Exmoor. They had a net of 600.

Other prize winners were:

Low gross, morning—H. Elston Pease, Nippersink, 86.

Low net, morning—J. H. Blakney, 86—17—69.

Low net foresome, morning—H. Gillogly, W. G. Rambeau, and Dr. R. E. Mock of Sunset Ridge and Harry Wolf of North Shore, 290.

Low net foursome, afternoon—Charles Jernegan, E. J. McKernan, and T. F. McNally of Sunset Ridge, and William Stahl, unattached, 301.

C. A. Parliment, Exmoor, 165—32—143; G. W. Bay, Sunset Ridge, 179—34—145; C. T. Frykman, Sunset Ridge, 167—20—147; Dr. H. E. Mock, Sunset Ridge, 185—36—149; W. G. Rambeau, Sunset Ridge, 192—42—150; Harry Wolf, North Shore, 161—8—153; Paul Gerhardt Jr., Sunset Ridge, 205—50—155; D. J. Donahue, Sunset Ridge, 195—38—157, and Julian Burnham, Glen Flora, 181—22—159.

Chet Williams of Bob o' Link, one of the best business men golfers in the Chicago district, demonstrated that his 151 in the recent Hullabaloo was no fluke by shooting a record 67 yesterday while competing for Bob o' Link in the third series of matches in the North Shore Golf league at Illinois. He tied the amateur course record and was three strokes from the 64 set by Al Espinosa.

Sunset Ridge continued to set the pace in the league by defeating Evanston, 17½ to 9½. Other results were: Illinois, 17; Skokie, 10; Bob o' Link, 15; North Shore, 12; Knollwood, 14; Westmoreland, 13; Glen View, 15; Wilmette, 12. Briargate won from Exmoor by default. Among the best medal scores were 73's by Billy Childs and Rial Rolfe of Sunset Ridge, a 74 by Josh D'Esposito of Illinois, and a 74 by Dick Gambrill of Illinois. The next series of matches will be held at Westmoreland on July 14.

Williams' card:

More than 150 members of the Chicago Oil Men's club and their guests played over the No. 1 course at Medinah yesterday in the club's annual tournament. P. A. Watson and H. L. Robinson won the members' blind bogey prizes with 75s, while E. W. McLean and R. E. Peck were the victors among the guests with similar scores. H. A. Niles had the lowest score on the four long holes [the 2d, 6th, 10th and 18th] with 11, and C. P. Hirth was high with 39. R. E. Smith had the lowest number of fours, coming in with seven on his card. C. E. Gauer was low on the four short holes [the 7th, 9th, 12th and 16th] with 11 and C. P. Dolan was high with 30. R. E. Geyer had the best total, 22, on five blind holes [the 7th, 8th, 9th, 17th and 18th].

Mrs. George A. Bliss, Mrs. W. T. Bown and Mrs. W. E. Thorsen were the victors yesterday in the weekly women's event at Olympia Fields. Mrs. Bliss won in class A with 101—15—86, Mrs. Bown in class B with 101—18—83, and Mrs. Thorsen in class C with 100—28—72.

A twilight mixed foursome event over 9 holes was inaugurated yesterday. The winners were Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. Sharp, with 51—15—36, and Mr. and Mrs. Evan Rees, with 45—8—37.

Dutra Breaks Par with 69 to Lead Open

break on the putting green, but that was a great one. On the sixteenth he was lying almost 35 feet from the pin, after a difficult second shot approach. The green sloped sharply down to the pin from where his ball rested. Gene was a bit disturbed, for he had missed holing out an approach shot on the fifteenth by half an inch.

"Here's where we even up the breaks," announced the doughty little star, who likes to kid his gallery. He did exactly that. The ball rolled easily down the hill and dropped in.

It was Gene's first and only birdie for the day. He was as confident as ever tonight that all of his putts would be dropping tomorrow.

Wind Bothers Armour.

Tommy Armour had a lot of trouble with the wind this afternoon and finished with an 83, much to the disappointment of the large gallery cheering him whenever he gave them the opportunity. Armour had a 38 on the first nine, but sand traps and the rough and erratic putting cost him three 5s and two 6s on the last nine. Armour was pulling his shots badly at the finish and none of his clubs appeared to be working right.

The grass lining the fairways of Fresh Meadow is lush. It also is thick and tough. Almost every player discovered that fact today. Not all of them discovered a way to beat it.

One of those who suffered most was Tommy Miyamato, the Japanese champion. The Nipponese golfer met his downfall on the treacherous fifth hole. He drove out of bounds, had trouble all the way to the green, and took three putts to get down, giving him a disheartening 10 for the hole.

Jurado Shoots a 74.

José Jurado, the Argentine, however, remained right up among the leaders, with his 74. The man from the pampas went out in 35, hanging up a couple of birdies. Coming back was a bit tougher, however, and it cost him 39.

Johnny Farrell was another of the stars who found the rough hard going. The slender stylist in golf shots as well as golf clothes, was not hitting a straight ball today and his putts had a disconcerting habit of rolling past the cup.

Abe Espinosa of Chicago came in with an 83. He had a great deal of his trouble on the first nine. Johnny Lehman of Olympia Fields, Chicago, found No. 5 not at all to his liking, taking a 9, and an 87 for his first day's score.

Jones Says Injury Helps Dutra.

Tonight the clubhouse buzzed with conversation about Olin Dutra and his 69. The young Californian played with a swollen right wrist, heavily bandaged. Bobby Jones expressed a belief that the favoring of his right hand by Dutra probably had a lot to do with his sensational score. The Atlanta golfer, who is not playing this year, thinks right hands cause a great deal of trouble when used with too much strength.

Dutra's friends described him as a golfer who never lets down. They were betting he would be out in front again tomorrow night. Dutra was of that opinion himself, but he was not talking very much about it.

The course was in splendid condition today, recent rains having kept it from becoming sun baked.

GIRL SWIMMERS QUIT COAST CLUB; ROW OVER TRIP

Los Angeles, Cal., June 23.—(AP)—Five girl swimmers, headed by Georgia Coleman, national diving champion, and Josephine McKim, holder of several world free style records, bolted the Los Angeles Athletic club today after a squabble over sending a team to the national Olympic tryouts at New York July 15 and 16.

The club had promised to send Miss Coleman and Miss McKim to the trials, but because of the expenses decided not to send Miss Jennie Cramer, Miss Marjorie Lowe, and Miss Noreen Forbes, members of the relay team.

Parker Upsets Lott in 5 Set Tourney Duel

Frank Parker, a 16 year old Milwaukee schoolboy, upset George Lott, America's second ranking player, yesterday afternoon in a five set battle on the clay courts of the River Forest Tennis club. His victory, by 6-3, 2-6, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, enabled him to enter the semi-final round of the western tennis tournament.

Harris Coggeshall, defending champion, was a victim of another upset. He was eliminated by Gilbert Hall of East Orange, N. J., 6-4, 0-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Too Accurate for Lott.

Lott contested every point, calling into play all of the famous strokes in his repertoire, but his opponent, fighting every inch of the way, routed his championship aspirations with an accuracy that invariably placed the ball into unprotected regions.

Coggeshall, who already had two legs on the Western cup, faltered before the forehand drives of Hall, seeded second in the draw.

Junior Coen, after losing the first set when he was leading, 5-1, came back strong to defeat Fritz Mercur of Bethlehem, Pa., 5-7, 7-5, 6-3, 6-3.

Coen will play Parker in the semi-finals tomorrow. Hall will meet the winner of today's match between Lester Stoefen of Los Angeles and Wray Brown of St. Louis.

Catherine Wolf, who is expected to present the only formidable opposition to Mrs. Stanley Hack in the women's division, received somewhat of a scare from Helen Fulton, but pulled her match out of the fire, 6-4, 7-5. Mrs. Hack defeated Vera Trayford, 6-0, 6-2.

Doubles Play Starts.

Doubles competition got under way yesterday, but the activity consisted mainly of advancing the seeded teams to the third round. With only one important men's singles match scheduled for this afternoon play today will concentrate on moving along the tardy matches in the women's singles and in the doubles divisions.

GOSLIN'S 3 HOME RUNS TURN BACK YANKEES, 14-10

Ruth, Gehrig Also Connect as Browns Win.

St. Louis, Mo., June 23.—(AP)—The Browns won another game from the New York Yankees today, 14 to 10, to get an even break in the four game series. Goose Goslin walloped three home runs and batted in seven runs. Lou Gehrig, playing in his 1,103d consecutive game, celebrated tying Jake Sewell for the second best record for long distance playing by clouting his 18th homer of the year in the fourth inning. Babe Ruth hit home run No. 22 in the seventh.

Gehrig still is far behind the all-time major league record of 1,307 consecutive games, made by Everett Scott with the Red Sox and the Yankees, but he has accomplished a feat of his own. The first of his long string was played with the Yankees on June 1, 1925, and he never has played with another club. Neither Scott nor Sewell did all his work for one club. Score:

TIGERS BEAT RED SOX AGAIN, 6-3

Detroit, Mich., June 23.—[Special.]—Neither Bob Weiland nor Ivy Andrews was able to halt the Detroit Tigers, who took advantage of four Boston errors today to set down the Red Sox, 6 to 3. It gave Detroit a clean sweep of the four game series.

Tommy Bridges, Detroit pitcher, will be out of the game for several days, physicians said, as a result of stopping a drive off Dale Alexander's bat with his wrist in the fifth inning.

Braves Gain on Cubs with 8-7 Victory

Boston, Mass., June 23.—[Special.]—Maranville and Spohrer collaborated in the tenth inning today to give the Boston Braves an 8 to 7 decision over the Dodgers. Maranville opened the rally with a single and Spohrer followed with a triple.

As the Cubs lost to the Phils, the Braves cut Chicago's hold on first place in the National league to a game and a half. The Braves were leading, 7 to 6, going into the ninth, but Brooklyn tied it up. Each club used three pitchers, both Dazzy Vance, who started for the Dodgers, and Sucks Selbold, who opened for Boston, being driven to cover early in the afternoon. Score:

CENTRAL LEAGUE TAKES CHARGE OF SOUTH BEND CLUB

South Bend, Ind., June 23.—[Special.]—Maurice Klein, owner of the South Bend Central league club, must raise $1,500 by Saturday or forfeit his franchise, Edwin O. Miller, league auditor, announced today. If the franchise is forfeited, it will go to Wheeling, W. Va., he said.

Players have approximately one month's pay coming. This and $150 due for equipment, is the only debit the club has, however.

Starting with Erie series today, Miller will have complete control of the team. Tomorrow's game has been made part of a Saturday double header. Prices have been reduced from 50 cents to 35 cents in the grandstand and from 25 cents to 20 cents in the bleachers.

After the Erie guarantee is paid, the entire receipts from Saturday's double header will go toward back wages. Miller attributed the club's troubles to poor business management, as evidenced, he said, in Judge K. M. Landis' decision which gave two players back pay.

Lee Dunham, formerly of Decatur, Ill., was awarded $187.50 on Landis' ruling that the club had no right to fine him on a charge of inciting a player strike. Dunham presented an affidavit signed by every member of the club to the effect that he had not tried to incite trouble.

SPORTS CHATTER.

INTERNATIONAL tennis appears to be "tightening up." French supremacy, with its defense of the Davis cup, is more seriously threatened than for several years. This thought is impelled by Henri Cochet's unexpected defeat at Wimbledon by an unrated player. Perhaps it was just an off day, but it shows the possibilities.

In this tightening up process it is uncertain whether the United States or Great Britain will be challenger in the championship round. Ellsworth Vines, youthful American champion, has shown a tendency to be erratic, although that is in part explained away by his unfamiliarity with turf courts prevalent in England. At any rate the United States has a good fighting chance against both Great Britain and then against France, if it downs Britain.

From this distance the French seem still to hold an advantage, but their net citadel is not impregnable as it was a few years ago. Youngsters are coming along to take the place of the Old Masters when they retire, so there is no danger of French decadence.

Since the retirement from active competition of the incomparable Bobby Jones, and Walter Hagen occupies a less secure position among the pros, golf has been tightened up. Golf, anyway, is more uncertain than tennis. In both amateur and open title competitions there is an element of uncertainty which makes up in part for the absence of the popular and spectacular Jones.

Report that another Australian horse, Ammon Ra, will visit these shores this fall attracts more attention than it would had it not been for Phar Lap, which met an untimely end just after he had been hailed as a super horse. It is not claimed Ammon Ra is as great as Phar Lap, but the fact that he comes from the country of Phar Lap gives advance prestige. There is a popular appeal in international sport.

But it is our contention
Is nothing much to mention.

The Democrats will soon be here

And be our next dictator.

We hope they'll come in long hip boots
To meet the waves and crashes;
We know when they step on their plank
'Twill be so wet it splashes.

The Bulletin of the Chicago Medical Society warns its members that "It has been reported to the secretary's office that a man is calling on the profession. He makes arrangements for an operation to be performed and also decides on his hospital accommodations. During the course of the examination, in conversation, he informs the doctor that he is connected with the Log Cabin Stock farm and offers to place bets on the horse races. That's the last the doctor sees of him."

The Bulletin neglects to state whether or not this man was intrusted with any wagers by the doctors.

Sox Rest Today; Tigers Come to Town Tomorrow

The White Sox will have a day off today. Detroit comes to town tomorrow and will remain through Monday. Sam Jones probably will pitch the Detroit opener.

Yesterday's game was played in 1:52, not counting six minutes it required to capture the pooch which ran hither and thither during the first inning. The last three games, in an average of about 1:37 per game, is most unusual.

The Sox had a record of six victories and ten defeats during the eastern visitations just terminated.

American Giants Halt Cooneys' Winning Streak

The Weaver-Cooneys' six game winning streak was broken last night when they lost a twilight baseball game to the American Giants, 9 to 1, on St. Rita field.

one out. Cramer singled to center, putting Williams on third. Cochrane flied to Funk and Williams apparently was out at the plate. Umpire Geisel started to call him out, but wound up calling him safe, thus precipitating frenzied gyrations by Catcher Berry, all of which did him no good whatsoever. When the game was resumed Simmons flied to Fothergill.

Sox Earn a Couple.

In their end of the third the Sox grabbed their two earned runs and wound up their scoring for the day. Lyons drew the only pass of the day off Earnshaw and stopped at third on Funk's double. Lyons scored and Funk went to third on Hayes' fly to Cramer, and Funk scored on Selph's single.

The A's got their only earned run in the fourth. Foxx beat out a bunt, paused while Miller flied to Fothergill and stopped at second on McNair's single off Selph's glove. Dykes flied to Funk for the second out, but Earnshaw singled to center, scoring Foxx. Williams fanned.

In the fifth Cramer was safe on Appling's throw, which Sullivan couldn't quite handle. After Cochrane had grounded to Selph, the Sox, especially Selph, thought Carey had started a double play. But it was ruled as only a forceout of Cramer at second. Simmons singled to center, putting Cochrane on third, from where he scored on Foxx's long fly to Funk.

George Goes Houdini.

The last of Earnshaw's whimsical spirit appeared in the fifth. With one out, Funk grounded to Foxx and Earnshaw ran over to first with his gloved hand placed against the middle of his back near the base of his spine while he ran away from the ball. Just how he expected Foxx to get the ball in the glove was a matter that caused the gals to have another big, concerted giggle. Funk later got to second, but no farther.

The winning run was put over midst great confusion in the sixth. McNair was safe on Hayes' second error. Dykes sent a slow bouncer to Hayes and beat it out. When McNair observed that Appling had forgot to return to third he made that station on Dykes' little scratch. Earnshaw tapped in front of the plate and McNair was sunk at the plate, Lyons to Berry, Dykes stopping at second. Williams singled to left and the bases were full. Dykes then scored the winning run while Cramer was grounding out to Selph. Cochrane fouled to Appling.

Only 12 men faced Earnshaw in the last four innings. Hodapp singled with one out in the ninth, but Sullivan hit into a double play to end the contest.

Klein's 80 Wins Forty and Eight's Golf Tournament

Sixty members of the Forty and Eight society of the American Legion competed in the third monthly tournament at the Evergreen Golf club yesterday. The two one armed veterans, Sheriff W. C. Meyering and Joseph Dorfman, engaged in the outstanding match of the day, Sheriff Meyering winning, 2 up.

Herbert Klein of the Westmoor Country club led the low gross winners, shooting 41—39—80. Other victors were J. L. Johansen, 50—41—91; Judge W. E. Helander, 48—43—91; Chick Conway, 53—45—98, and William Wilson, 53—45—98.

Sol Sackheim, with a card of 107—34—73, won low net. Jack Miller turned in a 104—30—74 to take second place, and Harold Schrabski won third prize with 112—37—75. Judge Matthew D. Hartigan, W. A. Mooney and Joseph Delacoer tied for fourth low net with 76.

Paul Armstrong, commander of Cook county, captured the highest gross with 140, while highest net went to Sigmund Northeifer with 135—46—89. R. E. Bates won low gross for guests with 51—47—98, and Edwin Conklin low net with 92—16—76.

The Roseland Kiwanis club golf team defeated the Roseland Lions' club by ten strokes at the Silver Lake Country club yesterday. Thirty men played on each team. J. H. Dokker won low gross with 92. Cliff Wood, with 93, was second and James Crane was third with 94. Harvey Gardner, with a card of 95—25—70, won low net. The blind bogey prize went to E. A. Mahlmstrom.

AMERICANS WIN FROM CANADIAN WOMEN AGAIN

WINNIPEG, Man., June 23.—(AP)—American women golfers gave par a closer battle today than western Canadian women stars, and the team of eight players from midwest United States won the first international series here.

The United States team has a 16½ point lead, which the Canadians will not be able to overcome in the singles matches tomorrow, the only remaining event in the series.

The women stars played against par today, the United States team starting with a lead of 9½ points obtained yesterday in foursome matches. At the finish today, the Americans were 61 strokes from par to 71 for the Canadians. Individual net scores were:

UNITED STATES—Mrs. Austin Pardue, Minneapolis, 76; Mrs. W. H. Tupper, Chicago, 76; Anne Webster, Leavenworth, Kas., Jane Weiller, Chicago, 78; Mrs. H. E. Raymond, Chicago, 81; Mrs. Lennox Nairn, Chicago, 82; Mrs. Robert Bullard, Springfield, Ill., 83, and Mrs. W. W. Hearther, Chicago, 84.

CANADA—Mrs. J. Des Brisay, Winnipeg, 75; Mrs. K. W. Beairsto, Winnipeg, 77; Lois McLaren, Winnipeg, 81; Mrs. Reg Rideout, Regina, 81; Mrs. B. P. Pellens, Winnipeg, 82; Mrs. Gordon Konants, Winnipeg, 83; Mrs George Koester, Winnipeg, 84, and Mrs. W. Gill, Winnipeg, 85.

PHILLIES POUND BUSH AND MAY; CRUSH CUBS, 16-10

hands and the Phils immediately swarmed on Bush with their second devasting assault. Collins singled again and G. Davis did the same to fill the bases. Bush could not get the ball over for Bartell. He walked and Friberg was forced to score. Bush also took a walk and disappeared. May strolled in to the vacancy and made one throw to Klein. The last seen of the pitch was when it disappeared over the right field barrier for No. 21. That made the score 11 to 4.

More Runs for Phils.

The Cubs continued to be generous in the sixth and the Phils probably figured they might as well take advantage of it. They hung up five more. This little affair opened with a single by Whitney. Lee bunted, but May threw wild to second, letting Whitney go to third, whence he scored on V. Davis' single. Friberg tapped into a forceout, but Collins tripled to center, counting two more. The remainder of the inning was made up of a single by G. Davis, a pass to Bartell, and Hurst's fourth hit. In the middle of this insurrection May fanned Klein, and that was something.

After four innings of futile batting against Collins, the Cubs came up with a run in the seventh on Hack's drive over the right field wall. Stephenson opened the eighth with a single. Moore singled, but was thrown out trying to stretch it. Grimm also singled and Stevie scored. Then Hartnett sent his homer into the seats in left. The two picked up in the ninth were the result o fa single by Herman, Cuyler's triple, and Stevie's long fly.

Cubs Move On to St. Louis; Start Series Tomorrow

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 23.—The Cubs and Cardinals left here this evening on the same train. They hope to arrive in St. Louis by dinner time tomorrow. The series there will be made up of single games on Saturday and Monday and a double header on Sunday.

A suit of clothes is nothing to the affluent ball players. Billy Herman left one hanging in his hotel room when he checked out today, but Trainer Andy Lotshaw, who does most of the thinking for the team, not to mention all the work, retrieved it.

The usual 2,500 were on hand for the final. And, as usual, they praised nobody. When there was no opportunity for abuse they kept quiet and hoped.

The record for the long journey to date is one win in three starts at Pittsburgh, one win in four at Brooklyn, two wins at Boston, an even break in four at New York and one victory in four efforts here.

BRIGHT KNIGHT'S KIDS ARE FAST! HERE'S ANOTHER

Knight's Call Wins Victoria Purse in 1:36 3-5.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Old Bright Knight, the thoroughbred sire who resides on Audley farm down in the valley of Virginia, will have a thing or two to tell his cronies when they start whittling and spinning yarns out in front of the village store this morning.

He will puff out his chest and tell 'em what great guys his sons, Gallant Knight and Knight's Call, have turned out to be up in Chicago.

In his southern brawl he will remark: "Two of the fastest kids anywhere in the world, I reckon." He's got a perfect right to do it. For Gallant Knight, now 5 years old, ran a mile in 1:35 3-5 at Washington Park a few days ago. Yesterday Knight's Call, a 4 year old, stepped out on the same track and reeled off the same mile in 1:36 3-5.

Wins Victoria Purse by Length.

While doing it he won the Victoria purse by a length from Yonkel, which was three lengths in front of Con Amore.

About a year ago Knight's Call was given up as a very hopeless cripple. His underpinning was bad and he couldn't stand the rigors of a hard campaign. His ailing dogs quit barking a few months ago and Knight's Call proved in the Victoria that he is as good as ever and gave warning that he is likely to go on to more sensational performances.

This was a different sort of race from that which Knight's Call usually runs. In most of his triumphs he has been far out in front or at least has forced the pace. In the Victoria he was trailer in the early stages. He ran fifth in the seven horse field until he hit the lower bend and got ready to head down the stretch. Con Amore was leading, Karl Eitel was running second, and Prose and Poetry was third, looming up dangerously.

Gangway! Here They Come!

Then the fireworks started. Jockey Schutte began driving Knight's Call and Johnny Maiben brought Yonkel up from last place into contention. The stretch run had no sooner started than they had conquered the early leaders and began a little fight all of their own.

Knight's Call was leading and Yonkel was a nose back of him. A sixteenth out Yonkel's nose showed in front. It was just for a second that he enjoyed the lead. Knight's Call, running in next to the rail, rallied and came again and was going away all through the late stages. Con Amore was badly whipped but managed to save third money. Knight's Call whizzed the quarter in :23 2-5, and the half in :46, but slowed up a bit then and his time later on was not so fast.

There were about 12,000 in the grounds and a lot of them wagered on Knight's Call. He paid $7.46 to win, $3.42 to place, and $2.46 to show. Yonkel was at $4.14 to place and Con Amore at $2.26 to show.

Higher Takes a Trimming.

Knight's Call might have been backed with more confidence if his stablemate, Higher, a favorite, hadn't been so soundly beaten in the Wild Rose purse which was decided 30 minutes earlier. Higher showed early speed but his courage weakened in the stretch and he wound up last. Dark Hope was the winner, Our Fancy was second, and Cathop landed third money.

The race was at seven furlongs, so Higher, if he is any good at all, cannot be anything better than a sprinter.

McAtee Coming West to Ride Widener Colt.

New records are probable at Arlington Park during the 39 days of racing starting Monday, it was indicated yesterday when George D. Widener's crack four year old Jamestown worked three-quarters of a mile in 1:12. The 1930 juvenile champion proved conclusively that he is in fit condition for his first race of the season, which is scheduled to be the Arlington Inaugural handicap.

The son of St. James and Mlle. Dazie, which won six out of seven races as a two year old, including the Saratoga Special and Futurity, and captured the Withers last spring, was in a running mood and settled into his pace quickly. He moved the opening furlong in :11 2-5 and the first quarter in :22 3-5. He was timed in :34 2-5 for the three-eighths and the half in :46 2-5, after which Trainer A. J. Joyner held up his hand for the exercise boy to slow down. Jamestown was timed in :59 for the five furlongs and 1:12 for the three-quarters.

Joyner expressed himself as being satisfied that Jamestown is ready for the races and announced that Linus McAtee is expected to come from New York to ride the colt Monday. McAtee has handled Jamestown in all his starts.

Another noteworthy training effort was that of Stepenfetchit, Mrs. John Hay Whitney's candidate for the Classic. The colt that finished third in the Kentucky Derby went seven furlongs in 1:26 and was eased up a mile in 1:40 3-5. Mrs. John Hertz's Pairbypair also was asked for speed and was timed seven furlongs in 1:28 3-5. Both three year olds worked out easily.

Weights for the Arlington Inaugural Handicap were announced yesterday. Gallant Knight and Jamestown each were assigned 122 pounds. Polydorus is next on the weight list with 117 pounds and Sun Meadow, another eastern flyer, will pick up 114 pounds. Silverdale, winner of the last two runnings of the Inaugural, gets in at 108 pounds. Risque is assigned 115, Epithet 113, The Nut 111, War Saint 105, and Burning Up 108. Zone is the lightweight of the party with 92 pounds.

The loud speaker blurted out "The Sidewalks of New York" at Washington Park yesterday when Mrs. Al Smith arrived. The same "Sidewalks of New York" was played when she appeared at the cashier's window after the second race to collect a ticket on Old Hillside, which paid $61.50 for a two dollar ticket.

In Mrs. Smith's party were Mrs. Dan Mooney, Mrs. W. J. Bryar, Mrs. T. Egan, and Mrs. A. C. Stephan.

There were other happy Democrats in the crowd. Little Tom Taggart, the prince of French Lick Springs in Indiana, was discovered cashing a ticket after Sis Agnes won the third race; Hamilton Cotton of Los Angeles was playing his own handicap figures, and United States Senator John Cohen of Atlanta was holding his own.

SEEK TO RELIEVE TAX ON REALTY IN ROAD FINANCING

Counties Ask State to Pay 15 Million Gas Levies.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 23.—[Special.]—The Illinois County Highway Superintendents' association recommended to the state road commission today revisions of policy and law that would relieve real estate taxation in financing traffic facilities. The commission also heard delegations from Du Page and Will counties.

The county superintendents, through their president, R. L. Schoenberger of Princeton, asked that the state, with its gasoline excise, pay to counties in the next biennium $15,000,000 due as the state's 50 per cent portion of the cost of pavements built by counties and taken over by the Illinois department. Cook county would get $6,800,000. The payments would enable counties to reduce their general property road tax.

Right of Way Improvement.

The superintendents also suggested that the commission investigate with a view of reducing the $12,000,000 annual township road tax. The association further urged that the state gasoline tax, rather than local property assessments, be spent for acquisition of right of way for improvements rural and urban on the Illinois highway system, and that the state install and maintain the signs, electric signals, and other safety devices on these routes.

For construction with state funds in municipalities the county officials favor that the Illinois department retain supervision over expenditures, just as it supervises the counties' use of their 1 cent from the gasoline tax.

The superintendents recommended that the state be given authority to renumber its routes, dropping duplications and inconsistencies that now confuse traffic. State Engineer Sheets sponsored such a bill at the last regular session of the legislature, but it did not pass.

Argue for Tax Reductions.

William H. Beathke, chairman of the Du Page board of supervisors, reported arguments for property tax reductions through the state's assumption of all the cost of right of way. If the state should decide to add more roads to its system, the Du Page men suggested paving 75th street and Butterfield road across the county, extending Grand avenue to the Fox river, extending Devon avenue to Ontarioville, building the tri-state highway north to Higgins road and constructing another north and south road from near Naperville, through the western section of Wheaton to the Higgins road.

A Will county delegation, headed by Senator Richard Barr, asked for 130 miles of pavement, including extensions of Western and Harlem avenues and of the Southwest highway, the completion of a belt line around Joliet, a road connecting Indiana No. 8 with Monee, a continuation of route 59 from Troy to routes 4 and 113 south of Wilmington, and a continuation of route 53 from Lockport to route 59 south of Plainfield.

LINDBERGH TO BE CALLED FIRST IN CURTIS TRIAL

New York, June 23.—[Special.]—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will be the first witness called by the prosecution when John H. Curtis goes on trial Monday in Flemington, N. J., on charges of obstructing by his elaborate hoax the search for the flyer's kidnaped son.

COL. CHARLES A. LINDBERGH. [A. P. Photo.]

Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck Jr. thinks a jury can be selected by noon. Col. Lindbergh probably will be on the stand all day, since the state wants to get the full story of how Curtis, a Norfolk, Va., man, duped him with a story of having been approached by representatives of the kidnapers.

The New Jersey state police have been checking up on a story told by a Negro taxicab driver, who said that on the night of April 2, when Dr. John F. Condon, acting for Col. Lindbergh, paid out $50,000 ransom, his taxicab was hailed by a woman and two men who had him drive them to the point in the Bronx where the ransom was paid. One of the men was disguised, wearing a false nose, the Negro said.

He claimed that the disguised man got out of the cab and was gone for a few minutes. When he returned, all three had him drive them to the 125th street ferry.

EMMERSON PLAN ON WAGES GIVEN TO MINE GROUP

Springfield, Ill., June 23.—[Special.]—A proposal by Gov. Louis L. Emmerson for arbitration of the wage differences between Illinois coal miners and operators today was referred to a subcommittee of both groups for consideration "without restrictions."

After consideration the subcommittee will report to their respective committees, and, in turn, to the entire wage scale conference.

"I had hoped that an agreement would be reached speedily and that the more than 50,000 miners who have been idle since April 1 would be put back to work," Gov. Emmerson said.

"If ever there was a time when every honorable means should be thoroughly tried out to maintain peace in industry, it is now."

Reconvene at Terre Haute.

Terre Haute, Ind., June 23.—[Special.]—After an ultimatum issued by mine operators of the district that they intend to "go nonunion" if a proposed $4 scale is not adopted the scale convention of District No. 11, United Mine Workers, reconvened here today. The outcome of the vote by the delegates is in doubt, but it is believed the scale will pass. The scale is opposed by strip mine workers who have been steadily employed through the strike at the old wage of $6.10 and who would lose income through the change.

COURT ACTION SEEKS TO MAKE PAINTER'S WORK HIS MEMORIAL

Mrs. Sarah F. Wadsworth, who died on July 24, 1925, left a fund of $21,429 to be used by the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, trustee, in the purchase of a painting which is to be given to the Art institute as a memorial to her son, Frank Russell Wadsworth, who died in Spain in 1905. Yesterday the bank asked court aid to determine whether it would be appropriate to purchase an oil painting by the son as a memorial to him.

Attorney Darrell S. Boyd filed a bill in the Superior court to construe the will of Mrs. Wadsworth. The bill explained the bequest, which directed that a painting by some "ancient or modern master" be purchased for the institute.

The bill said Frank Russell Wadsworth was born in Chicago in 1874 and studied in the Art institute, where he won many prizes before going abroad. He was an artist of high standing and ability, the bill said, and the picture chosen by the trustee, "Street Scene in Madrid," is probably his best work.

ALDERMEN PLAN THROUGH STREET SYSTEM REVISION

Ald. John A. Massen [48th], chairman of the council committee on traffic and public safety, yesterday appointed four subcommittees to consider revision of the present system of through streets. The four subcommittees will hold public hearings on the north, west, south, and northwest sides.

A proposed new system of through streets was recently submitted to the committee by its traffic experts. Ald. Massen told the committee that in recent years there has been a growing disrespect by motorists of the stop signs guarding through streets, partly because of the multiplicity of such streets, and partly because some of them no longer bear the volume of traffic to justify their designation.

Ald. Massen also told the committee that he understood loop property owners and business houses were organizing meeting to discuss the repeal of the loop parking ban. He urged that the aldermen attend such meetings if they are called.

City of Elgin Protests Its Death Rate Is Misleading

Dr. A. L. Mann, health officer of Elgin, protested recently to state authorities that in computing the annual death rate for the city, they had included deaths in the Elgin state hospital. This gave Elgin a death rate of 29.3 per 1,000 inhabitants, whereas the actual death rate, excluding the hospital, was only 10.3 per 1,000. Dr. Andy Hall, head of the state department of public health, suggested in a reply yesterday that if they wished to have hospital deaths removed from the vital statistics of their city, Elgin aldermen pass an ordinance placing the hospital outside the city limits.

FOULKES LOSES POINT IN FIGHT FOR $3,500,000

1st Birth Date Upheld in Morrison Case.

Attorneys representing William E. Foulkes, 4216 Langley avenue, who claims that he is the son of the late Capt. Edward W. Morrison and heir to the $3,500,000 Morrison estate, yesterday requested Judge Thomas Taylor Jr. of the Circuit court to allow them to change the date of Foulkes' birth for purposes of litigation from 1859 to 1857. Foulkes is before Judge Taylor on an appeal from a Probate court ruling which held his claims void.

The original petition of Foulkes to set aside Capt. Morrison's will fixed his birth date as April 17, 1859. This petition was filed in 1930. Since then attorneys for the Chicago Title and Trust company, executors under the will, have produced evidence to show that Morrison was on a whaling ship from November, 1857, to the end of 1858 and could not have been the father of Foulkes.

Refuses to Permit Change.

Judge Taylor ruled that the date would have to stand in the records as shown from the first. Preceding the ruling, however, there were arguments between Attorney Lewis F. Jacobson for the trust company and Attorneys Robert D. Melick and Frank H. Repetto for Foulkes.

Mr. Jacobson declared that the attorneys for Foulkes were not acting in good faith in seeking the change of the birth date and that they had changed their position only after he had shown that Capt. Morrison could not have been Foulkes' father.

In defending their good faith, Attorneys Melick and Repetto produced a baptism record from the Immanuel Lutheran church of Chicago to show that Ernest, son of Jacob Meck and his wife, Marie, nee Prange, born on April 17, 1859, had been baptized on June 30, 1859. They asserted that this document was of no use to them if they were allowed to prove that the birth of Foulkes occurred two years earlier.

Proves Point, Jacobson Says.

Mr. Jacobson maintained that the record proved his own contention that Foulkes was the son of Jacob Meck and not of Capt. Morrison. It has been claimed by the Foulkes side that the captain was married to a Marie or Mary Prange. The connection between Foulkes and "Ernest Meck" was not explained in court.

Several witnesses testified that they had known the Morrison family, and that they had never known of Mary Prange. A Bible identified as belonging to the Morrison family had no record of a son who could be Foulkes.

The Morrison will left $100,000 to be divided among fourteen relatives. The rest of the estate was to be administered by the trust company to found a home for aged men and women.

Besides Foulkes, two women who claim to be adopted daughters of Capt. Morrison are also appealing from the Probate court decision that held their adoption void. They are Mrs. Alice Schenker and Mrs. Margaret Brown, sisters, of Dearborn, Mich.

BATHING RESORT FOR FAIR WILL BE BUILT ON ISLAND

Plans for the transformation of 1,400 feet of sandy beach into an elaborate bathing resort were announced yesterday by World's Fair officials. The beach is on Northerly island between the Adler planetarium and 16th street.

Seven hundred cubicles of modernistic design and fantastically painted like those used in Berlin will be built soon. Bathers will change from street clothes to swimming suits in these huts. There will be a standard Olympic pool, 120 by 60 feet, where races, diving exhibitions, and water polo contests will be held. The pool will be filled with salt water three times a week.

Other plans call for a Swedish gymnastic green, 150 by 40 feet, a casino, an indoor ice skating rink, an outdoor roller skating rink, water wheel, and water toboggan.

Judges are surveying the names suggested for the exposition amusement area opened recently on Leif Ericson drive south of 23d street. Prizes will be awarded to the winners by industrial concerns.

TWO ARE KILLED IN PLANE CRASH ON INDIANA FARM

Terre Haute, Ind., June 23.—(AP)—Paul Cox, 36, and William R. Root, 30, both of Terre Haute, were instantly killed tonight when Cox's plane crashed on a farm 14 miles south of here. The two were returning home after having flown to Owensboro, Ky., this afternoon to visit friends.

Cox, partner with his father in an automotive parts wholesale firm here, was considered an expert pilot, having been credited during the world war with bringing down two enemy planes in combat.

Witnesses to the crash said the plane was flying low when it suddenly nosed up and then turned nose down and crashed.

Killed as Plane Falls 300 Feet.

New York, June 23.—[Special.]—Frank P. McGuckin, a transport pilot, was killed today when a Waco plane which he was testing over the Jamaica sea airport went into a nose dive less than 300 feet above the ground and crashed.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

HAVANA, June 23.—A bill suspending constitutional guarantees throughout Cuba for a year and granting authority to the chief executive to prolong the period for another two years was signed by President Machado today.

The new law will go into effect immediately upon publication in the official gazette, thereby prolonging the military rule which has been in effect since Dec. 11, 1930.

In this legislation congress has given President Machado the power to keep himself in office by force of arms until the expiration of his term in 1935. The present drastic course, it is explained, was taken to end attempts of the opposition to terrorize the régime into resigning.

TEMBLORS, TIDAL WAVE TERRORIZE MEXICAN STATE

Known Death Toll Near 100; Fight Pestilence.

COLIMA, State of Colima, Mexico, June 23.—(AP)—This smallest state in the republic virtually was demoralized today in the wake of a month's siege of earthquakes, which culminated in a tidal wave that took about 100 lives.

Gov. Salvador Saucedo appealed for the help of the world Red Cross as he gathered reports of the wrecking of the resort town of Cayutlan and felt the inadequacy of federal and state forces on hand.

The capital, already burdened with the injured of earlier quakes, today absorbed some 2,000 refugees from Cayutlan.

Governor Sleeps in Park.

All of these, including the governor himself, were sleeping in the parks, afraid to return to the shelter of what homes remained lest the dreaded shocks return.

Appealing for food, medicine, money, and tents, Gov. Saucedo said not much money was necessary, but that unless some came immediately the death toll would grow greatly.

Wave Strikes Twice.

Almost everybody had hurried to the open beach for protection from the quake, when the rushing wall of water caught them. Many were crushed against buildings as the water surged inland. As it returned to the sea many others were swept out to sea and drowned.

Only the main business streets were left undamaged. Federal troops and state employés were trying to clean up the débris today, as all residents have been evacuated. Thousands of fish, tossed high and dry all over the town, were being raked into piles and burned to avoid possible pestilence.

RESERVE BANK IN N. Y. REDUCES ITS MONEY RATE

Action Seen as End of Gold Threat.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York yesterday cut its rediscount rate to 2½ per cent. The rate had been 3 per cent since Feb. 26, when it had been reduced from 3½ per cent.

This action was taken to mean that the reserve authorities no longer regard the possibility of continued gold withdrawals as a serious threat and are going ahead with the "easy money" program initiated early last spring.

The weekly report of the condition of the twelve federal reserve banks yesterday also bore out this interpretation. The reserve banks in the week ended June 22, this report showed, had icnreased their investments in United States government securities $37,500,000 to a new all time record of one billion 729 million dollars. In the preceding week purchases of such securities had totaled $47,640,000.

Change in Gold Tide.

The decision of the reserve authorities to pursue their "easy money" scheme with renewed vigor lends significance to the change in the tide of gold. It is regarded as a pretty good indication that fears of continued heavy gold exports have subsided.

After a long period of decline yesterday's report showed that the twelve reserve banks had a little more than held their own, total gold reserves on Wednesday being $2,562,000,000, against $2,561,000 the week before.

From New York yesterday came other good news about gold. The New York Federal Reserve bank reported a gain of $1,721,600 on the day's transactions. For the preceding seven days the gain in monetary gold had been $4,914,000. This was the first weekly gain since April 6. Yesterday's gold imports included $1,671,000 from Canada and there was a decrease of $50,000 in gold held for foreign account.

Reserve Notes Increase.

The weekly report of the federal reserve banks showed a decline from 57.9 to 57.8 per cent in the ratio of total reserves to deposit and federal reserve note liabilities combined. Federal reserve notes in circulation increased from $2,575,799,000 to $2,615,932,000.

In Chicago weekly reporting member banks indicated a drop from 916 to 894 millions in net demand deposits. Time deposits shrank from 882 millions to 374 millions. In New York reporting member banks' demand deposits dropped from 5,013 millions to 4,898 millions and time deposits were 755 millions against 758 millions the week before.

Brokers' loans Wednesday totaled 359 millions, against 402 millions on June 15 and 1,406 millions a year ago.

Seek to Expand Credits.

With gold withdrawals checked the federal reserve authorities are apparently more determined than ever to force cash on banks in the hope that it will percolate through to business men in need of credit.

This program of large scale purchases of United States government securities by the federal reserve banks was begun about the middle of April. It was argued that when the reserve banks bought governments the member banks would sell and have more cash to take care of demands of business men.

To date this result has not been achieved. In New York, for instance, last week the weekly reporting member banks increased their investments in United States government securities about three millions, instead of decreasing them, and they decreased their investments in other securities about seven millions, instead of increasing them.

In Chicago member banks' investments in government securities dropped from 300 millions to 287 millions, but investments in other securities likewise dropped from 181 millions to 178 millions.

DOLLAR DOES BETTER

New York, June 23.—(AP)—Following its mild recession of the last two days the dollar braced itself in the foreign exchange markets today and with few exceptions advanced against other currencies. British sterling declined ¾ of a cent to $3.61¾ for cables.

French cables were 1-16th point lower to 3.93 7-16 cents. The belga was off 1 point to 13.92 cents. Swiss francs were down 1 point to 19.47½ cents. The Holland guilder was an exception to the general trend, advancing ½ point to 40.37½ cents.

There was a slump in Japanese yen, which closed at an all-time low of 27.87½ cents for cables.

Plan for Curtailment of Tin Output Approved

New York, June 23—(AP)—The modified Byrne plan for curtailment of production of tin has been approved by the signatory governments and will be put into effect on July 1, says the New York office of the international tin committee. The plan provides for cessation of production or rigid control of output in July and August, and thereafter for releases at the rate of 10 per cent a month for ten months of the metal so controlled.

Eastern Oil Companies to Cut Crude Withdrawals

New York, June 23.—(AP)—As a move to aid independent producers in marketing their product, leading eastern oil companies have agreed to curtail their withdrawals of crude oil from storage by 50 per cent, it was announced today by Thurman Hill, chairman of the Kansas public service commission, who has been conferring with oil executives. They are now withdrawing about 200,000 barrels daily.

Tightens Rules on Mixed Lots of Securities

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 23.—The governing committee of the New York Stock exchange acted today to stop abuses in connection with the sale of "package securities." The exchange laid down rules for member houses which definitely limit charges in connection with their sale.

"Comparatively recently," the committee said in a letter sent to members, "plans have sprung up for the marketing of securities in packages. Usually, the common stocks of from fifteen to twenty-five companies are included in such a package which consists of from one to five shares of the stock of each company so included.

"In marketing such shares it has been customary to add to the round lot price of each share the odd lot differential, transfer taxes, and in addition, a minimum charge on the shares of each company involved in the offer."

Charges Wide Abuses.

This method, the governing committee found, has led to wide abuses, and unless the methods prescribed by the committee are followed, member houses are forbidden to engage in such sales.

One of the plans evolved for the sale of package securities is to have one or more shares of each stock included in one of the many lists of securities from which market averages are compiled. The price of these packages, of course, varies from day to day and the practice in some instances, has been to sell at the high price of the day plus the various charges.

"At the time of initial offering the total price of the package to the investor, including charges, must be not less than $500.

"There must be reasonable diversification.

"Not less than five shares of the stock of any company must be included in each such offering.

Not Above 10 Per Cent.

"The total charge in addition to the round lot price of the included shares must not be in excess of 10 per cent of such round lot price. This charge must include odd lot differentials, commissions, transfer taxes, transfer charges, if any, and costs of distribution.

"Members and member firms are notified that any distribution of securities by them on a commission basis must adhere in substance to the features respecting charges set forth above."

CHICAGO STOCK MART SHARES DULL BUT FIRM

The same ticket symbols reappeared with monotonous regularity on the Chicago exchange tape yesterday. Most of the trading was limited to a few issues while the remainder of the list was allowed to doze in the inactive corner most of the day. Prices generally were firm.

Swift International and Cities Service got most of the attention The packing stock rose moderately to 18 and closed at that price. At the current quotation the stock is double its low for the year. Swift & Co. was also slightly improved but dull. After selling down to 2 Cities Service advanced to close up a minor fraction.

Commonwealth Edison was unchanged near 55 on light transactions. The financial community is awaiting the offering of bond issues of the Edison company and the two other Chicago utility properties. The first is scheduled to make its appearance early next week.

ASKS RECEIVER FOR COOK COUNTY TRUST COMPANY

K. E. Potter of Park Ridge yesterday filed a bill in the Circuit court asking the appointment of a receiver for the Cook County Trust company and an accounting of the funds of the organization.

The bill charged that the officers of the company, who also are officers of the now defunct Phillip State bank, transferred trust funds from the company to the bank, although knowing that it was an insolvent institution. The bill charged that the trust company owed Potter $2,380 as receiver for a property in which he was interested.

The bill asserted that this sum was deposited at the First National bank on June 6 and later transferred to the Phillip bank. The bank failed to open on June 21.

Loudon Packing company and subsidiary report net income for the fiscal year ended April 30, 1932, of $169,198 after all charges and federal taxes equal to $1.88 a share on 90,000 shares of capital stock outstanding. This compares with net income in the previous fiscal year of $384,533 equal on the same basis to $4.27 a share. The consolidated balance sheet as of April 30, reflects the excellent financial condition of the company, showing current assets of $894,381 ad current liabilities of $102,040, a ratio of 8.76 to 1.

Swedes Likely to Import Little Grain This Autumn

STOCKHOLM, Sweden.—(AP)—Indications are that Sweden's fall grain crop will be the most successful in several years, due to favorable spring weather, according to a report by the central statistics bureau here. It may be successful enough, the report states, to reduce Sweden's imports of wheat and rye to a considerable extent, perhaps to make the country practically self-sufficient in these grains.

STATE OFFICIALS O. K. MATURITY BOND VALUES

Adopt Basis for the Insurance Holdings.

The resolution introduced by George S. Van Schaick, New York state insurance commissioner, recommending that sound bonds held by insurance companies be valued on their maturity basis rather than on their present depreciated market price, was adopted yesterday by the national convention of insurance commissioners at their meeting at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

General acceptance of the provisions of the resolution by the insurance departments of the various states would be of great assistance to the insurance companies which hold considerable amounts of government, state, municipal, and other amply secured bonds, according to the commissioners' committee on valuation of securities.

The commissioners yesterday also adopted a resolution by which the convention as a whole expressed the opinion that an emergency exists on workmen's compensation insurance. They held that the stock casualty companies appear to be entitled to some kind of a rate increase to protect their solvency, although declining to state an amount of increase on premiums.

Affects Compensation Claims.

An acute situation is said to have arisen on workmen's compensation insurance as a result of the depression. The number of employés has declined and wages have been decreased. The result is that workers suffering from accidents have shown a tendency to malinger, either feigning more serious hurt than is really the case or else taking longer about getting well than necessary.

As a result of this situation the stock companies claim to have lost about $23,000,000 last year. James A. Beha, general manager of the National Bureau of Casualty Insurance Underwriters, helped present the case for the stock companies and asked a 25 per cent increase on rates.

On the other hand, the mutual companies contended that a flat 25 per cent increase is not necessary, holding that each state should determine the correct amount to be paid. A. V. Gruhn, manager of the American Mutual alliance, was one of the leaders in presenting the case for the mutual companies.

Limits Attention to Bonds.

At the annual meeting of the Chicago Association of Life Underwriters at the Sherman hotel yesterday John R. Hastie, associate manager of the Samuel Heifetz agency of the Mutual Life Insurance company, was elected president.

Other officers are: First vice president, R. L. Davis, Union Central; second vice president, P. G. Dallwig, New England Mutual, and treasurer, T. F. Lawrence, Reliance Life Insurance company. Directors for two year term are: Frederick Bruchhols, New York Life; H. N. Bokum, Massachusetts Mutual; W. N. Hiller, Penn Mutual; E. J. Smith, Provident Mutual; C. E. Clinton, Aetna Life, and W. W. Grosser, Guardian of New York. Directors holding over are F. D. Cummings, P. B. Hobbs, W. M. Liscom, T. G. Murrell, E. B. Thurman, and C. E. Smith.

Special 5 Cent Tax Does Not Apply to Loaned Stock

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 23.—One of the uncertainties surrounding the new federal transfer tax on securities was cleared up today by E. L. Swift, supervisor in charge of the New York office of the treasury department, who announced the special 5 cent tax does not apply to loaned stock, the regular 4 cent rate being charged. The 5 cent rate is applicable to all shares selling above 20, whether the security has a par value or not. There, therefore, was some uncertainty as to whether the special rate would apply to stocks loaned and selling above 20.

Seek President of Loan Group Short $1,000,000

Denver, June 23.—(AP)—Announcing a shortage of more than $1,000,000 in assets of the City Savings Building and Loan association of Colorado Springs, George A. Crowder, assistant attorney general, said a fugitive warrant would be issued today for Walter C. Davis, the president. Davis left Colorado Springs two weeks ago. Crowder said an investigation into the affairs of the $2,000,000 institution had been under way several days.

OVER $19,000,000 IN SIGHT AS ASSETS FOR KREUGER'S CREDITORS

New York, June 23.—(AP)—A $14,255,000 asset, the largest yet recovered, was restored today to the bankrupt International Match company for the benefit of its creditors.

James N. Rosenberg, counsel for the Irving Trust company as receivers, announced before Federal Referee Oscar W. Ehrhorn that he had effected an agreement with the Turkish government under which notes on a loan granted by the late Ivar Kreuger would be retired.

The notes mature at six months' intervals from 1933 to 1955 and represent amortization, plus interest, of a loan of 8½ million dollars made by the American Turkish Investment company, a wholly owned subsidiary of International Match, in consideration of a monopoly on the manufacture and sale of matches in Turkey.

Of equal importance was a stipulation drawn up by lawyers representing diverse interests in the case and approved by Referee Ehrhorn, whereby 350,000 shares of Diamond Match company would be sold for 5¼ million dollars at a profit of $1,450,000.

The stock was put up by Kreuger as collateral for a loan of $3,800,000 from the Bankers' Trust company and the National City bank of New York, the Union Trust company of Pittsburgh and the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company of Chicago. The banks will be reimbursed for their participation in the loan.

When the block of stock was offered at auction this afternoon the Diamond Match company bought it in at $14.75 per share after Referee Ehrhorn had fixed that price.

Under the terms of the stipulation the trustee does not surrender the right to sue for the entire sum involved, if it can be shown the money was transferred to the banks "illegally as a preference claim." Nor were the rights of the signatories destroyed as far as future action is concerned.

SALES BY SEARS IN JUNE PERIOD LARGEST IN 1932

Sears, Roebuck & Co.' sales for the four weeks ended June 18, the sixth period of the company's fiscal year, showed a slight gain over the preceding month, but a decrease of 18.5 per cent from the comparable weeks of 1931.

Sales were $24,200,341 for the period, larger than any similar period in 1932. In the preceding period sales were $23,333,220, while in the same weeks last year they totaled $29,813,376. The gain in the sixth period this year over the fifth was a reversal of trend from last year when a slight loss was shown at this time.

Sales for the first twenty-four weeks of 1932 aggregated $126,335,261, or 20.5 per cent below sales of $158,968,370 in the corresponding weeks of 1931.

BETTER BUSINESS REPORTED FROM GREATER BOSTON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., June 23.—A highly encouraging increase in industrial activity in Greater Boston was reported today by the bureau of commercial and industrial affairs of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. Twenty-eight new manufacturing industries were established during May, the bureau reports, and in addition several existing industries were extended. These developments increase the total of new industries in metropolitan Boston this year to 104, as compared with 21 in the same period last year.

France Cuts Foreign Wheat Quota for Flour Makers

PARIS, June 23.—(AP)—The amount of imported wheat that may be used in French flour was cut today from 45 to 40 per cent.

A week ago the French government announced a cut from 50 to 45 per cent in the amount of imported wheat permitted. In May the 50 per cent regulation was promulgated pending the arrival of early wheat from southern France and north Africa. Foreign wheat had been gradually raised by a series of decrees because of France's grain shortage.

Bank Clearings Gain, Bradstreet's Reports

Check clearances for the week ended June 23 showed more than seasonal improvement at $5,040,122,000, compared with $4,448,690,000 in the preceding week, Bradstreet's reports.

SEVERAL PHONE GROUPS OMIT THEIR DIVIDENDS

The company controls several telephone manufacturing companies and foreign telephone operating companies.

Telephone Bond and Share company, which controls several domestic telephone operating companies, omitted the quarterly dividends of $1.75 on the 7 per cent first preferred, $1 on the participating preferred, 75 cents on the $3 first preferred, and 50 cents on the class A common. Telephone Bond and Share and Associated Telephone and Telegraph have many officers and directors in common.

Cuts Dividend Rate.

The Public Service corporation of New Jersey declared a quarterly dividend of 80 cents on the common stock, placing that issue on a $3.20 annual basis, against $3.40 previously. The reduction of 6 per cent in the dividend was authorized by the directors on Tuesday along with a similar reduction in salaries.

General Tire and Rubber company omitted the quarterly dividend of $1.50 on the preferred stock due at this time.

Conserves Cash Resources.

Directors of the Aetna Life Insurance company omitted dividend action on the company's stock, acting to conserve resources, and, according to President Morgan B. Brainard, "to leave unquestioned the ability of your company to fulfill its every obligation in the future as it has throughout its history." The company had been paying 30 cents a share quarterly. The regular quarterly dividend of 40 cents a share on Aetna Casualty and Surety company and 25 cents a share on Automobile Insurance company were declared by the directors of the respective companies.

Eaton Manufacturing company omitted its quarterly dividend of 12½ cents due at this time. Directors issued the following statement: "The company paid 12½ cents in February and in May, which were not earned during the current year. While these payments have not impaired the cash position of the company, directors feel that it is for the best interest of the stockholders to omit further dividends unless earned."

ECONOMIES ENABLE SOUTHERN PACIFIC TO PERFORM BETTER

Operating results obtained by the Southern Pacific company in May reflected some improvement over the previous month when a small deficit was incurred, but with a $5,396,000 decrease in gross in comparison with 1931, the balance available for charges last month was cut to less than $600,000, a decrease of $2,100,000 from last year.

Gross for the month totaled $12,444,703, a reduction of $5,396,092 from that of May, 1931, and net operating income amounted to $592,709, a decrease of $2,139,207.

St. Louis-San Francisco system reported for May a net loss of $892,919 after taxes and charges, compared with a net income of $11,175 in May, 1931. Gross for last month was $8,479,056, against $5,155,986 for May, 1931, and for the five months period $17,729,982, against $24,631,562 at year ago.

Delaware, Lackawanna and Western reported for May net operating income of $563, a decrease of $634,683 from the same months a year ago. Gross was off $1,505,412, at $2,739,150.

Minneapolis, St. Paul and S. S. Marie system, including Wisconsin Central, reported for May a deficit after charges of $835,856, compared with $605,487 for the like month a year ago. Gross was $1,801,910, against $2,519,856; net operating deficit was $215,762, against income of $8,954.

Wisconsin Central's net loss for May amounted to $285,035 after taxes and charges, against $204,296 for the same month last year; for the first five months, $1,503,036, against $1,525,962 a year ago.

N. Y. Leaders Agree on Plan to Aid Credit

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 23.—The committee of twelve industrialists and bankers headed by Owen D. Young, appointed some weeks ago by George L. Harrison, governor of the local reserve bank, to study ways in which credit placed in the market by the central banks could be made affirmatively useful, has set the seal of its approval upon the plan to expand trade acceptance financing among industrial companies. That became known today.

This plan for broadening trade acceptance finance was evolved by a group of industrialists headed by Irenee du Pont, vice president of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. Other active sponsors were A. W. Robertson, chairman of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, and Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors corporation.

Awaited Further Approval.

The industrialists have been awaiting approval of the scheme by the banking and industrial committee before initiating a general campaign to have their plan adopted throughout the country. They will now be able to proceed.

The committee approves of the plan as a constructive move to improve the business situation. In general it means that large companies which have credit so high and financial facilities so extensive that they do not need to avail themselves of trade acceptances shall nevertheless use them in their purchases and sales of goods in order to set an example and encourage the use of such instruments among smaller manufacturers and dealers who have a real need of such financial methods.

How Plan Works.

The buyer of electrical goods under the plan would be drawn upon by the manufacturer of electrical equipment to the amount of his purchase and would accept such a draft, which would then become a trade acceptance, payable at a future date agreed upon.

The trade bill then could be banked by the manufacturer, and since it would be two name paper one of the names being first class, it would not only be acceptable to a bank anywhere for purchase or discount, but would also be eligible for rediscount at any of the federal reserve banks. Conversely, the electrical manufacturer would buy raw material by trade bill, accepting instead of drawing such an instrument.

HARRIS TRUST OBSERVES 50TH ANNIVERSARY

The fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Harris organization was observed yesterday by the Harris Trust and Savings bank. The rise of the Harris interests began in 1882 with the formation of the investment banking firm of N. W. Harris & Co. The company expanded into a nation-wide distributing organization and was the pioneer in its particular field. The Harris Trust and Savings bank was incorporated in 1907.

The bank and the company have since been divorced, but the bank still carries on important bond distribution. The eastern branch of the bond organization was merged with the security affiliate of the Chase National bank of New York into the Chase, Harris, Forbes corporation several months ago.

Officers and directors of the bank held a dinner last night at the Drake hotel to commemorate the founding of the organization. A. W. Harris, present chairman of the board of the bank, and Howard W. Fenton, president, were speakers. John R. Macomber and Harry M. Addinsell, chairman and president, respectively, of Chase, Harris, Forbes corporation, attended the dinner.

MIDLAND UNITED COMPANIES PICK NEW DIRECTORS

Several new directors were elected to the board of various companies of the Midland United company group yesterday. Midland United is the Indiana holding company of the utility system formerly under Insull management.

Vacancies caused by the recent death of Robert M. Feustel, president of the company, were filled on several boards. William A. Sauer was named a director of the Northern Indiana Public Service company; Samuel E. Mulholland was elected to the boards of Public Service company of Indiana and the Indiana Hydro-Electric Power company, and Edwin J. Booth became a director of the Gary Heat, Light and Water company and the Chicago and South Shore and South Bend railroad. All these positions were formerly held by Mr. Feustel.

Three additional new directors were named to the board of the South Bend road to succeed Samuel Insull, Charles W. Chase and Thomas Hamilton. The new members are Mr. Sauer, Mr. Mulholland and Charles H. Jones. Dean H. Mitchell was made a director of the Gary Heat, Light and Water to succeed Charles W. Chase.

RAIL UNIONS ASK U. S. TO FINANCE FAMILY HEADS

Cleveland, O., June 23.—(AP)—Creation of a federal corporation to finance unemployed heads of households in amounts not exceeding $500 will be urged by the Railway Labor Executives' association.

The corporation for the unemployed would be similar to the Reconstruction Finance corporation and would be designed "to provide emergency loans for the purchase of necessities of life by unemployed heads of households who are ordinarily capable of self-support."

The plan was approved by the executives' association, composed of the heads of 21 railroad labor organizations representing 2,000,000 employés, at a meeting here today.

"This program," a statement by the association said, "will absolutely insure the early relief of several millions of the unemployed and the return of a large percentage of them to employment within the next 6 months.

"It will not cost the government ultimately as much as the Reconstruction Finance corporation will cost and it will positively create a mass of purchasing power, stimulate business, relieve agriculture and turn the tide of depression."

Industrials Most Active on London Stock Exchange

LONDON, June 23.—(AP)—Investment and industrial issues were the most active on the stock exchange due to continued buying. Argentine rails were better on favorable wheat news, while foreign issues eased. Home rails were weak following the cut in dividend by one of the large companies. The close was undecided.

Improvement in Paris.

PARIS, June 23.—(AP)—After an irregular opening the tendency improved, but rises in prices were moderate in the absence of buying. French rentes were heavy, especially the 1920 6 per cent issue. London bought its favorites and the market closed firm.

Berlin Closes Lower.

BERLIN, June 23.—(AP)—Prices on the boerse opened weaker and closed generally lower.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 23.—Nothing happened to disturb the share market's slumbers deep today. A few bank failures were reported from different sections of the country, a somewhat bigger batch of dividend casualties was posted and the usual run of statistics emphasizing the point that trade activity is yet to round the "turn" were on the boards, but none of them mattered particularly to the speculative crowd.

The market has been in the doldrums all week. Price swings of more than a point are few and far between and the turnover holds around the half million mark. Lausanne, Washington or Chicago seem to hold possibilities for the list but the star gazers in both bull adn bear camps are not venturing any forecasts on either.

Find Encouragement.

Chart readers profess to find some encouragement in the current dullness holding it to show that liquidation which has been bearing the list to low and ever lower levels for so long has about dried up for the time being at least. They point out that the market has held in about an average 5 point range for a fortnight or more now and that while the predominating tendency has been toward slightly easier levels, the list has not yet seriously threatened to violate its June 1 lows. For this reason, many with constructive leanings are counting on an upturn of more or less importance with the first bit of "bullish" news.

The tendency of today's dealings was toward slightly better figures. Various preferred stocks, like Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit, J. I. Case, Standard Brands, Crown Cork, and Westinghouse Electric, moved ahead from 1 to 4 points on light volume and fractional advances were the rule throughout the list.

Can Hits New Low.

A few prominent issues attracted attention by moving counter to the trend. With a dividend meeting scheduled for next week and misgivings over its outcome the vogue, American Can was under some pressure and dipped to a new bear market low. Industrial Rayon, American Locomotive preferred and Bush Terminal were other soft spots.

Tobacco shares headed by American Tobacco were features on the upside. This group has been subject to steady liquidation for weeks and today's performance started a round of speculation as to whether the shares have at last found a base from which they might be counted upon to stage a recovery.

Telephone Is Stronger.

American Telephone, which sank to a new all time low in yesterday's dealings, met with some support buying today and staged a moderate recovery.

Railroad shares were irregularly lower, with Atchison in the van of the retreat. The western road was under the handicap of popular expectations of a drastic cut in its dividend when its board of directors meet next week.

Sears-Roebuck advanced fractionally in spite of the 18 per cent decrease in its May sales reported during the day. Similarly, J. I. Case moved ahead in the face of further weakness in wheat. Pivotal shares lagged behind the special movers for the most part.

Hibbard-Spencer Reduce Dividend to 10c Monthly

Directors of Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co. have declared three monthly dividends of 10 cents each. The previous monthly dividend payable June 24 amounted to 15 cents. Yesterday's action places the stock on a $1.20 annual basis. The disbursements authorized yesterday will be made July 29, Aug. 26, and Sept. 30 to holders of record the preceding Fridays. The dividends bring the total declared so far this year to $1.20. Last year the company distributed dividends of $2.70 a share.

N. Y. BONDS DRIFT DESPITE RALLIES IN SOME ISSUES

Prices Hold Fairly Steady in Curb Trading.

New York, June 23.—(AP)—The bond market drifted today despite sporadic rallies in special issues and the apparent absence of any general urgent liquidation. Listlessness continued to pervade the majority of loans and high grade bonds usually kept their price changes within a fractional range.

The most active performers of the day were German government 5½s and Frisco Railway Consolidated 4½s. The reich issue declined in the early part of the session, but rallied for a net gain later following better news from the Lausanne conference. The Frisco bonds gained 2¼ points on reports that the road would get a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation with which to meet its nearby interest charges.

U. S. Section Steady.

Outside of a somewhat better tone at the Lausanne gathering there were few developments during the day that could be construed as affecting the market. The reduction of the rediscount rate to 2½ per cent was not announced by the New York Federal Reserve bank until after the close.

The United States government section held steady throughout. Gains of from 4 to 5 points were recorded by some foreign issues, including Hansa Steamship 6s, Harpen Mining 6s, El Salvador 8s, and Jugo-Slavia Mortgage Bank 7s. Brazilians and Columbians firmed and the Argentines steadied. Japanese obligations weakened in sympathy with the yen.

Curb Shares Drift.

The curb market continued to drift along in desultory trading today, with prices maintaining a fairly steady undertone. The Electric Bond and Share issues appeared largely to have discounted omission of dividends by Electric Power and Light on its common and "A" preferred issues, of which Bond and Share is a holder. Bond and Share common was about steady, and the preferred issues off fractions.

Commonwealth Edison was steady, as it was announced bankers were satisfied with the audit and prepared to go ahead with financing plans. A few preferred issues again broke badly in a thin market. Standard Power and Light preferred sold at 25, off 5.

Standard of Indiana was a firm spot in the oils, rising a fraction to within less than a point of the year's high. Imperial, a Standard of N. J. subsidiary, was also up a little. In the mines, United Verde, which recently ordered a 10 cent dividend against 12½ previously, sold at 2¼, off only ¼.

Industrials and specialties were mixed. Aluminum company, Swift International, and Royal Typewriter were up fractionally.

RAILROAD ENGINEERS STUDY STREAMLINED CARS TO GET SPEED

Stream lined motor cars designed for speed as a means of recapturing lost passenger business were discussed yesterday by members of the mechanical division of the American Railway association, who are holding their thirteenth annual convention at the Congress hotel.

The application of "stream line" to rail motor cars, according to a report submitted by the committee on automotive rolling stock, could be undertaken for the purpose of not only reducing air resistance at the higher speeds for the sake of increased economy, but creating a special high speed type of self-propelled rail motor car.

"By the creation," said the report, "of a special high speed type of rail motor car there should be some very attractive fields of application where traffic could be stimulated and built up to profitable amounts. Certainly, really high speed operation of comfortable, clean cars, free from the annoyance and discomfort of smoke and cinders should make a favorable appeal for patronage and should offer strong competition to both buses and airplanes. In view of the present day demand for speed, any agency tending to do this is worthy of consideration."

Due to the decline in passenger travel in recent years necessitating a reduction in operating expenses particularly over branch lines and elsewhere, where traffic is light, there has been a marked increase in the use of rail motor cars. Since Jan. 1, 1932, according to the report, 64 railroads in the United States and Canada have placed in service 769 rail motor cars. Eight years ago the average horsepower was 97.5, but this has gradually increased until today the average is 503 horsepower, while one unit is now being built containing 900 horsepower.

The railroads are also making a study as to the practicability of using rubber tired wheels on rail cars and also what can be done through the increased use of aluminum and similar metals to reduce the weight of passenger cars.

THREAT OF RUST CURBS SALES IN WHEAT MARKET

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Talk of infestation of black stem rust in spring wheat in the American northwest has started much earlier than usual this season. As the rust has only reached the apprehension stage, however, rather than being found in the wheat fields, the market was little affected.

The combination of heavy taxation on trading and uncertainty as to the future combined to reduce speculative interest in the market to a minimum. Prices held within a range of ¾c and closed to ¼c lower, the latter on the December. Old July was 48@48¼c; old September, 50⅛@50⅝c, and December, 53¼c, at the last.

Restricts Wheat Selling.

Routine news at the present time is attracting little attention from the traders, but there is considerable comment regarding the possibility of damage to the spring wheat crop by black rust. That tends to restrict selling. Weather conditions in the southwest were favorable for the winter wheat harvest. There is relatively little hedging pressure so far. The bulk of the Oklahoma and Texas wheat is reported as being absorbed by mills, with only a small percentage of the grain going northward into Kansas.

So far comparatively little hard winter wheat has been sold for export from the gulf, according to seaboard reports, with the basis for dark No. 1 hard around 1c over Chicago September for first half July loading. Winnipeg was easy on favorable weather reports and closed ⅝@⅝c lower, with July at 54⅛c in Canadian funds, while Liverpool was ⅜@⅝c higher, with July at 50⅜c.

Some Rust in Fields.

Leading Minneapolis line elevator cash firms in their weekly review of conditions in the northwest have mentioned the possibility of a black rust infestation due to the rank growth and the favorable weather for its development. The rust is said to have been found at a few points in the Dakotas. In commenting on this, R. O. Cromwell, the Lamson Bros. & Co. expert, says: "Black rust, which always shows on wheat first in its red stage, makes its appearance every year in the northwest about the time the crop is heading. By July 15 a trace or more of this rust can be found in most fields north to Winnipeg every year that rainfall and temperatures for the preceding two or three weeks have been normal or above.

"Some damage occurs every year in which the June moisture is abundant, but this damage may be slight, depending upon July and early August weather," according to Mr. Cromwell. "Moist soil, heavy growth, and still, humid days in July are favorable to severe rust damage if the plant stems have previously become well infested sufficiently early in the filling stage of the heads. A plant the stem of which is heavily infested is unable, practically, to fill further after the red stage turns to black. Experts can sometimes reasonably predict the amount of damage in a favorable rust year by about July 20 to 30, but only if they have traveled extensively following the virulence and spread as the season develops."

With a rust scare in the offing, even if under normal conditions it may not develop to any extent for several weeks, the trade is naturally apprehensive as to the outcome. Whether Europe will become anxious or not as to futures supplies is regarded by the trade as a mystery. At the present time the outlook is for a large crop in the American and Canadian northwest, while United States Agricultural Commissioner Paxton estimates the Australian acreage at around 18,000,000 acres, about the largest on record and compared with 14,500,000 acres harvested the last season.

Corn Has Narrow Range.

Corn traders lacked incentive to take a decided stand on either side of the market, with the result prices held within a range of ¼@½c, with the finish ¼@⅜c higher, scattered buying being responsible for the upturn, with offerings light. The country refuses to sell cash grain to arrive freely at the prevailing level of prices, and purchases to arrive were only 2,000 bu, while 7,000 bu were reported as having been sold for shipment. There was no change in the generally favorable character of the crop comments from the states of largest production. July finished at 30¼c; September, 32⅛@32⅜c, and December, 32⅝@32⅞c.

Oats closed unchanged, with buying by scattered commission houses offsetting local selling. July was 20½c; September, 20⅝c, and December, 22⅝c at the last.

Local interests were on the buying side of rye and the close was ¼c higher. July finished at 29⅝c and September at 32¾c. No foreign demand of consequence was indicated.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

It was said at the close that the technical position in wheat had improved and that the market was in excellent position to respond to any increase in buying, especially from the outside. A number of large local traders have shown more inclination to take the buying side on breaks and on any positive indication that there is to be a serious damage to the spring wheat crop in the American and Canadian northwest.

The popular belief is that should the spring wheat crop estimates be greatly reduced, coupled with the loss already known to winter wheat in the southwest buyers would take confidence and a good advance would result. In the meantime, a small waiting market is expected.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, June 23.—(AP)—Cotton goods were quiet today and gray cloths slightly easier. Finished goods are selling in moderate lots. Rayon prices continue irregular and rayon fabric trade is light due to price irregularity in part. Silks are being bought in small lots. Men's wear and women's wear goods are quiet. Burlaps show little change.

RAW SILK.

NEW YORK, June 23.—SILK—Raw, futures closed firm; sales 1,680 bales. July, $1.14@1.17; September, $1.18@1.20; December, $1.21. Open market quotations (sixty day basis), Shanghai steam extra B, $1.40; Canton double extra C, 14-16, $1.20; Japanese crack, double extra, $1.40.
